TEXTILE STRIKE CALLED FOR SATURDAY

Today

Two Californnia Surprises. Disgracefull Caricature. A Four Days' Week. Royal Betrouthal.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

SURPRISES COME from California. Senator Hiram Johnson, although hitherto elected on the Reepublican ticket, although not always a "regular" Republican, gets both the Democratic and Republican Senate nominations. Ordinarily that would be a mime day's wonder.

But Upton Sinclair a genuine, "always whan, always will be" radical is most only nominated for governor by the Democratic party of Califfornia, but nominated by tthee "largest primary vote ever giveen by that party in California." His overwhelming nominattion vil make conservatives thoughtful.

Mr. Sinclair promises, when elected governor, to pardon Mooney, serving a life sentence for murder, annd Mr Sinclair has many other splans to disturb the conservatives. For instannce, if the owners of factories can't make them pay, he will take them over annd the state will work them, giving jobs to the idle. It willl also take over farms not prrofitable now, "facing sale for taxes," and let the unemployed work them.

IF MR. SINCLAIR carvies out this plan he will learn various things, one of which is that when private enterprise cannot make a facctory or farm pay, operation by politicians will not easily make tthe thing profittable.

However, the late Alfred Henry Lewis used to say that a political candiidate is like a mule galloping arround the pasture, threatening to kick everything to pieces. Bbut "when he is between the shaafts, in harness, he goes along quietly like any other mule."

One caricature more or less makes no diifference to the President, willing to let the people judge of such things. But, all concerned in that Westchester exhibition should be ashamed of their blackguardly conduct in permitting a caricature of the President's wife to be publicly exhibited. That had not been done hitherto in America.

NEXT WEEK will be what those in favor of shorter hours would call "ideal week." Monday will be Labor Day. Saturday largely a day off. There will be only four reaal working days in the week. If only everybody were working and well paid Utopia would not be far away.

THE COURT CIRCULAR, read by every housemaiden in England, says:

"It is with the greatest pleasure that the King and Queen announce the betrothal of their dearly beloved son, Prince George, and Princess Marina, daughter of Prince and Princess Nicholas of Greece, to which union the King gladly has given consent."

This young couple, among the few remaining fragments of civilized royalty, may live to see many changes important to them. Prince George need never lose financially, at least. His present allowance of $50,000 a year may be increased to $75,000, but he could get more as a salesman over here, and earn it.

FOUR HUNDRED and fifty thousand dollars of silver came from China last Tuesday, and that worries the Chinese. They haven't learned the art of making good paper money, or printing, on yellow paper, flat bonds almost as pretty as solid gold. In one week Shanghai lost 37,900,000 ounces of silver.

CHIEF MAX BIGMAN, of the Montana Crow Indians, took his wife, four little Indian sons, four little Indian daughters, close to the geysers, boiling pools and growling steam outlets, of Yellowstone Park. His ancestors never dared go near that fearful place. Chief Bigman says he wanted to cure his family of superstition. Some civilized fathers might follow that example.

CHANCELLOR HITLER is said to have chosen Rudolf Hess to take his place in the event of death or illness. Stalin, Mussolini, Kemal Pasha, have made no such announcement.

But if they did make one it would not be important. It is easy to say: "This man shall succeed me," not so easy to make the people accept the chosen successor.

NO MAN WAS MORE polite than Johan Lang, public hangman in Vienna. He wore "full dress" with a silk "top-hat" at each hanging, walked into the cell of a man, condemned, introduced himself with a bow, and saying:

"I am very sorry you must hang. You will have a few minutes in which to make a last request."

Herr Lang, paid for each hanging $33.50, must divide with his assistants. New York's electric chair expert gets $150 and keeps it.

The Viennese hangman, crowded with work since the murder of Dollfuss, wears his dress suit no longer. Broken down nervously, he is in an asylum, but expected to recover.

WILL ROGERS from Moscow sends word:

"I never saw so many buildings going up in my life."

"Best minds" will note that their "early and complete collapse of Bolshevik Russia" seems to be strangely postponed.

In Russia, as here in the United States, everything is run under government regulations. It might pay to send an American commission to study Russian methods. Everybody is at work there.

MERCURY AT 46 BRINGS FROST

The weather man double crossed Pittsburgh again today by ordering an unseasonable cold which shattered all records.

Pittsburghers, shivering even in overcoats, guessed that today was even colder than yesterday. And it was.

The thermometer dropped to 46 degrees—three points below yesterday's low.

And that's the lowest figure for this date on the Weather Bureau records which go back to 1871. Previous low for this date was 49 degrees, in 1887.

Frost was reported outside the city, but Weatherman Brotzman doubted that it was heavy enough to injure crops.

As is his custom, Mr. Brotzman tumbled out of bed in his home at Brookside, beyond Mt. Lebanon, at 6 a. m. to take a peek at the thermometer.

Meanwhile in Pittsburgh the traffic police on corner beats wanted to know where the fire was. That is, they were cold in their coatless summer outfits.

And Acting Superintendent Jacob Dorsey announced that the winter outfits would not be worn before next week. Dorsey, weather prophet for the moment, said he didn't believe the cold spell would endure.

In this the weather man joined. He warned that there'll be more hot weather...well, we can complain about the heat then.

EARLE SHUNS PARLEY ON RELIEF

Democratic Nominee Firm Despite Blast From Pinchot

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot today called on George H. Earle to withdraw his refusal to attend the bi-partisan conference in New York on unemployment relief for Pennsylvania, but the Democratic gubernatorial nominee refused to reconsider his stand.

Earle said in Allentown, where he attended ceremonies dedicating a new federal building:

"I have nothing further to offer; I gave my reasons and they stand."

Pinchot, in Harrisburg, termed Earle's refusal to attend the conference tomororw "discourteous" and "damaging" and declared that if Earle "honestly wants to help the people of Pennsylvania," he would retract the refusal "to cooperate with the national administration which he professes to support," and would take part in the meeting.

'NOT A POLITICIAN'

Earle, who announced his refusal in Scranton last night in a statement and in a telegram to the Governor, said today the Governor will "find he is dealing with a man whose word is his bond." He added:

"The trouble with Gov. Pinchot is that he has dealt with politicians too long. I am not a politician."

Postmaster General James A. Farley, also attending the Allentown ceremonies, refused to comment on the controversy. He said:

"I am unacquainted with the situation and for that reason do not wish to be involved."

Meanwhile, in Washington, federal officials announced that the

Crooners Huskier Than Football Stars

HAMILTON, N. Y., Aug. 3.—(AP.)—Husky football players with brawny arms, bulging chests and sturdy legs may be fine physical specimens, but they actually have less chest expansion than crooners, flute players and horn tooters, according to Dr. H. NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller III was on duty today as foreman of a federal jury in a bankruptcy concealment case.

He told the court he is the son of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and is employed by his father as a clerk at 30 Rockefeller Plaza.

Tennis Star Held for Crash

An automobile driven by Dr. David O'Loughlin, 28, first ranking tennis star of Western Pennsylvania, and member of the junior staff of Pittsburgh Hospital, struck a woman on East Larimer avenue today.

Witnesses said the woman, Mrs. Santina Golnerolla, 74, of 6334 Dean street, stepped in the path of the young tennis champion's car.

Dr. O'Loughlin, who lives at 5655 Stanton avenue, was released on $1,500 bond.

He had planned to leave tonight for New York to represent this district in the national championships at Forest Hills, starting Saturday.

SINCLAIR TOLD 'NO POLITICS'

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt and Upton Sinclair, Democratic candidate for Governor of California, are going to have a talk, but not about politics.

Sinclair, one-time Socialist who carried off the Democratic gubernatorial primary in California Tuesday, asked the President yesterday for an appointment and it was granted with the understanding Sinclair would come to talk business. Mr. Roosevelt has been keeping out of state political campaigns and will adhere to this policy, no matter who the candidate is.

When Sinclair will see the President was not indicated, although it was considered likely he will come to Hyde Park where the President plans to stay several weeks.

Future Duchess Trapped in Raid

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Viscountess Nell Mandeville, the future duchess of Manchester, was among the 16 men and women who pleaded guilty today in Marlborough Street Police Court to frequenting a gaming house and were bound over for twenty pounds ($100).

The charges followed a police raid on an apartment in the Piccadilly district where a door was battered down and all present were arrested.

Child Dead, Cultist Father Accused

LONGVIEW, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—William Arrington has been indicted on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with the death of Juanita, his 4-year-old daughter. The charge came from his refusal to permit medical treatment of the child, insisting on leaving her care to the rites of a religious cult to which he belonged. Officials finally took charge of the girl, but she died in a hospital.

Guilt Matter of Figures, Wise Magistrate Proves

Magistrate Anthony Lucas became a combination Solomon and handwriting expert in Central Police Court today to decide that Julius Giantina, 22, of 1418 Hampshire avenue, was guilty of writing numbers.

A raid by city detectives netted several numbers books in a restaurant at 210 Smithfield street early today, and Giantina, the alleged proprietor, and Louis Hammond, 35, of 337 First avenue, a deaf mute employed as porter, were arrested.

At the hearing Giantina denied that he wrote the numbers and charged that the deaf mute owned the books.

Doubting the story, Magistrate Lucas ordered Giantina to write a column of figures, compared them to figures on the numbers slips, and pronounced them similar.

Proof or not, Giantina was fined $100 or 30 days in jail. Hammond was discharged. According to detectives, Giantina has been arrested four times before for writing numbers.

FORD BUILDS OWN STEEL PLANTS

$13,000,000 Mills to Supply All Needs Of Auto Maker

International News Service.

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—Henry Ford today declared his independence of steel manufacturers, announcing that he will spend $13,000,000 to build two new steel mills at Dearborn, to make all the steel needed for his vast industrial empire.

The Ford statement said the construction program will take about eight months.

The announcement said:

"When the new mills are ready Ford can produce 1,000 cars a day without buying a pound of steel in the market."

The plants are expected to turn out 1,500 tons of finished steel a day—36 different kinds, to supply every need of the Ford Rouge plant and the other far-flung units of the Ford organization.

The move will place Ford in a position enjoyed by no other large manufacturer in the world—completely independent of the steel manufacturing concerns.

Ford's Decision Means Small Loss Here

The decision of Henry Ford to produce all his own steel will mean the loss of a substantial volume of business to the Pittsburgh district, but it will not be great enough to materially affect the totals of steel production here, officials of steel companies said today.

They said that they were unable to make an exact dollars and cents estimate of the loss of business to Pittsburgh, but summed the situation up as follows:

The automobile industry uses about 30 per cent of the total steel tonnage of the country, but Pittsburgh mills make only about 10 per cent of this amount, since most of the mills here are de-

STEEL INDUSTRY CUTTING PAY

Led by the United States Steel Corporation, the steel industry today is completing plans to eliminate all Saturday work for salaried employes and to reduce salaries about 10 per cent. In some instances the salary reductions will run as high as 16⅔ per cent.

The corporation announced at its New York office this morning that it would put the plan into effect September 1 and that it would remain in effect at least until there is a marked improvement in operations.

Officials of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation and Republic Steel Corporation will take similar action.

The corporation's statement said:

"In view of the present basis of operations Saturday work is irregular and unsatisfactory. The corporation has, therefore, recommended to its subsidiaries that, effective September 1 and at least until marked improvement in operations takes place, Saturday work for its salaried employes be eliminated and salaries adjusted accordingly. This will involve a decrease of practically 10 per cent to all salaried classes affected."

Defense Rests In Clarion Trial of Leona Menser

By AL GOUGH.
Staff Correspondent.

CLARION, Pa., Aug. 30.—As the trial of Leona Menser neared the jury today, District Attorney M. H. Davis announced that he would not ask the death penalty for the 20-year-old girl accused of slaying her 61-year-old "mail order" fiance.

Recalled to the stand for a gruelling two-hour cross-examination, the girl stuck to her original story that John B. Kelly, Clarion County potato farmer, was slain accidentally. She reiterated that she had snatched a loaded revolver from his pocket to protect herself when he raised his arm as if to strike her.

At the conclusion of the cross-examination, the defense rested its case.

The jury of seven men and five women who yesterday afternoon heard from Leona the story of the shooting—the culmination of a two-day quarrel about a promise of marriage—will be asked to render a verdict of second-degree murder, the District Attorney declared.

ON STAND 3 HOURS

ORDER SENT 600,000 WORKERS

Giant Walkout to Shut 1,000 Mills as Peace Moves Fail

By The Associated Press

Developments in the labor situation included:

TEXTILES

General strike called in the cotton textile industry to become effective at 11:30 p. m. Saturday. Affecting about 600,000 workers, it is the largest to confront the administration.

STEEL

Employes of the Weirton Steel Company petitioned the National Labor Relations Board to order an election to determine who shall represent them in collective bargaining. (Story on Page 6).

United States Steel Corporation announced elimination of Saturday work for salaried employes beginning September 1, the change involving a salary reduction of approximately 16 per cent.

ALUMINUM

Negotiations between representatives of Aluminum Company of America and union, looking toward settlement of strike involving 18,000 men in four plants, to be resumed next week in Pittsburgh. (Story on Page 6).

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A general strike in the cotton textile industry was called today, to become effective at 11:30 p. m., Saturday night.

Workers in the wool, silk, rayon and synthetic yarn industries, estimated to number 600,000, were ordered to stand by for further orders. The first working day after the effective date will be September 4.

The order for the strike, the largest numerically to confront the Roosevelt administration, was ticked out over a telegraph key set up in the headquarters of the strike committee. It went to the local union headquarters over the country, which in turn will transmit it to their memberships.

BLAMES EMPLOYERS

Francis J. Gorman, strike chairman, said:

"We have exhausted every resource in the direction of peaceful settlement. We have been met, I am sorry to say, by an arrogance on the part of the employers that is amazing in this day and year.

"I emphasize to you that we are striking against the management of the industry. The Cotton Textile Institute can find nothing better to say in answer to our demands than to accuse us of striking against the government. Surely the government does not own the mills. They are privately owned, mostly by big corporations."

PLEDGE SUPPORT

From Charles S. Zimmermand, manager of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, came a pledge of full "moral and financial support" from 30,000 workers in the dressmakers' union local of New York City and congratulations were received from the Oil Workers International Union.

The strike became inevitable when manufacturers flatly rejected a proposal by the National Labor Relations Board for a conference with union leaders.

From New York George A. Sloan, head of the Cotton Textile Institute, told chairman Lloyd Garrison, of the Labor Relations Board, that the industry would not be "threatened" into amending the code.

VIOLENCE FEARED

The strike, indorsed by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor, will affect more than 1,000 cotton mills and, if protracted, may have a serious effect upon hundreds of communities in the industrial areas of the Eastern seaboard.

Fears increased that violence might mark the walkout in Southern areas.

William Stanley, assistant to the Attorney General, said today the Justice Department had no intention of sending agents into the strike centers. He said there was nothing before the department at this time to indicate such action would be necessary.

VIOLENCE MARKS TRUCK STRIKE

Violence broke out in the Pittsburgh meat truck drivers' strike today with a deputy sheriff and a truck driver and his aide the victims in two different assaults.

Two alleged strike sympathizers were arrested for assaulting the deputy sheriff. The others escaped.

Deputy Sheriff A. F. Johnston, of 1812 Winhurst street, and Deputy Sheriff John Hosek, of 1143 Goettman street, in one car, and a police detail in another, were escorting a Swift & Co., meat truck when three strike sympathizers in another car forced the deputy sheriffs to a curb at Stockton and Union avenues.

The sluggers forced the deputies from their car and started an attack. Johnston was knocked down. A shot was fired.

The police escort returned to the aid of the deputies and seized two of the three assailants, who gave their names as William Farbarik, 27, of 958 Lamont street, and Frank Bergern, 26, of 137 Almond way. They were taken to North Side police station.

A short time before, John McDermott, driver for the St. Louis Independent Packing Company, and his helper were attacked by assailants on Bryn Mawr avenue near Center avenue.

McDermott and his aide were dragged from their truck and beaten. The truck backed wildly down Bryn Mawr avenue into Center avenue and struck an automobile driven by James Wiggins, 21, of 355 South Negley avenue, a grocery store manager. Wiggins was sent to Homepathic Hospital for treatment.

COUNCIL DELAY ON TOLL VETO NOT TO PERIL U. S. LOAN

FINAL DRAFT OF CONTRACT MAILED

City, County Officials Seek Agreement On Tubes Plan

The final draft of a $24,500,000 contract for public improvements in Allegheny County to be financed by the Public Works Administration was received by the County Commissioners today.

Meanwhile city and county authorities have showed signs of reaching and agreement about tolls on the Liberty Tubes.

President of City Council Robert Garland announced that Council has a "reasonable time" in which to consider Mayor McNair's veto.

This Councilman Charles Anderson's presence in the city is no longer a matter of immediate necessity in order to prevent the defeat of the big loan.

CONFERENCE SET

As a result of a conference yesterday between city and county authorities and members of the Allegheny County Authority, Council will arrange an immediate conference with the City Planning Commission, which had urged the spending of $800,000 more on the proposed $1,400,000 plaza at the south end of the Liberty Tubes.

McNair, in his veto message, based his opposition to the consent ordinance not on the tolls but on the Planning Commission's report that the proposed plaza would be inadequate to handle the traffic.

QUESTIONS ASKED

Councilman Walter R. Demmler, whose change of front on the ordinance, for a time caused consternation among those who favor the program, yesterday questioned the Authority members about the tolls.

He asked if the toll will be definitely set at five cents.

E. N. Hunting, of the Authority, replied:

"The plan is set up on that basis. We may have to charge more in order to carry the investment."

Demmler also inquired if obtaining the government loan was entirely dependent upon putting tolls on the tubes and was informed that the tolls are necessary to make the projects self-liquidating.

TOLLS ON BRIDGES

County Commissioner W. D. Mansfield pointed out that there will be tolls on four of the new bridges, the Glenwood, Homestead high level, Highland Park and McKeesport spans, and that residents from those districts have not been objecting.

The complete program includes, in addition to the four bridges, the Fort Duquesne Bridge and tunnels, which would also be subject to tolls, the new Banksville road, the downtown wharf improvement, widening of Jerome street, McKeesport, and construction of a swimming pool in North Park.

COUNTY TO SIGN

The action of government officials in forwarding the contract was interpreted here as indicating they are satisfied that the delay on the city consent ordinance can be adjusted.

The contract will be signed by County Commissioners and returned to Washington for final execution.

Hunting declared that the plan favored by the Authority will move traffic quicker through the congested area at the south end of the tubes than will the "Cloverleaf" traffic circle suggested by the City Planning Commission.

OPPONENTS PRESENT

Several leading opponents of the tube tolls attended the conference yesterday in Council chamber. Among them were Dormont Borough Solicitor A. C. Purdy and Mrs. E. B. Schroeder, head of a protesting committee from Dormont.

On the matter of McNair's veto, Councilman William A. Magee said:

"I am satisfied that there is no necessity for immediate action on the vote."

He was sustained in this opinion by Council president Garland.

Commissioner Mansfield, in discussing the loan, said Congress may pass legislation eventually to make partial settlements with municipalities in the matter of debt incurred.

HIT WITH BRICK, BLAMES WOMAN

J. N. Heffner, 35, of 4740 Baum boulevard, admitted in Central Police Court today that he had been hit on the head with a brick.

"Bobby" Carson, 23, Negro, of 3 Shomin street, admitted that she had wielded the brick.

Heffner said he was walking in Market street early today when two women, the Carson woman and Mabel Wooden, 28, Negro, of 1302 Pasture street, stopped him and started to talk to him.

He said the Carson woman picked up a brick and hit him on the head.

The Carson woman testified that Heffner grabbed her companion and started to tussle with her. Then, she said, she crowned Heffner with the brick.

All three admitted that they had been drinking. They were fined $5 each with the alternative of serving five days in jail on charges of disorderly conduct.

JEWS TO MARK NEW YEAR

Beginning Sunday evening, September 9, Pittsburgh Jewry will usher in the festival of the New Year, known in Hebrew as "Rosh Hashanah."

In ancient days, when the Jewish people lived in Palestine and agriculture was their chief occupation, the Hebrew New Years Day marked the opening of the economic year.

It occurred in the beginning of autumn, because the sowing of seeds began with the fall, according to the Central Conference of American Rabbis and Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

The system of the agricultural cycle of the year was used by all Semitic peoples. The Bible does not refer to this festival as the New Years Day, but the Jewish people considered it as such at a very early date.

The book contains a dozen photographs of Mrs. Gilcrease—Miss America of 1926—demonstrating health exercises in a gym suit. Its author is given as Mahala Smallwood. Mrs. Mahala Dickinson is Mrs. Gilcrease's mother.

Mrs. Gilcrease seeks reversal of a district court decree which grants a divorce to her husband and also gave him the custody of their 6-year-old daughter, Des Cygnes L'Amour Gilcrease.

BARRY PROBE STILL OPEN

Coroner W. J. McGregor was carrying on today his investigation of the death of John W. Barry, former inspector of detectives and police, whose body, a bullet in the head, was found on the floor of his Halket street garage, August 15.

Lieut. of Detectives Franklin T. McQuaide gave the Coroner the results of his inquiry into Barry's death yesterday. Later McGregor said:

"I have nothing to say except that the investigation is still on."

McQuaide said:

"I have laid all my cards on the table. That's all."

Barry's death was held accidental by city detectives in their first investigation of the circumstances. McGregor was not satisfied. No date has been set for an inquest.

SPLIT $325 PAID FOR PACKET

A new chapter into the interesting history of the Steamer Cordill, for more than a quarter of a century one of the "belles" in Ohio River packet trade, was written in Federal Court.

Judge R. M. Gibson distributed $325 realized from the sale of the vessel at auction on May 17, to William Archery, of the North Side.

The court directed that $200 be paid the government, which had a claim for $7,300 for expenses in raising the Cordill from the Ohio River channel near Marietta, where it sank February 5, after ramming a submerged wicket at Dam No. 14. At the time the river was filled with floating ice and three deckhands lost their lives.

The balance realized from the auction sale goes to M. D. Wedner, trustee, for legal expenses. Other claims aggregating more than $1,800 were not satisfied.

Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society Opens Fund Drive

Support of the Hebrew Immigrant Aid Society, known as Hias, by Pittsburgh Jewry is urged by Rabbi Solomon B. Freehof in conjunction with the nation-wide campaign for a $1,000,000 emergency fund.

Samuel Leibovitz, of New York, executive director of Hias, is in Pittsburgh to conduct the campaign for funds. Rabbi Freehof issued a statement, in which he said:

"Every socially-minded and understanding Jew should help the Hias to the fullest extent of his ability. It is one of the worthiest causes in these tragic days.

"The chief help for Jews in Germany, for example, can come from immigration. A large proportion must flee for their lives. This has imposed this year an additional burden upon the Hias."

Hias makes arrangements for passports and frequently provides passage money as well as finds homes for emigrants. The following leaders of the Pittsburgh community have pledged their cooperation to the movement:

I. A. Abrams, Lewis M. Alpern, Max Azen, Rabbi A. M. Ashinsky, Dr. L. B. Bernstein, M. Chaitkin, Alexander Cooper, Max Engelberg, Rabbi Freehof, S. L. STARHEMBERG CALLED DUCE'S HIRELING

Paid Million by Italy, Charges Former Vice Chancellor

PRAHA, Czecho-Slovakia, Aug. 30.—Franz Winkler, former Austrian vice chancellor, charged today that Prince Ernst von Starhemberg, present vice chancellor, "has been on Mussolini's payroll since 1929." Winkler, who is a fugitive from his country, declared:

"Austria today is completely in the hands of Mussolini."

In a startling interview he listed the Vatican as among the contributors to von Starhemberg's fascist heimwehr (home guard) in its fight against Nazism.

Mussolini smashed negotiations when Germany and Austria were on the point of an "agreement" 18 months ago, Winkler said, adding:

"Von Starhemberg has received not less than $1,000,000 since 1929 to do Italy's dirty work in Austria.

"The first 'Judas money' given by Mussolini to von Starhemberg was split at the time with the notorious German major, Pabst (once a heimwehr leader, who was expelled from Austria in 1930).

"Von Starhemberg also received from Chancellor Schober of Austria for a period of two years $5,000 monthly from a fund put up by Austrian bankers to fight Communism. Von Starhemberg also drew large sums from funds contributed to Dollfuss (the late chancellor) by Viennese Jews and the Vatican and used it to maintain heimwehr troops.

"Step by step Italy has secured ever increasing control of Austria. Through von Starhemberg Dollfuss was brought under the hypnotic influence of Mussolini."

Where Is Our Common Sense? Asks R. W. Child; Warns U. S. Not to Copy Russia's Failure

By RICHARD WASHBURN CHILD

Noted Author and Former U. S. Ambassador to Italy

CONTRAST!

The American civilization.

Its promise of schools, roads, luxuries probably in a measure too large.

Some faults.

Some injustices.

Some characteristics of a spoiled child.

But a sense of fair play.

The freedom of the individual to develop himself.

The chance for the poor boy. Bathtubs. Homes. Cars.

And who is it that says we are to swap all that for the blank failure, the utter disgrace, the broke, bankrupt, insolvent, "planned economy" of Europe and Russia?

Where is American common sense?

Where is the voice of the American people whose idea is that the last thing on earth we want is to be split up in a right and a left?

WHERE is the shoulder-to-shoulder idealism of America?

Where is the laugh we should give at this new-fangled imitation of the ways of jazzed-up Europe and Russia?

Where is our sense?

Where is our genius for seeing clearly?

Where is our eyesight gone when we can't see that there are forces at work—whispers at the President's ear to say that we, the United States, should tear pages out of the book of failure and bankruptcy, material and moral, of that welter of despair abroad?

Contrast?

What a contrast!

Here we are—and if need be we can LOCK OURSELVES UP and forget the rest of the world and its rotten philosophy AND BE PROSPEROUS!

HERE WE ARE with a constitutional history of success lasting longer than any other story of government, fair to all, in the history of the whole world.

And we talk about a changed deal!

STOLE ONE EAR OF CORN, BUT--

The Western Pennsylvania Humane Society today came to the defense of Justice of the Peace Morgan McClelland, of Washington, Pa., who sentenced Joe Lockoski, of Washington County, to $25 and costs and six months in jail for stealing one ear of corn, August 8.

Lockoski had been in trouble five times within a period of three months, had served a sentence of 10 days in jail for stealing 36 quarts of strawberries and had also been charged with fighting, disorderly conduct, assaut and battery and larceny, according to W. F. H. Wentzel, secretary of the society, who investigated the case.

He had stolen only one ear of corn because the owner caught him taking the first ear, Wentzel states. When the police came he is reported to have resisted arrest and drawn a knife on one of the plaintiff's sons.

2ND MAY PAINT WAY TO LIBERTY

William C. Rickabaugh, 36, who pleaded guilty to larceny today, told Judge James H. Gray that in the few weeks he already has been in the jail he helped Ralph Neuin to paint the inside of the jail dome. It was this job which won Neuin a parole.

Judge Gray said perhaps there was more painting to be done, so he sentenced Rickabaugh to six months. Then he indicated that he'd parole the prisoner once the painting was done.

Evangeline Booth Likely to Head Army

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The Salvation Army council, engaged in deliberations on procedure, indicated today that it would start voting tomorrow on its new commander-in-chief with Evangeline Booth of the United States the leading probability to win the election.

END TESTIMONY FOR WITHERUP

FRANKLIN, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Closing the defense testimony Robert Witherup, 23-year-old brother of Walter Witherup, who is on trial charged with the murder of their father, told a jury today the relationship between the accused youth and his father, Clark N. Witherup, had been "very good."

There had been no quarrels between them for six months, said Robert.

"Walter was at the oil lease shanty near Kennerdell, nearly every day helping. He and father went hunting and fishing together several times."

Frederick K. Porter, a storekeeper; J. F. Jones, Clintonville merchant; Ben Porter, road supervisor; Lon Riddle, contractor and driller; John Coulter, Norman Mase, R. V. Phipps, T. C. Cassidy, and J. I. Black, farmer, testified that Walter's reputation was regarded generally as "good" in Clinton Township.

In his closing argument, Attorney John McGill, defense counsel, called attention that no motive for the boy's slaying of his parent had been brought out. He said all the evidence introduced on the subject had shown the relationship of the father and son to have been friendly. He pointed out that on the night the oil operator was slain there had been a friendly card party in the shack, with both taking part.

U. S. TO LAUNCH CREDIT PROBE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Secretary Morgenthau announced today that the Treasury is undertaking an investigation in the Chicago Federal Reserve district to determine whether credit is being properly supplied to small industries.

The Secretary said that the Chicago district was chosen because of its representative character, and that the investigation would seek to determine finally if the complaints against banks for not lending were justified.

The investigation is being undertaken with the co-operation of the Federal Reserve Board, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, as well as all private credit agencies and industrial and business groups which may be able to offer information.

Police Pistol Team Goes to Baltimore

The Pittsburgh police pistol team will go to Baltimore next Tuesday and Wednesday for a match with police there. Eight men, headed by City Detective Guy M. Dailey, will make the trip. Mayor McNair, previous to his decision to take a European trip, had promised to challenge the Mayor of Baltimore to a trial of skill, but this feature of the contest has been dropped.

Hobo With $50,000 Jailed as Absconder

LYONS, France, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—A tramp picked up by police, who were amazed to find $50,000 in various currencies sewed into his ragged clothes, today turned out to be Albert de Cerf, missing Paris banker, who absconded with his clients' $35,000 winnings in the national lottery together with his own resources.

ONE-MAN CLUB ACTION LINKS DOUGLAS

Politician Named as Man Who Sold 'Phony' Charter

Pursuing its drive against suspected "one-man liquor clubs," the state today filed a petition before Judge Joseph A. Richardson in Criminal Court asking for the revocation of the liquor license of the Native Sons of Pennsylvania, a club operating at 608 Nash street.

The petition again linked John Douglas, Jr., former candidate for Mayor, in an alleged one-man club liquor racket.

Special Deputy Attorney General John M. Walker, who filed the petition, charged that the club practiced fraud in obtaining its license and sells liquor to nonmembers. The state also seeks the forfeiture of the club's $2,000 bond.

The state charged that the club has been operating under a spurious charter, which is merely a photostatic copy of an old charter originally issued to the Supreme Council, Native Sons of Pennsylvania.

This photostatic charter, it was charged, was purchased from Douglas, a former county clerk.

Officials of the club, including Walter Hoffman, Gus Camp, and Charles Jones, were given until September 10 to file an answer.

In another case involving liquor clubs, Deputy Attorney General Walker was notified to prepare an answer to the petition of the Reali Carabeniero Society, of 3454 Frankstown avenue, which has appealed from the action of the State Liquor Control Board in denying the society a liquor license.

One of the reasons the license was denied, it was said, was because the club's own charter prohibited the sale of liquor.

KILLS MOTHER IN RESCUE

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A 15-year-old girl wanted to protect her mother. Instead she killed her.

The girl, Anna Maietta, picked up a pistol and fired, she said, in an attempt to prevent her father, James Maietta, from beating her mother, Jennie, 38, late last night.

One of the bullets entered the mother's heart, killing her. Four others struck the father. At the County Hospital he is not expected to live.

Maietta had seized his wife, the girl said, and had thrown her to the floor. He then began to beat her. When her mother screamed the girl ran into a bedroom, got her father's pistol and began firing.

TRUCK PLUNGE KILLS DRIVER

A runaway truck hurtled down the steep grade of Red Gate hill, Haysville, today and smashed into a tree, fatally injuring two men, and seriously injuring another.

The truck, in its wild dash, endangered other automobiles in the early morning mist. It held to the roadway until it reached the junction with the Ohio River boulevard, where it crashed.

Pinned beneath the wreckage, Pete Sanko, 38, huckster, of New Galilee, Pa., was liberated by rescuers and rushed to the Sewickley Valley Hospital. There he was pronounced dead.

Two companions, William Pisano, 25, and Mike Dello, 25, both of Koppel, Pa., also were rushed to the hospital, where Dello died a few hours later.

Street Car, Hearse Crash; Corpse Upset

A funeral cortege was delayed when a street car crashed into a hearse driven by John B. Davis, a Negro funeral director, of 2155 Center avenue, at Liberty avenue and Taylor street, Bloomfield, late yesterday.

Davis escaped injury, the casket in the hearse was overturned, A. J. Gander, of 7040 Bennett street, operator of the car, was arrested on a reckless driving charge.

It Takes Firemen to Nab Flagpole Sitting Hubby

UNION CITY, N. J., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kelly, craning skyward, called:

"Yoo hoo! Throw me down some money."

That was three days ago—so Mrs. Kelly told police—and her husband, John J. (Flagpole) Kelly, failed her. She said he hopped from flagpole to flagpole, earning as much as $100 a day, while she and their seven children lived in want.

"Hey, Kelly, come down. I've got a warrant for your arrest."

The sitter replied:

"Go away. Can't you see I'm busy?"

The sleuth pleaded:

"Be reasonable. We'll only have to come up there if you're not."

Kelly reasoned otherwise, however. If he came down before Saturday his $500 contract for five days of perching would be void.

"Come and get me," Billington said he heard "Flagpole" say. But Billington weighs 230 pounds. He didn't go.

For an hour the crowd increased. Kelly visioned a bonus. Then some bright mind suggested the fire department. Up rolled a big truck, up went shiny ladders, up climbed four husky smokeeaters—and down came Kelly.

Kelly, who is not to be confused with Alvin Aloysius (Shipwreck) Kelly, is awaiting a hearing today on abandonment charges.

DANIEL BOONE DESCENDANTS SEEK LAND IN PITTSBURGH

TRACT IN HEART OF CITY, HOPES CLAIMANT

Lawyer Fails to Find Trace of Grant in Records Here

If you should chance to see a couple of gentlemen downtown with magnifying glasses searching for a piece of land, don't be surprised.

Daniel Boone's folks are searching for a grant given to the intrepid pioneer and they are having some difficulty in finding the piece of land.

The claim has been placed in the hands of Edward E. Arrowsmith, local attorney, by a lady from Missouri, who is a great-great-granddaughter of Daniel. The land, she believes, is "now in the heart of Pittsburgh" and "worth a fortune."

She is Mrs. Velma Boone Stevenson, of Martin City, Mo. And, according to her letter to Arrowsmith, her father, John Boone, 78, great-grandson of the pioneer, is "as close a living descendant to Daniel Boone as possible."

Lawyers are accustomed to receiving claims every now and then, based on almost legendary stories of large plots of land owned by some prominent ancestor, the lawyer pointed out.

But, on the other hand, Daniel Boone was granted some land in reward for his many exploration trips into the wilderness, Arrowsmith said.

Mrs. Stevenson's claim that the land is in the heart of Pittsburgh seemed unlikely, however, to Attorney Ralph H. Snyder, associated with Arrowsmith in the case, who searched through the Recorder of Deeds' records, dating back to 1788, and found no grant.

In her letter, Mrs. Stevenson stated:

"I believe the grant exists because some years ago, someone wrote to a descendant of Daniel Boone whose name was Mary Boone in regards to a lease on all or part of this property.

"The Boones never even took notice or did anything in regard to this letter.

"But if the government did give Daniel Boone such valuable land, it's a fortune for the Boone heirs, if traced down."

Arrowsmith disclosed he has written for more specific information because of the possibility the grant might have been recorded as a "land patent" at Harrisburg, or in Westmoreland County before Allegheny County was created.

It might also be recorded in Virginia, since the Virginia state line once included land within five miles of Pittsburgh, Arrowsmith said.

SPURTING BEER DROWNS FIRE

ANSONIA, Conn., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Beer, that "life saver" of many businesses in Connecticut, also was a property saver, when it extinguished a tavern fire here.

Heat from what police described as "kerosene soaked" rags, melted pipes leading from beer barrels in the cellar and the spouting brew did the rest.

Weather Conditions

The Lake Region high is centered over Eastern Ontario this morning, and extends down over the Ohio Valley states. It covers most of the eastern half of the country. The high is attended by clear skies and unseasonable cool weather. Light frost is reported at Fort Wayne, Ind. and heavy frost at Sault Ste. Marie. At this writing the lowest temperature this morning was 46 degrees, but in the sub-zone and outlying sections as low as 38 degrees occurred. Showers occurred along the Gulf Coast, and more generally over the Rocky Mountains and the central plains. The plains states low pressure extends from Canada to New Mexico, with centers over the Dakotas and over Southern Colorado. Temperatures are rising over the Mississippi Valley states, and falling again in the far Northwest.

Lupe, Weissmuller Never Scrap, Just Pair of Turtle Doves, He Says

The public impression that Lupe Velez, the Mexican firebrand, and Johnny Weissmuller, the Tarzan of Hollywood, spend all they waking hours throwing things at, and divorcing each other is all wrong.

At least Johnny said it in Johnny, passing through Pittsburgh today, indicated that he and Lupe were just a pair of turtle doves.

"Why, we've never had a quarrel; that's all talk, that fighting stuff."

Johnny, en route to New York for a swimming carnival, landed in Pittsburgh on the same TWA plane which brought Mabel Walker Willebrandt from a lawyers' convention in Milwaukee.

As she changed to a Washington-bound plane, Mrs. Willebrandt predicted that possibly Upton Sinclair, the Socialist, who was nominated for Governor in her native California, would be defeated by a Republican in the general election.

Mrs. Willebrandt, who was a mainstay of the Hoover administration, wouldn't comment on the New Deal.

PRINCE GEORGE MAY ASCEND GREEK THRONE

Princess Marina, British Fiance Linked in Move for Crown

By SEYMOUR BERKSON

PARIS, Aug. 30.—The marriage of Prince George, of England, and Princess Marina, of Greece, is likely to spur restoration of the royal family in Republican Greece. Already powerful factions are considering the possibility that George and Marina may themselves be placed on the throne, Universal Service was informed today by a source close to the Greek royal family.

Premier Tsaldaris, of Greece, was described as an ardent Royalist. It was said he is determined to call elections in Greece this fall and expects the results will be overwhelmingly royalist, paving the way for a restoration.

Behind the scenes there has been feverish intrigue the last few days, including mysterious visits to Paris by both Foreign Minister Maximos, of Greece, who is also an ardent royalist, and former Premier Venizelos, a revolutionary republican, who is violently opposed to the monarchy and was a bitter enemy of the late King Constantine, of Greece.

Most of the present Greek Cabinet members are royalists. When Tsaldaris took office he promised to give Greece economic rehabilitation first and to solve the Royalist question later.

Legally, former King George II, who was the last occupant of the Greek throne, would be in line to assume the crown, but, because there is still much opposition to him in some Greek Royalist factions, Princess Marina and her husband, it was said, might be called upon to unite the Royalists with the power of Great Britain behind them.

Prince of Wales Slated As George's Best Man

LONDON, Aug. 30.—(Universal.)—When Prince George leads his beautiful Grecian princess to the altar in historic Westminster Abbey, this November or December, it will be amid pomp, glamor and splendor unequaled in a royal marriage in England since his father, then Duke of York, married beautiful Princess Mary of Teck, now Queen of England.

The Prince of Wales, bachelor heir to the throne of the British Empire, will act as best man. The Dukes of York and Gloucester will be groomsmen, while the two little princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, daughters of the Duke of York, are expected to be among the bridesmaids.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, assisted by the Archbishop of York and the Bishops of London, Winchester and Oxford, will conduct the ceremony. More than 1,000 guests, including visiting royalties, will attend the colorful pageant.

HANDY SHOWS HOW 'BLUES' SHOULD GO

By ZELDA J. ORMES

W. C. Handy, famed Negro composer, starting his own famous compositions, "St. Louis Blues," featured last night's National Association of Negro Musicians' convention program at Schenley High School Auditorium.

The program, most colorful of the series being presented this week in connection with the fifteenth annual convention meeting here, also included a discussion of both the commercial and artistic aspects of music by Mr. Handy, who stressed the necessity of training music for art's sake, regardless of the public's demand.

In addition, Mr. Handy's son sang one of his father's compositions, "Opportunity."

Maude Roxberry George, national president, presided at the session, and outlined the various committees of note and their achievements.

Tonight in the National Artists' concert at Schenley High School Auditorium. Appearing on the program will be Louis Jones, violinist, a graduate of the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, who has completed five years' study abroad. He will be accompanied by Clarmille Nickerson, Australian artist, of wide renown in Miss Lillian Evanti, soprano soloist of Washington and Paris. She will be accompanied by William Allen. Florence B. Price, likewise popular, is also a composer, as well as artist at the piano. She will present her own compositions.

GOOD TIME GIRL WINS PAROLE

Eighteen-year-old Mary Estelle Weisman, who did New York in a big way for a short time this summer, wept when she was arraigned before Judge Joseph A. Richardson today on a charge of larceny of two rings to finance her adventure.

Her tears won her clemency—she was released on parole for three months.

Mary went to New York in July and for a brief time lived in style at a swanky hotel. She had breakfast in bed, she had permanent waves, manicures and massages. In the evenings she danced to the music of the best orchestras.

Then the hotel manager appeared, bill in hand. Mary couldn't pay, but was forgiven her debt on the condition that she return to her home at 97 Ruskin avenue, Mt. Oliver.

She came back home only to be accused by Mrs. William Boettner, of 1106 West Park street, McKees Rocks, of stealing two rings valued at $200, before the New York trip.

ZOO EXTENSION URGED HERE

Lions, bears, birds, monkies, as well as sundry other boarders at the Highland Park zoo, are in for their own New Deal if the improvement commission appointed by Mayor McNair has its way.

The preliminary report of the commission, made public today by Park Supt. Ralph E. Griswold, advocated enlarging the zoo from 17 to 40 acres.

It suggested an open air bear den, outdoor flying cages for birds, new monkey cages, bigger and better lions' cages and a thermostatically-controlled heating system.

The entire 40 acres are to be enclosed to prevent roving dogs from disturbing the zoo animals at night.

MARY TO FLY WITHOUT DOUG

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—This time it's Mary Pickford who's going traveling.

"America's sweetheart" was scheduled to depart at 4 p. m. today by airplane for Cleveland, O., to be hostess and the honorary referee at the National Air Races starting tomorrow.

She will fly via Chicago, where air race officials will meet her.

Douglas Fairbanks, her estranged husband, will not make the trip. Reports of a reconciliation were not denied yesterday by Miss Pickford, who has had several "dates" with her husband since he returned.

3 Injured in Crash Of Truck and Auto

Three persons were slightly injured in Wylie avenue early today as a truck and an automobile collided. The injured were Helen Kruger, 24, of 546½ Fifth avenue, McKeesport, and her passengers, Betty Clements, 23, of the same address, and Weldon Williams, 22, of 3033 Center avenue, according to a police report. Miss Kruger and Zyglunt Kaczyuski, 22, of Lincoln place, driver of the truck, were arrested on reckless driving charges.

DOG 1ST CLASS, MISTRESS THIRD

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Mrs. Ottolie Gobel Moore, daughter of the late Adolf Gobel, meat packer, came back from Europe third class—but her dog traveled first class.

While Mrs. Moore, her 5-year-old daughter, Dede, a maid and 15 trunks sat below, the dog, Pansy, occupied a kennel on the top deck, where a valet was in attendance with fancy biscuits, cream chicken and other delicacies.

Mrs. Moore's fare was $118; the dog's $201. It was the depreciated dollar, Mrs. Moore explained, that necessitated the saving. They arrived yesterday from the south of France on the Conte Di Savoia.

Heiress, 17, Leaps To Death Over $19

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Inability to pay a $19 hotel bill police said today, was responsible for the suicide of 17-year-old Isabelle Wilson, daughter of a wealthy Scarsdale, N. Y., couple. She hurled herself from a window on the fifteenth floor of the hotel as a friend tried vainly to restrain her.

Roger Kruepper, a radio announcer, whom Miss Wilson met recently, was summoned to the hotel by the girl who hysterically explained her financial difficulties. Detectives said she had been drinking.

GIRL BATTLES THUG IN CAFE

A waitress battled with a thug in the basement of a Grant street restaurant early today as she was beaten and robbed.

Miss Julia Stewarson, of 5327 Second avenue, was changing into her waitress uniform in the basement of Christ Dimling's restaurant at 214 Grant street, she told police, when an unidentified white man leaped out of the shadows.

A hand over her mouth suppressed her screams. Fainting as he grappled with her, the girl awoke a few minutes later to find she had been robebd of $2.10.

2 SHOT 'RAIDING' SLOT MACHINES

NEW KENSINGTON, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Two men, shot as they smashed slot machines in a Third avenue beer garden, are in a serious condition at a hospital here, suffering from chest wounds.

Frank Donadio, 37, proprietor of the beer garden, is at liberty under $2,000 bond, charged with firing the shots.

Donadio told police that Albert Franczaik, 20, and Joseph Malone, 27, accompanied by two more men, entered his establishment last night and started wrecking the machines. He said they threatened him after he attempted to evict them, whereupon he opened fire.

The victims' companions, Robert Grubbs, 23, and Frank Smith, 34, also were arrested.

Two Suspects Fined As 'Numbers' Men

Theodore Dorsey, 36, Negro, of 61 Roberts street, was fined $100 and William Creighton, 32, of 818 Kirkpatrick street, was fined $10 today on charges of operating lotteries.

Police testified before Magistrate John B. Kearney in the Center Avenue Police Court that numbers slips had been seized in raids on the Dorsey and Creighton homes.

POLICE, BANDIT IN GUN BATTLE

Turnkey Joseph Heimlick and Patrolman David McEwen, sitting in the McKeesport Police Station, were somewhat startled, at 2:45 a. m., to see a robber breaking into the beer store of John F. Brennan, at 408 Market street—just across the street.

Heimlick and McEwen returned the fire, and for four blocks pursuers and pursued emptied their pistols at one another.

Disappointed, the police returned to the scene for a second disappointment.

There they discovered that, just as he had entered the Brennan store, the robber had cut a section of glass out of the door of the adjoining beer store, that of I. Weiss, emptied the register of $10.

Restaurant Held Up By Pair of Bandits

Holding John Koefof, proprietor of a restaurant, at 208 Anderson street, and his waitress, Paulina Manko, at bay, two men early today took $6 from the cash register and escaped.

Breaking a window in the home of Besie Kosatka, of 1637 Wickline lane, two men took $3.50 from a dress, she reported to police. The victim discovered her loss after she was awakened by a milk man, who said he had seen two men running from the house.

Policeman Shoots At Fleeing Suspects

A special policeman fired five shots at two youths fleeing in an automobile after they were surprised in an attempt to steal gasoline from an auto in front of the home of James I. Marsh, 4791 Wallingford street, assistant United States attorney, early today.

The officer, J. W. Gardiner, told Oakland police he believed two of the bullets struck the fleeing car.

Girl Hit by Auto, Leg Amputated

Miss Mary Catherine Harvey, 15, of 5901 Alder street, East End, Sacred Heart High School student, was in a serious condition at Spencer Hospital, Meadville, today, after thee amputation of a leg, according to an Associated Press report from Meadville.

Miss Harvey and a sister, Mrs. George Petrazzia, of Cochranton, whom she was visiting, were struck down by an automobile operated, police said, by Howard Grinnell, of Meadville, arrested later on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

The Mural-in-Oil Satirizing the Roosevelt Administration

The mural causing the political-art controversy of the day inasmuch as it lampoons the Roosevelt administration. In it you will find: The President, smiling characteristically, speaking into a series of microphones, wearing a crown and fishing; Mrs. Roosevelt wearing a paper crown, handling manuscrips; dolls representing a presidential son and daughter throwing away a toy man and a toy woman; Secretary Morgenthau, in a clown suit, juggling money; a line of monsters apparently Brain-Trusters from whose money-trough top-hatted pigs feed; Secretary Wallace trying to strangle a buxom Ceres, Goddess of Agriculture; President Green, of A. F. L., doing a balancing act with the Secretary of Labor; an officer stripping [illegible] "Mr. Citizen;" Uncle Sam on a cross; vultures hovering over all. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Caricature of New Deal Not PWA Art After All

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Interest dropped today in the mural caricature of the New Deal and in the anonymous artist who painted it for the exhibition of the Westchester Institution of Fine Arts when it became known the painter was not on PWA relief at all.

Charles A. Birch-Field, of Larchmont, director of the institute in a former girls' school here, denied any attempt to mislead in the publicity he sent to newspapers on the painting. PWA he said, stood for "poor white artist."

Yesterday when it was announced the government had supplied the paint and paid for the artist's time in doing a lampoon of the administration, offers up to $3,000 were received for the 8x4 mural. The address of a purchaser who offered $5,000 proved not to exist.

However, many persons requested colored prints and photographs of the cartoon-painting, the young artist remained unidentified and the Democratic County organization said it "might inquire" into the painting next week. The artists' relief section of the PWA dropped an investigation when it was learned the painter was not on PWA rolls.

COAL PRICE GAIN LOOMS IN WAR ON CHISELERS

Pittsburgh home owners may be faced with an increase in coal prices if plans of dealers are realized.

In a meeting of representatives of nearly a thousand coal dealers and a number of producers in Walker Roll Rooms, street, last night, "price chiseling" was scored and tentative agreements made whereby a fixed price could be maintained by all dealers.

John P. Murphy, sales manager of the Terminal Coal and Coke Company, chairman of the meeting, stated that coal sold through his hands would be raised 25 cents a ton, beginning Saturday.

At present home owners who buy at summer prices in preparation for the coming winter are being "gouged" in the quality of coal they receive, Samuel Quinn, secretary of the Independent Retail Coal Dealers' Association, charged.

This condition, he said, is created by "chiselers" who advertise lump coal at lower prices than their competitors, at the same time supplying an inferior grade, since the classification covers lump diameters from two inches on up.

If an agreement is reached between dealer and producer to charge the unrecognized retailer a curb price for coal, undercutting will be eliminated to a considerable degree, and legitimate dealers, all of whom are members of retail coal associations, can maintain a standard price.

Miner Stricken In Elizabeth Mine

Michael Wodel, 55, of Oakdale Hollow, Elizabeth Township, fell dead late yesterday in the Patterson mine, Blaine Hill, Elizabeth, where he was employed, according to the Coroner's report. A heart ailment was given as the cause.

MODEL PLANES RACE AT FAIR

Pittsburgh's first model racing plane contest will be held tomorrow at 4 p. m. at South Park Fair Grounds.

In fact, it will be the first such contest held in the United States in the last year.

Ernest Cheesman, of 429 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, won the fuselage model contest yesterday at the park. He kept his plane aloft 1 minute 33 seconds.

Second place went to Edgar Fulmer, of 907 First street, McKees Rocks, while Dick Everett, of Elm Grove, W. Va., was third.

A lone girl entrant took the show, however. Thousands of spectators saw Gertrude Rimmel, 17, of 1008 Hillsboro street, Sheraden, beat out many of the boy entrants.

Tomorrow's speed race will be held over a 132-foot course. It is open to planes of any type and design, making it the most unusual and spectacular contest ever held in the country.

Both contests are sponsored by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Junior Birdmen of America. Any member of the organization can enter.

First prize is a Brown Junior model plane gas motor, which is the holder of world records for flying miniature airplanes.

The prizes are being awarded in both contests by the Junior Birdmen and Central Airlines, Inc., in an effort to develop air-mindedness among the boys and girls of Western Pennsylvania.

Mt. Lebanon Man Dies at Telephone

Stricken with a heart attack while talking on the telephone in his home last night, Arthur C. Johnston, 45, of 311 Narada place, Mt. Lebanon, was pronounced dead by a physician a short time later, the Coroner's office reported.

Johnston came here July 1, 1933, from Flint, Mich., his birthplace. Funeral services will be held today and the body will be shipped tonight to Flint for burial.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Alma Johnston, and two sons, MacLellan and Arthur, Jr.

Convict, Once Lindy Suspect, Tries Suicide

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Arthur Blaustein, 36, said by police to be an ex-convict, who once was questioned in the Lindbergh kidnaping, attempted to hang himself today in his cell, where he was held charged with robbing a Northwestern University fraternity house.

Guards found him unconscious, but he was revived. Police said he probably attempted suicide believing he would receive a life sentence as a fourth offender under the habitual criminal law.

TAX CUT GOAL OF COUNTIES' EXECUTIVES

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Lower real estate taxes and economies in county government will be sought at the next General Assembly session by the Pennsylvania Association of County Commissioners.

An 8-point legislative program to that end was adopted by the county officials in annual convention yesterday in a report from a committee headed by the state's only woman commissioner, Miss Helen M. Schluraff, of Erie. The eight points:

An act making it easier to vacate roads.

Legislation to protect property sold for taxes before the two-year redemption period expires.

Payment of the county's prosecution costs from fines for motor violations.

Six cents a mile, or less, to county employes in automobiles.

Inclusion of all state-route bridges, including the rural road system, as part of the state system.

Two Schuylkill county commissioners, both Republicans, are rivals for the presidency. They are William R. Adamson, of Pottsville, and James R. Kirchner, of Mahanoy City.

Hershey was mentioned as the likely meeting place in 1935.

Dr. Howard E. Milliken, Harrisburg, was elected president of the State Coroners' Association in a concurrent meeting. Dr. Simon B. Glick Berks, was named secretary-treasurer and J. H. Detter, Norristown, and R. A. Rothrock, Altoona, vice presidents.

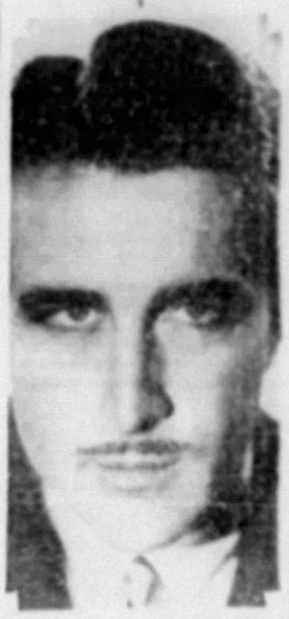
And Now Boles Issues Odd Request



JOHN BOLES

Seeking Mysterious 'Former Foe' to Set Him Right

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Will a man named Karl Guenther please come forward and be assured that John Boles didn't try to kill him?

This strange appeal comes from Boles himself and caps an extraordinary experience the actor had on a motion picture set the other evening.

The Fox troupe making "Music in the Air" were working with a large number of extras in a local theater. Between scenes, Boles noticed that a certain man kept staring at him. Finally, the chap came up and asked the star:

"Weren't you in St. Nazaire, France, in August, 1918?"

Boles thought back to his Army Intelligence Service days and nodded. The fellow laughed and said:

"I thought you were, but you knew me then under a different name. In fact, if your bullet had been an inch further to the right I wouldn't be here today."

Continuing to smile, he pointed to a ragged scar on the top of his ear.

Just then, Boles was summoned back before the camera. He called to the man to wait and returned immediately after the scene. But "Guenther" had disappeared. Nor could Boles find him.

Will Guenther please come forward now? For Boles wants to correct a wrong impression. During his whole service in the Intelligence Department, he never fired a shot at a man.

WEIRTON MEN DEMAND VOTE ON UNION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Employes of the Weirton Steel Company today filed with the National Steel Labor Relations Board a petition asking that it order an election to determine who shall represent them in collective bargaining.

At the same time the Department of Justice filed in the Federal District Court at Wilmington, Del., a petition eliminating this phase from its case against the steel company which had been set for trial on September 5.

As a result of the change the trial will be postponed perhaps 60 or 90 days. The controversy centers around the right of the steel company employes to determine whether a company union or a regular organized labor union shall represent them.

The federal government still retains in the case the charge that the company union was organized by the Weirton concern in anticipation of the adoption of the iron and steel code and that it was imposed upon the employes by coercion and other unlawful means for the purpose of circumventing their rights to choose their own representatives and to bargain collectively."

The petition with the Steel Labor Relations Board described by the Justice Department as the first one presented since it was set up by the last Congress, was offered by Charlton Ogburn of New York, representing company employes.

The board indicated its readiness to inquire into the situation and, if the facts warrant, to require an election to be held.

The amended bill filed at Wilmington asked that the company be restrained from continuing "its imposition and circumvention."

Another reason for postponing the trial is that Frank K. Nebeker, special counsel for the government in charge of the Weirton suit, is ill.

Union Loses in Vote By Truck Strikers

MINNEAPOLIS, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The union which called and directed two strikes of Minneapolis truck drivers found itself outvoted today in a majority of the firms in which representatives to negotiate with employers were chosen.

Workers in 58 establishments decided upon independent committees to represent them, while in 50 firms, General Drivers and Helpers Union Local No. 574 was accorded the right of representation in yesterday's balloting. The election opens the way for continued negotiations on a wage scale.

$75,000 Suit Started Over Frick Strike

Employes of the H. C. Frick Coke Company beat and shot him, one Louis Kromer contends in a damage suit he had on file in Common Pleas Court today against the coke company. He asks $75,000 for injuries.

Kromer charged that near the Gates mine in labor-torn Fayette County last September, Michael Donovan, an assistant superintendent, ordered one employe to club him and another employe to fire on him. As a result he complains he was beaten on the head and wounded with buckshot in the leg.

Drinks on Job, Does Burglar Gets Time

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Clarence Conner, 34, must spend three to six months in jail for drinking on the job.

He started work with other investigators, police said, at the home of F. K. Hill of Villanova. The job finished, he was three blocks from the house before he decided to sample some gin.

He was found unconscious with three empty bottles and two sacks filled with clothing, silverware and jewelry.

It was a burglar's job.

FORD TO BUILD 2 STEEL PLANTS

signed for the production of heavy material which does not go into motor cars. Most of the automobile steel comes from points nearest the automobile factories. Among these are Cleveland, Youngstown and Detroit.

About 25 per cent of the automobile steel made here is sold to Ford. On this basis, Pittsburgh stands to lose only about 1 per cent of its steel business from the change in policy.

A major share of the equipment for the new Ford plants is being supplied by Pittsburgh organizations. United Engineering and Foundry Company is building the principal mill installations and Westinghouse Electric is supplying a large share of the electrical equipment.

Ford's eDcision Hints Steel, Auto Mergers

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 30.—(INS)—Henry Ford's announcement that he would build two steel mills at a cost of between $12,000,000 and $13,000,000 so that he would be independent of the steel industry today was expected to force new mergers in both the automobile and steel worlds, according to reports in financial circles here.

The announcement, coming four days after disclosure of plans to merge the Republic Steel Corporation, the Truscon Steel Company and the Corrigan McKinley Steel Company to form a $323,000,000 combine, definitely started a new trend in American business, steel leaders agreed.

The Otis Steel Company is being linked with the Republic merger in rumors now current and the Bethlehem Steel Company also is mentioned in speculation in financial circles. The latter was brought to the forefront by the visit of Charles M. Schwab, chairman of the board o Befthlehem, to Cleveland yesterday.

However, the exact position of Bethlehem is unknown. Several years ago it sought a merger with the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, but the consolidation was blocked by stockholders.

West View Firemen To Hold Carnival

The annual carnival of the West View Volunteer Fire Company will be held September 5 to 8 in West View Park. Proceeds from the carnival will be used to complete payments on a fire truck. In charge of the carnival are Frank Reichel, Robert Nist, Emory Shafer, August Kleiss, Roy Allison and Hugh Paul.

ALUMINUM WAR 'FRONT' SHIFTS TO HERE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Efforts to settle the strike keeping more than 8,000 men idle in six of the Aluminum Company of America's largest plants will be continued next week in Pittsburgh.

Representatives of the company, a Mellon interest, and the Aluminum Workers Council at the instance of Chairman Lloyd Garrison, of the Labor Relations Board, will resume negotiations halted here yesterday in a deadlock.

The company refused to promise the council an American Federation of Labor affiliate, that it would collect the union's dues or pay the same wages for the same work in all its plants.

The company also refused to submit the wage issue to arbitration, as suggested by the union. Payment of the same wages at Alcoa, Tenn., as are paid at New Kensington, Pa., for instance, company officials said, would be impossible because of differences in transportation costs.

A tentative agreement subject to a complete accord on all the issues was reached on:

1—The form of a working agreement.

2—Seniority rules, concerning what men should be re-employed after layoffs.

3—Handling of employes' grievances by carrying them from foreman to superintendent to plant manager to president, with eventual arbitration if necessary and mutually agreeable to employe and company.

The company representatives returned to Pittsburgh, but council officials planned a conference here today with Boris Shiskin, A. F. of L. executive.

Phantom Lots Yield Taxes For Years

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Aug. 30.—After a fruitless search for three lots which he bought for $12.50 at the Suffolk County tax sale in 1930, Andrew Anderson reported he lots have vanished.

The board of supervisors authorized the county treasurer to refund the purchase price. It was not explained why the previous owner paid taxes on apparently imaginary property.

YOUTH FIGHTS DEATH BY GAS

COLORADO SPRINGS, Aug. 30.—(AP)—A jury is hearing testimony in the retrial of Walter Beggin, Newark (N. J.) youth on a charge of slaying Violette Sugan, Colorado Springs taxi dancer and college student.

The jury's duty will be to decide the penalty. A request by withdraw Beggin's plea of guilty was denied. The jury may decide on execution, life imprisonment or commitment to an insane asylum.

Beggin had been sentenced to die in the gas chamber, but won a new trial.

2 ACTORS SUED OVER HOMES

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Virginia Fox, film actress, today was named defendant in a suit filed in Municipal Court for the recovery of $250 in damages alleged to be sustained in a house she rented in Beverly Hills. The suit was filed by M. C. Martin and claimed the actress, as she is legally known, Virginia Peppe Lebaron.

A $25 judgment was awarded today to Betty Bozell, actress, against Grant Withers. Miss Bozell sued the ex-wife Mrs. Alice Marie Withers. Miss Bozell had asked the amount for breakage, heat damage and laundry resulting to her beach home which Mrs. Withers rented and occupied.

Start Work Upon New Fresh Air Farm

Work has been started on the new 20-acre farm of the Association for the Improvement of the Poor at Wilmerdale, Marshall Township.

It is expected that the new farm will be ready for use next summer. It replaces the farm maintained by the association for underprivileged children at Oakmont. The new farm will contain 26 acres and instead of having one large dormitory building will have a number of cottages, each housing 20 children.

There will be a swimming pool, baseball diamond, open air pavilion and a volleyball court.

BANDIT BINDS, ROBS JEWELER

Preparing to close his jewelry shop at 227 East Eighth avenue, Homestead, last evening, F. W. Berkner, of 321 Hazelwood avenue, was held up and robbed of $75 and an undetermined amount of jewelry by a lone bandit.

The bandit ordered Berkner to turn around and then tied his hands behind his back with wire, saying:

"You're a dead man if you shout."

The jeweler was then forced into a rear room. The store's safe had been left open and the bandit took some jewelry from it. He then went to the cash register and took about $25.

A SUPREMELY IMPORTANT

MONTH-END DAY AT HORNE'S

LAST DAY!

AUGUST SALES

FURS
FURNITURE
BEDDING
MEN' SUITS MADE TO MEASURE

The extraordinary response to this year's August Sales, at this store, is the best possible evidence of the unmistakable character of the values here. The August Sale prices are limited strictly to August, and cannot (nor will not) be extended beyond this month. Be governed accordingly, and if you still have any unfulfilled wishes concerning these Sales, take full advantage tomorrow of this last day. A reasonable down payment will hold selections in any of the above sales for later delivery. We will be glad to consider your convenience, in every way possible, in this respect.

The last day of August not only brings to an end the substantial discounts extended to those who are prepared to anticipate major fall needs at this time; but it is also the great store-wide clean-up day for all remaining summer stocks. To the latter offerings, the customary Month-End Sale stipulations apply — No Mail or Telephone Orders. All Sales Final!

Store Hours Tomorrow: 9:30 A. M. to 5 P. M.

SHUN POLITICS AT SINCLAIR PARLEY

turns still were boosting his party plurality, the novelist and ex-while Socialist said in an address last night that "the whole collapsing system of capitalism must be replaced. He asserted:

"Capitalism has served its time and is passing from the earth.

"In Germany an obscene demagog has seized power; a great civilized nation has fallen into the hands of gangsters. Liberty is at an end . . .

"The Italian workers attempted to get possession of the factories, and what they got was Mussolini, subsidized by a $700,000,000 loan from Wall street. American bankers, abetted by the government of President Harding, riveted the chains of bond slavery upon the people of Italy.

"And now we have the same breakdown in the United States. The same poverty and insecurity. The same kind of bond slavery. Can we free ourselves or will Wall street give us a dictatorship?"

Sinclair offered as the answer his extraordinary plan to "end poverty in California"—the "EPIC" of his campaign.

Under this plan, he explained, the state would rent idle factories, paring the owners' taxes and overhead, and put the unemployed to work. The workmen would own what they made. Needy farmers meanwhile would be given warrants for their produce and could exchange these certificates for taxes and the workmen's products. The factory hands would receive the farmers' crops.

Foes of the plan call it Socialism and Communism, Sinclair said, but the federal government has "applied the principles" in the District of Columbia.

Party Lines Face Break In Sinclair Victory

Sinclair's majority in Tuesday's primary election continued to mount as supporters of Acting Gov. Frank F. Merriam, the Republican nominee, called on members of all parties to unite against what they termed the threat of a Socialistic state.

Returns from 9,077 precincts out of 10,703 gave Sinclair 361,805 votes to 244,858 for his closest opponent, George Creel, who was supported by many of the regular Democratic leaders.

There was talk of conservative Democrats and anti-Merriam Republicans bolting to the support of Raymond L. Haight, Commonwealth and Progressive party candidate, who urged voters of all parties get behind his "middle of the road" policies.

Democrats in Dilemma, G. O. P. Hails Sinclair

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—There was every sign today that Upton Sinclair's sensational coup in swamping his opponents for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in California has placed national leaders of the party in a dilemma.

If the national leaders support Sinclair, Republicans will point with glee to his long membership in the Socialist party and to what they call his "Marxian" plan to end poverty in California.

If they do not support him, some leaders fear the turning tide will imperil the re-election of 11 Democrats to the House of Representatives.

Postmaster General Farley was silent yesterday. Harry L. Hopkins, however, called Sinclair's victory "great business." He said:

"I certainly do want to see him elected. He's on our side."

And then—to a query as to whether Sinclair is a Socialist:

"Naw—he's a good Democrat."

TOM MOONEY

UPTON SINCLAIR

In an hour [illegible] Governor of California," in which he embarked [illegible] years in office and which helped win him the Democratic nomination, the fourteen Socialist workers' vote.

"If immediately after having taken the oath of office, he (Sinclair) stepped to the microphone and said: 'As Governor of California my first action is to sign a pardon to Thomas J. Mooney. I commission a messenger to take this document to the Warden of Soan Quentin prison, and obtain Mooney's release. At this time I offer to him my profound apologies for the injustice which the State of California has done to him for the past 18 years.' "

Ten persons were fatally injured and 40 others hurt in the 1916 bombing for which Mooney and Warren K. Billings, now in Folsom Prison, were sentenced to life imprisonment.

2 Brothers Killed As Bolt Hits Plane

BONIFAY, Fla., Aug. 30.—(Universal.)—A bolt of lightning which struck the plane of Paul and Harold Lindsay, brothers, was responsible for their death, authorities had decided today.

Council Postpones Market House Quiz

Council has postponed until next Thursday the hearing on the North Side market house originally scheduled for today.

When the hearing is held, attendants will be called to discuss the rentals to be charged at the building, on which the city is spending $260,000 for remodeling.

TUTTI-FRUTTI TREAT

One orange
One-half cup raisins
One-half lemon
One-half cup butter
One and one-half cups sugar
One egg
One and three-fourth cups flour
One-half teaspoon baking powder
One teaspoon soda
One cup sour milk or buttermilk
Grated rind of orange, lemon and raisins

Cream butter and add cup sugar gradually. Light and fluffy. Add beaten egg. Continue creaming. Add fruit. Dissolve soda in sour milk. Add alternately with dry ingredients to creamed mixture and beat well. Add flour, baking powder and salt to make a thick batter that has been lined with oiled paper. Bake about 1 hour in a slow oven (325 degrees F.) about 20 minutes.

ANGEL FOOD CAKE

Three-fourths cup sifted flour
One-fourth cup sugar
One cup egg whites
Three-fourths teaspoon cream of tartar
One cup granulated sugar (extra)
One cup flour
One teaspoon vanilla

Beat egg whites, water and salt until frothy, add cream of tartar and beat until stiff but not dry. Fold in sugar (extra) in four additions, then fold in flour (sifted four times before measuring). Cut paper which will fit bottom of shallow pan; butter paper, spread one-half inch layer of angel batter in pan, and bake in slow oven 30 minutes. Remove from oven, turn cake upside down and remove paper. Put pancake in tray, ice with soft icing. This makes two cakes.

PEANUT BUTTER PENOCHE

Two cups brown sugar
One cup milk
One-half teaspoon salt
Three-fourths cup peanut butter
One-half cup chopped nuts

Boil sugar, milk and salt until a soft ball is formed (236 degrees F.). Remove from fire, add peanut butter and nuts, beat until well mixed. Turn portion of mixture into buttered pan. Cut when cool. Any portion of mixture may be used for fudge.

TAME that terrible TEMPER!

"WHAT'S KEEPING HER NOW? SHE'S ALWAYS LATE!"
"SORRY DEAR . . . THIS BOTTLE OF BLUE RIBBON WILL CALM YOU"
"THAT DID THE TRICK, JANE . . . I'M OKAY NOW."

Watchful wives know that "terrible tempers" are often the result of overwork or worry. When your husband gets that way, do this: Serve him a deliciously cold bottle of Blue Ribbon . . . (one for yourself, of course) : : : and see how quickly its satisfying coolness soothes and relaxes him. It works like a charm! (You'll feel better, too!) Don't spoil your remedy with ordinary beer. Insist on Blue Ribbon . . . pure and full-flavored : : : with a distinctive taste that makes it America's first choice. Always keep a few bottles in your refrigerator.

Another tip to wives: A bottle of Blue Ribbon helps you through a busy day. When you've been going since early morning, rest a minute. Treat yourself to a cool, refreshing bottle of Blue Ribbon. See how it relaxes you.

REED ATTACKS NEW DEAL IN VOTE DRIVE

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Republican nominees for Pennsylvania's fall elections "do their part" for three months, joined forces today at Williams Grove, near Carlisle, to formally launch the Nov. 6 campaign.

Senator David A. Reed, conservative Pennsylvania Republican, opened his campaign for re-election with a flat refusal to be a "yes man" for anyone—"even a President of the United States."

Back from a health-building sojourn in the Michigan woods, Reed attacked several phases of the New Deal, characterizing the "AAA experiment" and parts of the NRA program as "wrong in principle, unfair, unworkable and foredoomed to failure."

ASSAILS 'SHELL GAME'

He warned that recovery cannot be accomplished by "any legislative or administrative shell game."

He asserted:

"By the end of the present fiscal year, next June, the federal government will have spent—the present administration will have spent, in a little more than two years—approximately 15 billion dollars, an amount almost equal to the entire national debt at the time President Roosevelt took office.

"If this is to continue, the country may well ask the President to let someone deal the cards besides the Tugwells, the Warrens, the Tarleys, the Wallaces and the innumerable professors and medicine men who have flocked to Washington to peddle their quack remedies."

WON'T BE 'YES-MAN'

Facing what many regard as the stiffest battle of his political career, Reed reiterated his intention of supporting President Roosevelt when he thinks he is right and of opposing him otherwise. He added:

"If you want a 'yes man' in the United States Senate, don't send me."

Attorney General William A. Schnader, gubernatorial nominee who has been stumping the state in his own behalf for weeks, was to join the party's final drive for the entire slate. Other orators slated included Senator Harry B. Scott, nominee for lieutenant governor; Judge Frank M. Trexler, up for re-election to Superior Court, and State Senator Leon C. Prince, of Carlisle.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

Railroad Strategy Has New Deal In Huddle

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The railroads may have but a lot of arguments, but certainly not any of their old monkey business. They still know how to lay an inside rail on a political curve.

Mr. Mallon

The delicate way they have been railing the New Deal for needed relief lately would do credit even to the genius of an Ivy Lee. He handles public relations for the best of them.

You only have to go back a couple of weeks to the time when the roads felt they were down to their last spike. Their executives had been tipped privately that New Deal Co-ordinator Eastman was out to co-ordinate them into government ownership. They were scared stiff, afraid to move.

And when the government remissed a financially impossible pensions system down their throats, they only rolled a few times weakly. It was months before they accumulated gumption enough to file suit against the pension act in court.

CROSS-TIE

Fear of stirring up the New Dealers also delayed for months any effort to get increased freight rates. But a few days after the pension suit was filed, the roads appeal to the ICC for a flat 10 per cent freight rate boost.

This knew well the ICC will not give it to them. In fact, there have been leaks from the ICC indicating that a majority of the commissioners is dead set against any increase whatsoever. The bold application in the face of that situation was, however, only preliminary to the really striking bit of strategy.

It could not have been a mere coincidence that, a few days later, the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad announced that, in common with other railroads, it would have to begin firing some men because costs of operation have been going up.

That gentle hint will have the same effect on the New Dealers as if a cross-tie had been dropped on President Roosevelt's foot. It simply means:

"No increased rates; no work."

NOTES

You can safely lay a little bet that Der Furore will shortly seek to get a new treats of friendship with the Vatican in advance of the Saar elections. He hopes to swing the Catholic votes there around to Germany. The belief here is that he will fail to get the treaty. Friends of President Roosevelt's former sugar adviser, Charles Taussig, are congratulating him on the new Cuban treaty. It could hardly have been better for his molasses company.

PINCHOT, EARLE IN RELIEF ROW

New York conference will take place regardless of whether Earle will attend.

The conference of Republican and Democratic nominees for Governor, party chairmen and federal and state officials was arranged by Gov. Pinchot and Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, to arrange for continuation of federal grants to Pennsylvania without necessitating a special session of the Legislature.

CALLS IT 'CHILDISH'

Commenting on Earle's refusal to attend the conference, Gov. Pinchot said:

"His refusal even to find out the terms of the plan under consideration is an utterly irresponsible and childish performance.

"If Mr. Earle honestly wants to help the people of Pennsylvania he will withdraw his discourteous and most damaging refusal to co-operate with the National Administration, which he professes to support, and will attend the conference with Mr. Hopkins."

LAWRENCE BALKS

David Lawrence, Democratic state chairman, said later that he too would decline to attend the conference for the same reasons expressed by Earle.

The conference was planned for the weekend in New York, where Hopkins will be attending other business.

The Governor recently went to Washington for a conference with Hopkins and after they had discussed the crisis in Pennsylvania. The Governor announced the bi-partisan meeting.

Earle, in his refusal, demanded a special session of the General Assembly to provide relief for Pennsylvania's 300,000 unemployed as one of the proposed conference.

Attacking the latter plan as an "usurpation of the functions of the Legislature," he flatly refused to attend.

A special session is imperative, Earle said, to insure the people that the special privileged interests will pay their share of unemployment relief taxation.

CHARGES POLITICS

He charged the proposed conference was a piece of "strategy" of the Republican leadership.

This strategy, he declared, is "to postpone until after the November election any action on unemployment relief in order that next year saddle the entire mass of such relief on the sorely taxed masses while it continues its present tax immunity to for special privileged corporations which are the backbone of the Grundy-Mellon-Atterbury leadership in the Republican machine."

Boy Scales Wall At Huntingdon

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—State police today sought Mike Hunnecks, 18, who escaped from the Huntingdon reformatory by scaling a wall. Shortly after he escaped, the automobile of R. Wooner, of Huntingdon, was reported stolen.

EARLE TO SPEAK AT PICNIC HERE

Mrs. J. Wood Clark, vice chairman of the Democratic County Committee, has scheduled a counter attraction to the Republican State Committee meeting here September 8. While the Republicans are wrestling with adoption of a platform, Mrs. Clark will be holding a picnic in South Park, at which George H. Earle, candidate for Governor, and Joseph F. Guffey, candidate for the Senate, are billed to speak.

State Chairman David L. Lawrence, presumably expecting to have a view of the Republican platform by September 11, has called all Democratic county chairmen and vice chairmen for a meeting in Harrisburg on that date. If the Republican platform falls down on liberal social legislation the Democratic gathering will develop into something like a convention for the adoption of resolutions denouncing the opposition.

BELL TO FILL REVENUE POST

Henry D. Bell, of Mt. Lebanon, chief of the processing tax division of the Internal Revenue Collector's office will become acting collector Saturday, taking place of David L. Lawrence, whose resignation becomes effective that day.

Bell received official notification of his designation from Wright Andrews, acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue in the absence of Commissioner Guy T. Helvering. Lawrence resigned rather than retire as chairman of the State Democrat Committee and chairman of the county Democrat Committee.

Bell is the oldest attache of the collector's office here. He entered the internal revenue service in 1896.

Representatives of the Bureau of Internal Revenue will come from Washington to direct the transfer of the office from Lawrence to Bell.

CONSTITUTION UNDERMINED, BAR TOLD

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Chairman James M. Beck, Philadelphia Republican, expressed fear for the life of the Constitution of the United States, if present trends continue, before the American Bar Association convention today.

Beck, chairman of the committee on AMERICAN citizenship, pleaded for greater study of the Constitution in colleges, saying:

"If the association cannot impress upon the colleges and universities that the first requisite is a knowledge of the history of the Constitution . . . then for my part I fear for the Constitution."

The speaker said the opinion that the Supreme Court can defend the Constitution is a grievous illusion because:

"The court's sphere of influence is restricted and it can only defend certain principles of the Constitution.

"The salvation of the Constitution lies in the people themselves, and in them alone."

Beck was given prolonged applause when he warned:

"Destroy the Constitution of the United States and the Union itself will not long survive the destruction of its organic law."

During a period of years, he said, he has observed a slow whittling away of the basic principles of the Constitution—"principles that were such eternal verities that they are true now and for all time."

The committee's report was adopted with few dissenting votes.

Bar Offers Plan To Fight Crime

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The American public was offered a program today to help put the criminal in his proper place. As drawn up by the American Bar Association it contains four major provisions:

Creation of state departments of justice, headed by the Attorney General or a special officer, to direct and supervise the work of district attorneys, sheriffs and other law enforcement officers.

Establishment of a permanent committee of lawyers and laymen to watch the enforcement of criminal law.

Formulation, by state bar associations, of improvements in criminal law and procedure to be submitted to the courts, the legislature and the people for adoption.

Weeding out, by state and local bar associations, of dishonest and unethical practitioners of law.

O-o-o! Her Hair Stands on End In Storm

Standing atop Morro Rock during an electrical storm, Miss Berry

HER experienced the thrill of feeling her tresses reaching out into space, she said, and exhibits a picture as proof. Such phenomena generally are caused by the presence of static electricity in the air.

MANIACS HIDE IN SWAMPS

RALEIGH, N. C., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Seven maniacal criminals who broke out of the state hospital played a successful game of hide-and-seek today with the law.

The insane men, who planned their escape yesterday morning with uncanny care, left no trace behind them. Not once in the 24-hour manhunt through the swamps and towns have searchers picked up a "hot" trail.

The delivery was led by Ed Deaver, a convicted murderer saved from the electric chair by commutation of his sentence, who was quoted by a guard as saying:

"If I come back, it will be with my toes turned up."

Like Deaver, another member of the group, Tom Stafford, is a murderer. He killed his wife. The others are Tom Jackson, serving 21 to 24 years for robbery; Reginald Blake, who completed a short sentence but was held because of his mental condition; Robert Whitesides, highwayman; N. S. Goddard, store breaker, and Clyde Gaines, sent up from Catawba County.

Two Held In Theft Of Men's Clothing

Two men were being held by Center avenue police today in connection with the theft of five suits of clothes from the window of Al Berk's clothing store, 1013 Fifth avenue, early yesterday.

The two, Louis Morana, 29, of 26 Bridge street, Etna, and Alfred Casias, 26, of 1546 Clark street, Mexicans, were arrested at Logan and Clark streets last night, police said.

Notes in a Columnist's Little Red Book

Page 61—Ted Lloyd tells this one on his father. . . . Harried by family troubles, the elderly gentleman was strolling aimlessly down Times Sq. the other a. m. when he ran into a friend he hadn't seen in years. . . . "Tell me, Eli," asked the interested friend, "Have you any grown children?" . . . "Sure, I have—two big daughters. You should see them!" he replied. . . . "And do they live at home with you?" was the follow-up query. . . . "No!" came the bitter retort. "They aren't married yet."

Page 206—The first time you saw the table Lenore Ulric was sitting on one end of it and David Belasco was at the other end reading to her from the manuscript that later became "Lulu Belle." . . . It was about 14 feet long of solid oak, and far back in the last Century a Viennese tourneyman had spent the greater part of his middle-age carving unhappy memories into its legs and sides. . . . It was one of Belasco's prizes, and he never burdened it with manuscripts or trinkets which didn't matter. . . . This table represents the hopes and tortures of the unknown artist who spent years in making it," you once heard him say. "And I couldn't put anything on it that would be unworthy of his fine life—it would be a sacrilege!" . . . But the great producer died, and in time many of his treasures came under the auction block. The table was one of them.

The other night you dropped into one of the hotter Village dives where pseudo-nobodies gather to drink away the late hours that would otherwise be spent in sleepless cots worrying about their failures. . . . A group you recognized were in a far corner. . . . Not one of them meant much in the general scheme of things—discontents and impotent knaves who continually curse the present and look to a never-coming future when they would Do Something Big. . . . Their gin-lapping soiree was at its height when you entered, and you noticed the pools of spilt alcohol eating into the top of their table. . . . It was the table on which you once saw Lenore Ulric sitting. . . . "Oh, yes, I picked it up at an auction," the proprietor told you. "It came from Belasco's estate and I only paid $40 for it. Nice thing, isn't it?" . . . Too bad the ideals of men who die have to pass on with them!

Page 176—You often wonder what celebrated song-writers talk about when they meet. . . . Over a midday herring at Lindy's yesty, Lew Pollock was trying to pin Lew Brown to an important appointment later in the day. . . . "You say you'll be there," protested Pollock. "But I know you. You probably won't show up at all." . . . "All right, then," cajoled Brown. "What time tonight do you want me to disappoint you?" . . . "How about 7 o'clock," pleaded Pollock. . . . "I'm sorry I can't," returned Mr. Brown, "because at 7 o'clock I've got to disappoint somebody else."

Page 66—The Britannic was sailing for England, and you went down to gulp a bon voyage cocktail with some departing friends. . . . On the deck of ship you came face to face with an old man you remembered having met on the S. S. Kalyan going from Singapore to Hongkong about five years ago. . . . He shook your hand warmly. "Are you sailing, too?" he asked. . . . "No, just down to say good-bye to some people," you answered. "But I see from all those bags that you're pulling out." . . . "Yes, it will be my 61st crossing of the Atlantic," he said. . . . "Still traveling for pleasure—or is it business?" you continued to keep the conversation going. . . . "Oh, no," he sighed, shaking his head. "You see, my wife died 20 years ago, and I thought if I traveled I'd forget her. Well, I'm still traveling."

Page 87—Gossip Memos. . . . Carlo Tresca, famous Manhattan anarchist (who wouldn't swat a fly) is forgetting the aches of the world in a nudist colony near Nantucket. . . . The Gilbert Roland - Connie Bennett fire is lighting the Hollywood skies brighter than ever. . . . At the "Green Hat" preview the other night the Hollywooer, seeing Connie mobbed by autograph hounds, swept her off her feet and carried her to his limousine a la knight-of-old. . . . Harold B. Franklin's boy, Al, and Edna Torrence, the danseuse, are Hollywoozy. . . . Josephine Floyd who broke with Harry Anderson is being Du Barry'd by two rival display boys, Eli Johnson and Elliott Ferber. . . . Eddie Miller rejoins Smith & Dale when they premiere at the Casino de Paree, thus bringing three of the original Avon Comedy Four together again. . . . The Chas. Boilings (Mathilda Gray) are going for an heiring.

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The Alvin, now the leading de luxe theater of the Harris Amusement Company chain, will begin a new phase of its career tonight, when there will be a preliminary opening program. The regular daily grind will begin tomorrow.

For several months the old theater, which was erected by the late Charles L. Davis, actor, has been undergoing extensive alterations. Davis gave it the name of a character he had made famous on the stage, "Alvin Joslyn," which also was the title of the play, a work of "The Old Homestead" type. The play made Davis rich, and he built the theater as a monument to the old farmer who was its hero.

For years it was a leading legitimate theater, famed throughout the land, and many noted artists have trod its boards.

In line with the modern trend, it now becomes a movie house, thoroughly modernized in all respects. The stage has been retained, and in a short time "flesh" shows will be part of the program.

Pictures Are Halted As Memorial

In respect to the memory of Mrs. Benjamin Warner, mother of the Warner brothers, who died this week, ticket selling at Warner theaters throughout the country was to stop for two minutes, beginning at 2 o'clock this afternoon, and pictures being shown were to be halted for one minute. Various Warner offices were to close between 2 and 5, p. m.

Brent Goes In Air

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Guesses are being made as to why George Brent is in such a hurry to complete his 50 hours in the air, which qualifies him as a passenger pilot. Some say that Myrna Loy will be the first Hollywoodite to go aloft with Ruth Chatterton's ex. Others insist that Garbo was given the first refusal.

The romantic-looking actor has had the gossips puzzled ever since his separation. He took a temporary flyer into night club life with various partners and then retired into the privacy of his bachelor quarters at Toluca Lake. Not so long ago he was reported as being interested in Jean Muir. Now the Garbo rumors are uppermost.

Like as not, the real interest is somewhere else entirely.

Hollywood's champion stickler for realism is an old Scot who has been working with Helen Hayes in "What Every Woman Knows." The studio has taken pains to secure an accurate background for this picture. They duplicated the railroad station at Kilburnie even to the big clock.

Finding that the ancient Scot once was a resident of the district, they asked him if the set was perfect in every detail.

After comprehensive study he replied:

"Well, yes, except you have the train coming in on time and, in all the 20 years I lived there, I never saw it happen."

AFFECTING FAREWELL

If affecting farewells mean anything, the romance of Raoul Roulien and Conchita Montenegro is on the up-and-up. The South American star made a special trip to Malibu Lake to say goodby to Conchita, who was on location with the Fox troupe making "Hell in the Heavens." The actress was plenty upset when told that the company would work till 1 a. m., making it impossible for her to see Roulien off on the midnight plane. At 9 p. m., when the director relented, she burst into grateful tears.

However serious their romance, the couple will be parted for the next three months. Roulien flies to Havana and Porto Rico for personal appearances and then sails for southern Europe.

HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD

By JIMMY STARR

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—Hello! Evidence that the motion picture stars are tiring of each other's company, and may be a little sick of back-patting parties, is growing stronger day by day as leading players pick new abodes far from the madding crowd.

It used to be that the stars congregated in communities, where John could drop in on Bob for a midnight sip or call on Mary and Jane to exchange flattering opinions of themselves.

That stars are sick of this business of midnight "droppers in" is apparent from the rapid desertion of established screen communities. Of the 106 beach homes in Malibu, but 81 are occupied this year.

Shirley Temple's movie salary is exactly 20 times that of her father's pay check.

You don't have to believe this, but there's a studio typewriter repair man, Milo M. Whitlatch, who claims he can "read" the habits of movie stars when he fixes their machines.

And what's more, he's written a long story about his cinematic "repairing" adventures with such celebs as Connie Bennett, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford and Alice Brady.

Mr. Cooper

Miss Birell

An old European superstition—that of never being photographed entering an airplane—got Tala Birell in bad with the local bulb-pressers when she boarded a fast plane to New York. . . . Many episodes from the late Dillinger's life—and death—are to be found in the script of "The Jail Breaker," which Eddie Robinson is starring for Columbia. . . . Frank Mayo, the old-time Universal star, is trying a comeback after going bust in the dog raising racket. He's with Carol Lombard in "Orchids and Onions." . . . X-rays proved that Bing Crosby's appendix won't reach the unruly stage for a while, so he's slated to sing his way through "Here Is My Heart," the Paramount flicker. . . .

Al Boasberg wires to say he just saw a newsreel picturing "Bolder Darn"—and he wants to know if the censors cut out the use of the word "dam."

Odds and Ends

IN ONE of the local station houses the usual early-morning frolics was taking place. The keeper had counted the 12 men who had been brought in during the night, and was now about to be taken to court.

After the count, in order to check the list, he called the prisoners by name to ready them for the ride in the patrol wagon.

"Smith," he roared. "Here," was the ready reply.

"Brown." "Here."

"Bono." "Here."

"Lustig." "Here."

And so it went down the list until 11 reply had answered. But the twelfth and last name was a bird by the handle of Thistlewig. And the keeper was having a load of trouble trying to locate him.

"Thistlewig," he cried. No answer.

"Thistlewig," he howled. "Where's Thistlewig?"

After five such calls with no response, the keeper became extremely agitated. He was about to rush to the escape siren when a ragged-looking individual with bleary eyes stuck his head out of a cell.

"Hey, you," he called to the keeper. "Come on over here."

The keeper raced to the cell.

"What is it?" he asked. "Are you this guy Thistlewig?"

The bum stared blankly.

"Thistlewig?" he repeated vaguely. "Thistlewig? Jus' a minnit, now. How many men you supposed to have in this joint?"

"Twelve," replied the keeper.

"And," the bum went on, "have the other 11 guys answered to their names?"

"Yes," returned the keeper nervously.

The bum grinned, straightened his shoulders and extended a dirty hand through the bars.

"Well, then," he said happily, "shake hands with Mr. Thistletwig!" . . .

OUT at the Long Branch Kennel Club, reports Al Goodman, a certain dense, young damsel placed a $2 bet on a doggie. Strangely enough the hound won. For a moment or two, the dame stared blankly ahead—and then she deliberately tore up her mutuel ticket.

The girl looked highly surprised.

"Oh, dear," she gulped, "I thought he had to catch the rabbit!" . . .

LITTLE Sammy Renick, one of the best jockeys in the land, was in town the other Sunday afternoon. We fell to talking about bets and horses and people.

"The fault of most bettors," I observed, "is that they're always trying to get even. Not content with a small loss, they plunge deeper and deeper. It seems to me that the eternal cry of the race track is 'I want to get even.'"

Whereupon Sammy passed a brilliant observation.

"Yes," he agreed. "And the sad part of it all is that they always forget they were even when they started." . . .

TRUE or not, it's Henry Modell's idea of a good anecdote. The story has it that, after La Guardia was elected Mayor of New York last year, one of his campaign workers called upon him and asked for a position.

"Any chance of a commissioner's job?" he inquired.

The Mayor said those posts had all been filled. The job hunter wanted to know if there was anything doing in the line of assistant-commissionerships. No, the Mayor told him, there weren't any posts open.

"Well, then," persisted the pest, "how about an inspector's post? Or, if those are taken, how about making me an assistant inspector?"

"Very sorry," replied the Mayor again. "But none of those posts is open either."

The job hunter shrugged his shoulders.

"Then that's that," he said in final desperation. "Now how are the chances of getting some relief? . . .

CREDIT Milton Berle with the tale of the big-time gambler—always ready to bet on anything—who staggered into the railroad station. He was well plastered.

"What time doesh the next train leave for Boshton!" he inquired.

The clerk looked at the time table.

"The next train leaves at six," he replied.

"Can't leave at sixsh," he hiccoughed, "so I'll tell you what'sh let'sh do. We'll flip a coin—twelve or nothin'!"

Lanny Hero To Valet

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 30.—One actor who receives the old salute of "a man to serve a hero" is Lanny Ross, who is very much an idol to Marion Davies. I mention Friday who is himself an obscure coach of track and field, and who can quote you offhand the many records Mr. Ross held while attending Yale.

Some time ago I ran a story about Victor McLaglen and his light horse troop to the effect that Mr. M. was the donor of all their uniforms, etc. Now Mr. McLaglen wishes it to be known that each and every member of his troop buys his own uniform, pays an initiation fee and regular dues, and is completely self-supporting. I couldn't be sorrier.

DRAMA, COMEDY :-: Baseball Star With Valce :-: ON AIR TONIGHT

Varied Bills Scheduled For Fans

Tonight's the night for the Kiddies theatregoer. Western thrillers . . . jungle terrors . . . mountaineers . . . music . . . light comedy . . . with a touch of baseball . . . What's your pleasure?

Who would ever suspect that Rudy Vallee nursed a secret passion for baseball . . . Yet see who's the guest on his program this evening! Lemmon Boys . . . Johnson" to the fans, the pitching sensation of the American League, will discuss with Rudy the differences between pitching 'em over the home plate . . . and pitching 'em in a curious key.

Chic Sale, the only actor to be eulogized in three columns of newsprint before his demise, is head man on Vallee's air extravaganza, while Lou Holtz and his stooge cavort with Jeanne Aubert and Val and Ernie Stanton, whose jokes are more English than Yorkshire pudding.

"Danny Deever," the unfortunate soldier of Kipling's Barrack Room Ballad, is the doubtful hero of Capt. Henry's Show Boat which docks at Toronto tonight, via WCAE at 9. Capt. Henry will join the festivities for the opening of the Canadian National Exposition.

From the great open spaces come two bold bad western tales. "Yankee Jim" never heard of the camp that's named for him, but his name lives again in tonight's Death Valley story—KDKA at 9.

. . . Dude ranchers of the feminine persuasion and a lone rider of the range bring romance to the second western drama of the night, Bar-X Days and Nights, on WJAS at 9.

"Grits and Gravy," the new Lulu Vollmer story, is at last rivalling the author's own "Moonshine and Honeysuckle." "Way up thar' in the mountains it's reason for arrest when a man shoots at a woman . . . but misses. (KDKA at 8).

Herbert Hoover returns to the air for the first time since his retirement, Wednesday next. NBC carries the talk with WCAE as the local outlet. Irvin S. Cobb will speak on the same program . . . which comes from Los Angeles and is occasioned by the Community Chest Welfare luncheon. . . .

That new Tony Wons program

Remote

Lois Miller, singing organist, who with Reed Kennedy, baritone, opens a series of 13 weekly broadcasts from the Sewickley Heights residence of Thomas A. McGinley over KDKA at 7:15 tonight.

(Labor Day, WCAE at 5:30) has a theme song written by Ulderico Merrell titled "I've Built a House by the Side of the Road" . . . very special for the new program said to have been inspired by the soft quality of the Wons voice.

Rival network, by the way, retains the philosophical observer idea right along now, but calls it "Wayside Cottage." Same thing, only different. . . .

Nice when a local band moves into a spot so recently held down by out-of-towners. Jerry Mayhall goes into the William Penn as the roof dine-and-dance band Labor Day, with two broadcasts daily over KDKA. . . .

Betty Dugan is only 18 years old, but she makes her debut as orchestra leader on WWSW tonight. . . .

GLOBE TROTTING

Hello Ladies and Gentlemen.

Grant street rapidly is becoming the "Pride of Pittsburgh." Not so long ago it was a common path, a narrow congested street.

Recently a department store beautified the plot of ground at both avenue with a work of art designed by Henry Hornbostel.

The Courthouse one of the finest examples of its type of architecture in the world, has been cleaned to gleaming brightness, and new elaborate lighting fixtures swing over its doors.

New ornamental lamps supported by boulevard lamps posts at the curb send their soft glow over the street and sidewalk. Flood lights illuminate the courthouse's lofty spire at night, and the final touch is the flowering jardinerrs which soften the stern demeanor of the granite entrances.

When your friends visit Pittsburgh be sure to take them at night if possible, to see what has been done to beautify our city.

I am anxious to please Globe Trotter E. F. Austin by finding out why old Third street was changed to Fancourt street.

If you know, tell me where the name Fancourt comes from.

Mrs. Powell, of Keystone street, reports a banded carrier pigeon flying around the house at 3:01.

WHY RADIO SURVEYS—AND WHERE?

Writer Has Awful Time Finding 'Workers'

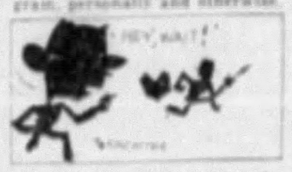
By AIRCASTER

Like a thousand other people interested in the backstage phases of radio broadcasting, I have been hoping and waiting for years for a telephone call. I have been wondering when one of those field workers grasped upon radio surveys would get around to my house and ask me what I thought of a program, or to what I was listening. I would then have my faith in radio surveys shaken. But after being inquisitive on this subject for about five weeks, I'm beginning to suspect that the old insoluble problem of gauging radio audiences is still with us.

For 10 years it has been the dream of radio performers that some day, somehow, somebody might invent some kind of a system by which the radio audience might be counted and canvassed for its reaction to kilocycle entertainment. However, there is as yet no definite way of ascertaining at any given time how many people are listening, how many are applauding or how many are making faces and wafting svrtle bronx cheers at their loudspeakers.

AERIAL BUBBLES

But it is a fact that many broadcasting executives, agency officials and individual sponsors who subscribe to survey systems take their weekly reports on program ratings as gospel. They are told that the surveys have countless field workers on the job day and night, canvassing the audience by telephone, telegram, personally and otherwise.



It's a pretty safe bet that if a real check-up of the audience were possible, many current bobbies would burst, many idols would totter on feet of clay, and many supposedly obscure figures would rise to the top of the heap. At any rate, justice would prevail. It is surprising, indeed, how seriously the reports of the "field workers" are taken.

BUTTON, BUTTON . . . !

Personally, I'd like to catch up with one—or have one catch up with me. But in 11 years of close contact with radio, I never have. And in the past five weeks I have been eager to meet up with somebody else who may have heard from one of the surveyors. I have been going around asking friends, acquaintances and even enemies whether they ever have been called or approached. None had.

"Then," I demanded in desperation, "Have any of your friends ever mentioned being approached?"

"Sorry," was the inevitable reply. "Don't know a thing about it, and I'm not interested in any more insurance, if that's what you're selling."

So you see, neither radio nor the surveyors has ever been able to count up broadcasting's circulation. Yet many a swell program has been knocked over and many a poor one substituted on the strength of the survey reports.

You might think sales and fan

Program Ratings, 'Gospel,' Bring Loss of Stars

mail would help, but they don't. Cheap artists often will submit an impressive-looking drawing and unfold a pen name, and fan mail writers are always the same people.

So the old problems persists:

PUNCH AT NITA COSTS $1,000

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Slap, sock, right hook, left, or whatever it was, the blow Mrs. George B. Wilson, wife of a wealthy yachtsman, landed on Nita Cavalier brought the film actress a $1,000 judgment.

A jury last night ruled in favor of the actress in her suit for $51,200 damages.

Miss Cavalier testified Mrs. Wilson hit her under the eye, causing a scar and bringing about a nervous condition. Mrs. Wilson said it was a light slap, delivered in self-defense.

A policeman said it was a right hook. A newsboy said it was a left hook. A fight trainer said it was a left hook, which almost floored the actress.

The dispute, on a downtown street, grew out of a controversy over Mrs. Wilson's husband.

Hold Patrolman On Assault Charge

Prince Bruce, a Negro patrolman attached to the Oakland Police Station, was at liberty on $1,000 bond today after being held for court on an assault and battery charge by Alderman A. M. Maloney.

The charge was filed by Felix (Dinty) Woods, an ex-pugilist, of 639 Bigelow street, who alleged that the patrolman struck him on the head with his mace while arresting him on a drunkenness charge in Hazelwood, August 10. Woods said his head was lacerated by the blow and that several stitches were required to close the wound at Mercy Hospital.

BIRD STAMPS ON SALE HERE

The government's new migratory bird stamp, costing $1, which must be affixed to their hunting licenses by all hunters intending to shoot migratory birds, was placed on sale at the postoffice here today.

About 70,000 have been distributed in Western Pennsylvania, and will be on sale in every county seat and city over 2,500 in population.

Sale of the stamps, which are blue in color, depicting a bird in flight over marshlands, is to raise funds for the purchase of feeding, resting, and breeding grounds for migratory birds.

Never Felt Better!
"I've been taking Kelp-A-Malt tablets for 10 days and have gained 7 lbs. and want to say I have never felt better in my life," says Mrs. R. W. This report is typical of thousands of thin, rundown, underweight men and women who have found Kelp-A-Malt the most successful weight builder they have ever tried. Kelp-A-Malt acts 3 ways in 1 to build flattering extra pounds of solid flesh. First, its rich supply of practically every needed body mineral, nourishes the digestive glands that produce the juices needed to digest fats and starches—the weight building elements in food. Next, it contains an amazingly effective digestive substance that actually can digest 4 times its own weight in flesh building food. Third, Kelp-A-Malt's generous amount of natural food iodine normalizes the over active internal glands that keep down body weight. It prevents tissues from being too quickly broken down and consumed—burnt up by the body.
Start Kelp-A-Malt today and watch new pounds of solid flattering flesh quickly appear in place of scrawny hollows. Notice how much better you feel. How ordinary stomach distress vanishes. You gain 5 lbs. in 1 week or the trial costs you nothing.

You May Think You Are Fastidious... But Your Teeth Know Better
You can't fool your teeth with an old, worn-out, scraggly, past-ruled, food-clogged and germ laden toothbrush. They know that you are not particular and sooner or later will revolt against your shameful negligence.
Why be nice about other things, and so slovenly about your toothbrush? It's easy to be dainty in this respect also, for you can always possess a clean, fresh, serviceable and sanitary toothbrush— even WITHOUT A PENNY'S COST!
A NEW TOOTHBRUSH FOR LIFE
IT'S REFILLABLE
The Lykolene REFILLABLE toothbrush consists of two parts, handle and brush-head, which are easily combined and separated. There are no mechanical parts; nothing to adjust or get out of order.
By using Lykolene Dental Cream, that new, delightful super-cleansing dentifrice, you need never buy a toothbrush, for each carton contains a Lykolene toothbrush REFILL that fits perfectly into the permanent Lykolene toothbrush handle. This handle you buy but once, at the trifling cost of only 15 cents. With this meager purchase your toothbrush worries are over for life. Because each time you buy a tube of Lykolene Dental Cream, you simply remove your old refill and replace it with the new one that came with your latest purchase.

"When I undress for bed, I undress my face, too! I take daytime make-up off thoroughly with Lux Toilet Soap.

"Then I know I'm not risking unattractive Cosmetic Skin. No stale cosmetics are left in my pores to clog them, enlarge them, cause little blemishes or blackheads.

"It takes only a minute or two to protect my skin the Hollywood way. So I use my Lux Toilet Soap beauty care every single night! Then I can use all the cosmetics I want to—and my skin stays marvelously clear and smooth!"

Cosmetics Harmless if removed this way

Use all the cosmetics you wish, but remove them thoroughly the Lux Toilet Soap way.

You may think you remove stale rouge and powder completely, and yet actually leave bits of make-up in the pores to choke them, enlarge them, cause Cosmetic Skin.

Don't take chances! Lux Toilet Soap is made to remove cosmetics thoroughly. Its creamy, ACTIVE lather floats out every last trace of rouge, powder, dust and dirt. So gently, too! Always at night, and also before you put on fresh make-up during the day—use this modern complexion soap!

STATE ASKS PRISON TERM FOR GIRL SLAYER OF ROMEO

DEFENSE RESTS IN CLARION TRIAL

romantic agency courtship, shuttling the romantic typewritten love-letters sent to her by the aged farmer, and climaxing her incidents with the slow attack.

"I was afraid of him. I was afraid he would do me bodily harm."

From memory she quoting the advertisement she testified she read in a matrimonial agency publication. She said the ad read:

"A handsome bachelor, aged 40, light hair, weight 150 pounds, height 5 feet 8 inches, has some means, has no bad habits, wishes to correspond with girls and women from 16 to 30 years old with marriage in view."

Leona, a country girl of slight physical proportions, related the hardships suffered as one of 12 children in a family of straitened circumstances. She completed grade school at the age of 16, working during summer vacations for some wealthy people in Clarion for her board and clothes and one dollar a week. This was in "good times," she testified.

Her last job on a farm near her home in Coshocton, O., she testified, provided only board for which she worked from 4 a. m. until "supper time" milking cows, feeding the hogs and helping with the housework.

Leona answered the matrimonial advertisement, inclosing her photograph, she testified. She received about 20 letters from Kelly. Only eight of these were offered in evidence. They covered a period from November, 1933, to February, 1934. Attorney W. J. Geary of Leona's counsel, read the missives to the jury.

On November 18, the Mail-order Romeo wrote as follows:

"I am looking for someone to share my home. I live alone in a 10-room house which I own. Fine place. Use gas for light and heat. Water in the house. Besides this, I own a farm of 100 acres and one and a half acre lot with a small house on and five acre tract of woodland.

"But it's lonely living alone—so lonely I can't live alone any longer. Come and live with me. You say you want a home. I will give you a home and will do the best I can for you."

In a postscript in the same letter, he wrote:

"I have got letters from other girls. They didn't suit. Wanted me to come to see them. You come to see me. You will never be sorry. I'm no Bluebeard. I like to go to dances, shows, everything that goes on."

In December, he wrote:

"I am sending you a picture of myself . . . Those kiddies in the picture is just little kiddie friends, so you can see I am not so very dangerous or these kiddies wouldn't get so close to me."

On Christmas Day, he wrote:

"You said if you were my wife, I wouldent get lonesome . . . I just know I wouldn't. Why I am not as lonesome now as I was.

"You sure would of made me nice Christmas present . . . One I would never have parted with and loved it all my life. . . ."

Another letter, dated January 23, read in part:

"Lots of girls has wanted to come, but you are the only girl I thought I would care to have . . . The reason if you would be willing to get out in the morning and milk six and seven cows in zero weather, what more would a man want.

"I would take you as a wife, daughter, or a dear friend . . . Let's quit writing. Let's talk to each other."

He repeatedly asked her to come to Clarion.

On February 19 he thanked Leona for a valentine she had sent him. His letter closed with a poetic verse to which he signed his initials, "J. K."

Leona testified she corresponded with Kelly up until the latter part of May, when she said Kelly sent her money for the expense of her trip here. Attorney Geary, conducting his client on direct examination, asked:

"How much did he send you?"

"Seven dollars—he sent me a check."

She testified she arrived in Clarion at 2 a. m. on the morning of June 1, slept at a hotel, then at 6 a. m. with 50 cents in her pocket started to walk the 10 miles into Fisher Kelly's home.

"What did Kelly say to you when you arrived?"

"He said, 'You stay here a few days and if you like it, it'll be yours always.' I liked it all right and I wanted to stay."

"What did you do during the first week you were there?"

"Well, I washed all the windows—the woodwork and all. I did his washing, cooking and housework and I mowed the lawn."

The first week, she testified, was a happy one. Kelly, she said, treated her fine and when she complained about having to stay at the house alone at nights, gave her a pistol—the same 32 calibre gun which a few days later killed him.

LEONA MENSER WITH HER MOTHER, MRS. NETTIE MENSER

She testified:

"Mr. Kelly went away and left me there alone. He said, 'if you're afraid, I have a gun you can keep in your possession'."

She was asked:

"Did he give you a gun?"

"He did—he pulled it out of a pocket of a coat hanging in the kitchen and gave it to me. He told me, 'keep it to protect yourself with'."

"From the time Mr. Kelly gave you that revolver where was it kept?"

"Under a pillow on the davenport in the front parlor. I put it there."

Attorney Geary swung into a new line of questioning.

"After you were there three or four days, did you have any conversation with Mr. Kelly about staying there longer?"

"Yes sir—He asked me if I liked the place and I told him I did. Then he asked me to marry him and he gave me this wedding ring (she held aloft a cheap dinner ring with a large blue setting). He said we would be married on June 14."

"Where did that occur?"

"In the house."

"What part?"

"In the kitchen."

That night, Leona related how Kelly came to her room. Over objection, she testified, lasted for four nights.

Finally, on June 13, Kelly told her he had changed his mind about marriage. She testified:

"Mr. Kelly told me he was done with me. He said he didn't want me any more."

This precipitated a quarrel, Leona testified, which lasted far into the night and finally Kelly left the house. When he returned, she testified, he was "so drunk he couldn't stand up."

He told her, she testified:

"I've had other girls here the same as you. I'm through with you, so get out."

Geary asked:

"Did he mention any of the others?"

"Yes, he told me about a fat girl—his New York Kimono Girl, he called her. All she did, he said was sit around in a kimono and smoke cigarets all day long. He said he got rid of her.

"Then he told me he had another girl—a married woman from New York. She was married to a racketeer, he told me."

District Attorney Davis objected to testimony of this kind and before the judge could rule on the objection, Leona spoke up:

"Oh, he had lots of other girls there. He told me all about them."

On the night of June 13, Leona testified, Kelly kicked down the door to her room, dragged her to the top of the stairs, gave her a shove, and told her:

"You d—n little devil, I'll learn you."

She was compelled to sit up in a chair all that night, Leona testified, and Kelly argued with her all the next day. Finally, about noon, she testified, she had packed her clothes and was walking out the door when Kelly grabbed her suitcase and told her he was going to keep it for board.

She testified:

"I couldn't go then. I had no money and no clothes. I started to cry and he drove off in his automobile with my clothes."

Returning home late in the afternoon she testified, Kelly greeted her with curses and demanded:

She testified:

"I told him I wanted my clothes. Then he told me, 'You d—d little devil, I'll knock h—l out of you,' and he had a mean look on his face like he was going to kill me. He ha' his fist raised as if for to hit me and I ran."

"Where did you run?"

"I ran out of the kitchen, through the living room and into the parlor. He ran after me, hollering like he always did and said, 'I'll fix you so no other man will have you.'

"I told him to leave me alone and he said, 'I'm not afraid of you and that old gun.' I was holding the gun at my side.

"His fist was doubled up as he came in the room and I thought he was going to hit me, but instead he grabbed my hand with the gun in it and the gun was discharged. Mr. Kelly fell down on the floor and I was afraid. I asked him if he was hurt and he said yes, and for me to help him turn over. I helped him turn over on his back and then I went for the doctor."

Leona repudiated the alleged confession introduced by District Attorney Davis, and declared:

"I was so dazed that night and so tired. I don't know what I told the officers. They asked me to sign something, but I didn't read it. I just signed it."

Real He-Man Tries Hard To Get Education

Ambition and grit enough to be born into the world a poor body and nose his way through to the end of a good education . . . Desirous of being an engineer, and wanting to go to a local technical school . . . And working both in the day and the evening to win OUT. That's what I call a real HE-MAN.

Miss Brunot

And that's what this young man who has written to me tells me about . . . Not complaining, sure. Not envying the fellows tossing about in their shorts and batting the ball over the net, or reclining on the sands and listening to what the waves are saying . . . Not being an idle dreamer of far-away dreams that will never materialize . . . But realizing even at his tender age that to get anything one must plod ahead for it . . .

GIVES INSPIRATION

Holding fast to the hitching-strap is this brawny brother . . . and sort of an inspiration he is to this Speak Up Sisters column . . .

He wants to know whether he should compromise a little . . . and finish at a free school, or should he use up all the coin he has, for the tuition he has to pay for . . . That's a difficult thing for me to answer . . . weigh both sides well, and then decide in whichever direction will get you the most . . . SCRIMPING a few years isn't going to spoil any young fellow's life . . . Some of our best men have done it, and LANDED BIG . . .

The early principals of self discipline never ruin anyone . . . and one usually finds a PLAY PERIOD sometime in life . . .

MUCH IN COMMON

He has a girl, has this big brother. He and she enjoy the same things. They have, oh, so much in COMMON. Yet she doesn't seem to prefer him over several other fellows who take her out. Even though his pocket is usually flat, he has sent her birthday and Christmas presents, and has dipped into his spare long-green several times for flowers. She always has thanked him and appeared ever so grateful. She is ALWAYS NICE to him.

And shall he continue seeing her?

Of course, continue seeing her . . . the very fact that you and she have so many things in common, Rob, is also likely to have given her a good bump of common sense. And she realizes that you are in no position yet to be too serious.

You and she are both in school, and it would be foolish to plan too extensively for your futures, and together. Chances are she'll be waiting along the roadside for you when you come over the top in good fashion. At least let your hopes lie in wait for such a happening.

And here's good luck to you!

QUITS SPEAKING

Dear Miss Brunot:

Quite awhile ago I met a fellow; we were not introduced, but he was in my classroom at high school. I took a liking to him and was sort of suspicious that he returned this caring, for he was always asking me for a date. And often I found him wandering near my home. Well, he asked me to go to a picnic, and I accepted. I really enjoyed myself very much, and so when he asked me for another date I accepted happily. After that we went out quite often together.

He does not smoke, drink, pet nor swear, and he has not missed a Sunday at church for three years.

I grew terribly fond of him and am quite sure he liked me.

When school stopped we both started to summer school, and to our surprise and pleasure we both were in the same room. And had seats near together. One morning I came in and started to talk to him, and he said very unpleasantly: "Will you keep quiet for 10 minutes?"

BOY NOT JOKING

I thought he was in fun, and decided for a joke to be still for the time allotted. He has told me I have a very good sense of humor. When the 10 minutes were up, I asked him for his paper so I could compare it with mine. We usually did this. But instead of giving it to me he said "Never mind." This time I realized he was not joking, so did not speak to him the rest of the period.

When leaving class he said: "I know why you are mad. Because I did not give you my paper." I did not speak, but walked on. About two days later, he said: "Still mad?" As I was still hurt, I did not know what to do or say.

I do not believe it is genuine love with me, but I am very fond of this boy, and now that two weeks have passed I realize how I miss him. I told some girl to tell him to speak to me. But that I expected him to apologize. He has not spoken, neither has he apologized.

Please, tell me what to do, Miss Brunot. As school is over and I may not see him until it begins again, shall I write him a note? I should hate to break up such a valuable friendship.

MIL.

Perhaps some outsider had been twitting this boy about your exchange of papers with him, and he may have merely been showing the outsider what a FELLOW he was . . . I do not, personally, approve of even the best of chums, exchanging school lessons . . . there is a phase of help in this which is not strictly ethical . . . Maybe he suddenly awoke to this.

MAY HAVE BEEN GUYED

Also someone may have been saying something to him about your chats with him across the back of the seat in school . . . This isn't a wise thing to do, either, sister . . . Write him a note, show him you are a sport and know how to forgive.

I wouldn't expect too humble an apology, Mil . . . In fact, I don't think he owes it to you . . . especially if he were trying to get it across to you in his rather meager fashion, that you and he had better not compare school notes . . . It isn't every one, you know, sister, who is a diplomat.

You are right in not wanting such a nice friendship to go on the rocks, and must remember a young man who keeps up such a high standard of morals as you describe this one as doing, naturally if guyed from an outside source about something, is very liable to take drastic action, just as this one did.

EX-SWEETHEARTS SHOULD KEEP EACH OTHER'S SECRETS, SAYS FAY KING

WHAT I CONFIDED IN HER WITH HIS SLEEVE QUAD GIRLS SHE TOLD BROADCAST
I DIDN'T MIND THE WAY SHE SPOKE OF HER DEAD FRIEND MOTHER DID I!
I WAS ONCE FOND OF HER AND I DO NOT WISH TO BE UNKIND TO THAT MEMORY
FAY KING

By FAY KING

"What did she say about me?"

"What did he say about me?"

This is often asked of those who have recently talked with a former friend and confidant.

The best answer, if it is true, is when he or she replies:

"Your name was not mentioned. Nothing at all was said about you!"

When friends or sweethearts drift apart, both should respect the confidences and memories that once existed.

The one who betrays and belittles these may be listened to, but those who listen have a poor opinion of such lack of loyalty.

The one who maintains silence will be regarded with more respect, and conceded to have the better character.

As you speak of one to others, they must expect you may speak of them also.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Hold-Up Play

After a beginner at Bridge learns the rank of the cards and the honor-trick table, one of the first things taught him is the great importance of the holdup play, the purpose of which is to shut out a hand with established long cards and thus permit the fulfillment of the contract. Practically all players are familiar with this play in its more elementary forms. They know that, holding the Ace and two cards of a suit, the wisest thing is ordinarily to hold up the Ace until the third round. There are other forms of the hold-up play which are more complicated, although the principle upon which they are based is exactly the same.

A somewhat unusual form of the hold-up play is presented on the hand below. Unfortunately, South, the Declarer, had not mastered the principle of the hold-up play sufficiently well to realize that he should be satisfied with one trick in his opponent's suit in order that he might fulfill his contract regardless of the location of honors in other suits.

East and West vulnerable.

	♠ K 2 ♡ 10 9 8 ◇ A Q J 7 6 3 ♣ 6 3
♠ Q 9 6 ♡ K 3 2 ◇ 4 ♣ A 10 9 7 6 4	North West East South	♠ 8 7 5 4 3 ♡ 7 6 5 4 ◇ K 8 ♣ Q 2
	♠ A J 10 ♡ A Q J ◇ 10 9 5 2 ♣ K J 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 N T (1)	Pass	3 N T (2)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South has no other sound bid at this point. To use the Approach bid of one diamond would be stretching that excellent principle too far.

2—North, with a nearly solid suit and a probable re-entry, is willing to try for game.

West opened his fourth-best club, the seven. The three was played from Dummy. East played the Queen and South took stock of the situation. If East could be excluded from the lead he held two stoppers in clubs, and being greedy rather than wise, he decided to stake all on finding the King of diamonds in the West hand and went up with the King of clubs. He next led the ten of diamonds, playing small from Dummy, and East won this trick and returned the deuce of clubs through the Declarer, whereupon West reeled off five club tricks and set the Declarer two tricks.

It is, of course, obvious that South's reasoning was faulty throughout. He did not need more than one trick in clubs, as five diamonds, one club, two spades and one heart total nine in any land or clime. He should have refused to take the chance of adding a futile overtrick to his total and permitted East to hold the first trick with the Queen of clubs. This play would have guaranteed him the best chance of fulfilling his contract. The desire for an overtrick should never interfere with the safest method of playing a hand.

Tomorrow's Hand

North, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

	♠ Q J 10 ♡ K J 10 9 8 ◇ Q 7 ♣ K Q J
♠ 8 6 5 4 ♡ 4 ◇ 8 6 3 2 ♣ 10 5 3 2	North West East South	♠ A 9 2 ♡ 5 3 2 ◇ 10 9 4 ♣ 8 7 6 4
	♠ K 7 3 ♡ A Q 7 6 ◇ A K J 5 ♣ A 9

This hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Almond green is a lovely new color that is flattering to blonde and brunette. It is particularly attractive when combined with certain shades of brown. It brings out the velvetiness of deep brown eyes. Blue orbs like it, too, take on luster. Black and white combinations are having a revival. Lovely on the tow-headed girls. When worn by the brunette she should add a red belt and carry a red purse. Everything is gay this summer. Grand! Helps along the beauty cause.

Do anything that will keep you outdoors, quester for good looks. Cook up an interest in some outdoor sport — tennis, golf, walking, anything that will spur you into having a flirtation with Mister Al Fresco.

The athletic girl acquires grace of movement, keeps her muscles healthy, never suffers from poor circulation, sleeps well, sits down to her beefsteak and onion with a feeling of pleasure.

Exercise washes out the lungs, improves the complexion, shines up the soul lamps and cuts down the cost of beautifying aids.

Formula for a massage cream: One-half ounce of white wax, one-half ounce of spermaceti, one ounce of cocoanut oil, one one ounce of lanoline, two ounces of oil of sweet almonds. Melt in a porcelain kettle, remove from fire, add one ounce of orange flower water to which a few drops of oil of lavender flowers have been added. Fluff with egg beater until it begins to thicken, pour into small jars. Elegant!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

A Hobby Is Beneficial to Health

Not so long ago an extraordinary exhibit was held in New York City. I refer to the annual "hobby show" for boys, held under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. There are more than one hundred exhibits by boys ranging in age from 8 to 18 years.

Dr. Copeland

No one will deny that a hobby is desirable. It is instructive, entertaining and of special value for children in that it often develops talents that might otherwise remain hidden. Of course, hobbies are equally beneficial to the adult. Many of our leading citizens indulge in such simple but appealing and beneficial hobbies as collecting stamps, odd coins or books. Others take an interest in photography.

I cannot speak too highly of the value of hobbies for children. The child who develops one or more hobbies at an early age is indeed fortunate. He is assured of an enjoyable pastime which perhaps will give him happy moments all through his life.

A highly emotional and nervous child should be encouraged to develop a hobby. Many believe that hobbies prevent nervous and physical strain since they relax the mind, nerves and body. Often a lonesome and irritable child takes on new life by developing a hobby of some sort.

Never force a hobby. That can't be done, but you can lead up to and encourage one. Bear in mind that a given interest or pleasure does not appeal to every individual. Above all remember a hobby is of value only if it offers pleasure, genuine enjoyment and relaxation.

Contrary to the popular belief a hobby does not necessarily mean an expenditure of money for equipment. Simple hobbies can be developed within the reach of everyone.

Of course, indulgence in a hobby can be overdone. It may involve too great expense and so cause one to deprive himself of the necessities of life.

To every child and every adult I strongly recommend a hobby. To indulge it, is an excellent method of relaxation, entertainment and education. You can help your child by stimulating interest in some relaxing and instructive hobby.

Answers to Health Queries

J. M. L. Q.—Would a blood pressure 10 to 12 points higher than normal cause me to feel dizzy and nervous?

A.—High blood pressure is probably the cause of your symptoms. For full particulars restate your question and send a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

M. R. Q.—My father has high blood pressure which is further aggravated by poor elimination. What foods would be most helpful in this case?

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Afternoon Shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—I am planning a shower for a friend who is to be married next month. I am planning to have it on a Sunday afternoon, then in the evening have the young men friends of the guests come and have supper. Is this proper?

2—How should the invitations be worded? Should I buy little shower invitations and add words to that effect? E.

1—Yes.

2—I suggest that you write your invitations as personal notes. Then the notes to the girls can be of one kind and the notes to the young men who are to "come in after the shower," can be of a different wording.

Given in Marriage

A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Warned Sympathy May Cause Trouble

Lillian looked at me oddly, as I asked her excitedly whether she supposed that Hugh Grantland was in worse condition than we thought, and that that was the reason for Dr. Braithwaite's insistent refusal to permit my father to waken him.

"No, I don't think anything of the kind," she retorted, "although"—her voice was suddenly grave—"one never can tell, of course. But I put that very question flatly to Dr. Braithwaite, and he told me that there were no complications in connection with Hugh's injury; he was simply weak from loss of blood. And he said, incidentally, that Hugh possessed a wonderful heart. So there are all your answers written on nice little cards."

"I am so glad!" I said earnestly, and again Lillian gave me that odd look.

"Look here," she said suddenly, as if making up her mind reluctantly, but firmly, to some step. "You know I'd knock the block off of anybody else that hinted this, to you or to anybody else; but—don't you think you'd better put the soft pedal on the solicitude-for-Hugh thing? You were very prettily concerned just now! It's too bad Hughie couldn't see you! And lucky that the Dicky-bird didn't."

KINDLY WARNING

She grinned at me as she finished, but I knew that behind the gibe was a kindly warning. I could think of neither, however, in my chagrin and my humiliated rage at myself.

"Oh!" I exclaimed hotly. "That is intolerable!"

"Which?" Lillian demanded coolly, still with laughter on her lips. "Your betraying a little too much anxiety over Hugh's condition, or my speaking about it?"

Something elusive in her voice—an undertone hardly audible—brought me to my senses with a jerk. I crossed to her and put my hand on her shoulder.

"Forgive me!" I said, with lips that I tried in vain to keep steady. "I'll be honest. I did mean for the instant that your comment was intolerable, but I don't mean it now. You always are watching out for me. But—won't you believe me when I tell you that I am no more anxious over Hugh's condition that I would be over Harry or Dicky's nephews, or Roland, were one of them wounded as Hugh is?"

She did not answer me for a second, only looked at me steadily, with neither belief nor disbelief in her eyes, and I cried out impassionedly:

"Don't you believe me? You must believe me!"

She smiled and, putting up her hand, patted the one with which I was gripping her shoulder.

DISCIPLINE SYMPATHY

"I believe, my dear, that you believe what you are saying. And I know that you will be most discreet after this little warning. But—take a tip from your ever-loving friend, and discipline that sympathetic heart of yours where Hugh is concerned.

"Now don't run wild and get all sorts of foolish notions into your head. You haven't given anybody cause to believe that you give Hugh any more consideration than you do any other guest of your house. But I know you as well as if I'd strung your bones and put you together, and I've had a hunch for some time that I ought to run up a signal for you."

"Lillian!" I gasped, horror-stricken. "Do you mean that I'm —that I'm—"

"Falling in love with Hugh?" she finished for me, as cooly as if she were reciting a cooking recipe. "That depends upon what you call falling in love. I certainly do not mean that you have the same feeling for him that you have for Dicky, or that there will ever be any danger of Hugh displacing Dicky in your heart. But I do think you're being altogether too sympathetic with him for his good and yours."

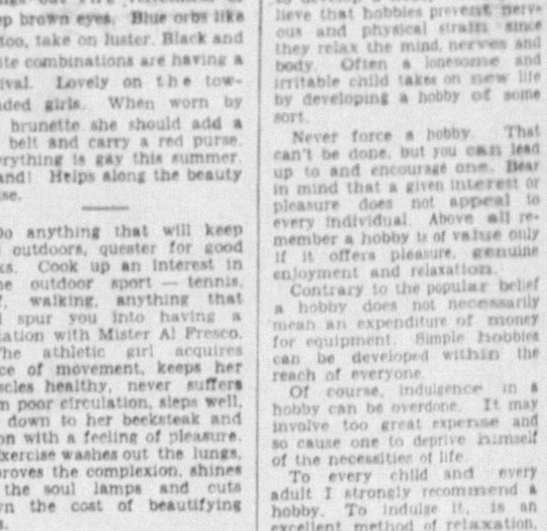
Your Mother Knows How Good It Is



Your mother depended upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to tide her over the three critical periods of maturity, maternity and middle age. It's just as good a medicine today as it was then. Better, in fact, because our chemists have improved it several times to keep it up to date. If you are nervous, weak, rundown and tired out, give it a chance to help you, too. All druggists sell it.

"I was all rundown, had headaches and dizzy spells. My mother and sister had taken the Vegetable Compound for years with great results so I tried it. Now I have new pep and I am singing all day long".—Mrs. Thomas Burrowes, 42 Crawford Street, Newark, New Jersey.

"When Dorothy was sixteen I gave her your Vegetable Compound and it relieved all her troubles. I used to take it myself and it always helped me".—Mrs. Hollander, 2033 W. Walnut St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

"Before my baby was born I was so rundown and nervous that I could not do my own housework. My mother told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ease my nerves and prepare me for childbirth. After only a few bottles I was up and doing my work cheerfully. Childbirth was very easy, thanks to your medicine".—Mrs. John Ellis, 6308 So. Campbell Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

"No Backache Now"

"I have five children and a large house to attend to. Last summer I was weak and rundown, and suffered so with my back. Six bottles of the Vegetable Compound helped me wonderfully. I do all my work now, sew for others and have no backache."—Mrs. G. M. Ketel, 8558 N. Allegheny Ave., Portland, Ore.

BOYD'S—SMITHFIELD AT FOURTH AVENUE

In Mayfair
--With-- Patricia Pitt

Always over the Labor Day week-end there is a great deal of informal entertaining, luncheons and teas and what not. A number of people go to Rolling Rock and others entertain guests at home.

Mrs. Gordon King will have as her guests the Erskine Girards, of San Francisco, now living in New York, who are arriving on Friday for the week-end. Mrs. King will give a small party for them that evening.

The R. Kent Hansons will be hosts to the Girards on Sunday in their home, and Monday the Charles Flaccuses will entertain for them.

Over the Labor Day week-end Mrs. Richard B. Mellon will have guests from here at her summer estate at Watch Hill, R. I. They will include her son, Richard K. Mellon, Alan Magee Scaife, her son-in-law, James Bovard and Robert McClintic.

The Jerome Hills, she was Adelaide McAlpin, of New York, are visiting Mrs. Hill's sister, Mrs. Andrew Shiland, in the Adirondacks. They plan to return early in September. Mr. Hill is the father of Mrs. William Doolittle, of Pittsburgh.

Louise Collier To Wed Wednesday

Barbara Verner is to be Louise Collier's only attendant when she marries John Bindley II, son of Mrs. Edward Houston Bindley, of Fifth avenue, and the late E. H. Bindley, in Calvary Episcopal Church at 5:30 o'clock on Wednesday. Louise, who is the daughter of the John Zachry Colliers, will be given in marriage by her father and the ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Robert Nelson Meade, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Redeemer.

Mr. Bindley has asked his brother, Edward Houston Bindley, Jr., to be his best man and the ushers will include Thomas Goldsborough, William G. Costin, Jr., David M. Humphreys, James McKelvy Bindley, Henry Holt and Albert Jacobs, of Philadelphia.

Plans Made For New Club

At a meeting in the home of Miss Clara Lora, Vance avenue, plans were completed for the organization of the Corsopolis Century Club. The new group will co-operate with the Corsopolis Junior Women's Club in the advancement of civic and social projects of the community.

Officers elected for the year are: Mrs. Walter Braun, president; Mrs. William Ross Hague, vice president; Miss Joan Cusack, recording secretary; Miss Margaret Davidson, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. R. G. Ridgeway, treasurer.

Pen, Hammer Corn Roast Sunday

Plans announced for September at the Pen and Hammer cottage, Corsopolis Heights, will not be carried out at the farm. Sunday will be the last day on which the members will occupy the cottage, so a corn roast will be given for them and their guests.

The corn roast will be at 7 o'clock and later Miss Esther Paul will give a short talk on "Purified Movies." There will be dancing at the pavillion in the woods and as usual, there will be a camp-fire and mass singing.

Wilson Graduates Aides at Tea

Twelve Pittsburgh girls who were graduated from Wilson College last June will serve as aides at the bridge tea to be given Saturday afternoon, September 8, by the Wilson College Club. It's to take place in the home of Mrs. I. Lamont Hughes, Woodland road, in honor of local girls who will enter the college in the fall and those already enrolled.

Miss Dora Peckett To Wed on Sunday

Miss Dora Peckett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Peckett, of Climax street, will wed Morris Leon, of Wilkinsburg, on Sunday at 5 o'clock in the B'Nai Israel synagogue. Rabbi B. A. Lichter will officiate.

South Hills Women to Be Busy

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG

What with a multiplicity of departmental events and the eight general meetings Mt. Lebanon Women's Club members will find themselves fully occupied from October to June. The first meeting, a reception for new officers, is dated for October 8 with H. S. Metcalfe speaking on "This Age of Light" and the club choral singing.

The home department will sponsor an international day in November when donations will be brought for the club's social service work at Castle Shannon. The tenth anniversary tea in December will be featured by a special program arranged by the past presidents.

January will bring a distinctly unusual program. Mrs. Bernard C. Clausen is to talk of peace "From a Woman's Viewpoint" and Gen. Churchill B. Mehard will discuss it from the standpoint of "Preparedness." Miss Eleanor Kendrick Taylor, of the English department, Pennsylvania College for Women, is speaker for February under auspices of the club's reviewers and a play will be given by the drama group. March's program is to be presented by the music department, Ernest Lunt directing the choral.

"Virginia Gardens" is the topic on which Mrs. Florence McKelvey Clegg will speak when the garden department gives its program for the club in general. To close the year Dr. Bernal R. Weimer, professor of biology at Bethany College, will talk on "This Leisure" and there will be a tea.

Each department has its own programs, which are included in the new year books and give promise of an immense amount of profit and pleasure during the year.

Helen Madory Monnett Speaker

The Pittsburgh Monnett Club of Ohio Wesleyan University will resume its meetings with a luncheon at the Congress of Clubs on Saturday, September 8. Miss Helen Madory will speak concerning her experiences in Persia as a teacher and will wear Persian costumes.

Miss Allegra Haible, of New Brighton, will sing. Hostesses for the meeting are Mrs. Mont Haible and Miss Grace Macmillan.

Hampton Unit Plans Annual Exhibit

The results of their summer's gardening work will be displayed by members of the Hampton Unit, Women's National Farm and Garden Association, when they hold their annual exhibit at the Wildwood Country Club Wednesday, September 12, both afternoon and evening.

Prizes will be awarded for quality, size, perfection and arrangement of flowers, vegetables and fruits. In addition to the garden and orchard exhibits, there's to be a display of handwoven coverlets, Mrs. Jonn Rouche exhibiting her private collection and products of her loom. Mrs. Charles Hoffman is assembling a collection of quilts, shawls and glass of the Revolutionary period and she herself will appear in colonial costume at the show.

Paintings and art objects will be shown by a Pittsburgh firm. Mrs. Clyde Speer is to take charge of a display of samplers and other handwork done by local Girl Scouts and, under the direction of Mrs. William J. Moreland, Jr., a program of dances will be given.

Mrs. James DeHaven heads the committee looking after the commercial garden exhibits. Mrs. W. H. Harrold is president of the Hampton Unit and Mrs. F. A. Ashbaugh is general chairman for the show, with Mrs. George Wittmer, Jr., taking charge of table settings.

Mary Kirker Becomes Bride Of Louis J. Borgia

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Kirker, of Berry street, Baden, Pa., announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Kirker, to Louis J. Borgia, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Borgia, of Duss avenue, Ambridge, which took place in Atlanta, Ga., on August 9.

The bride wore a black satin ensemble with pink accessories and a shoulder corsage of premier rosebuds, and her maid of honor, Miss Olive Forman, of Bellevue, wore black with white accessories and a corsage of sweet peas. The best man was Robert Briola, of Athens, Ga.

Emma Tisler Marries

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Emma Tisler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tisler, of Logan's Ferry, and John Chadonic, of Blawnox, which took place Tuesday in SS. Peter and Paul's National Hungarian Church, New Kensington. Miss Anna Chadonic was maid of honor and Michael Tisler was best man.

Through the Spyglass
Viewing the New

You little shoppers who want to learn the names of the shops whose items are listed in this column day by FOR THE day . . . call GRANT 6500 . . . and ASK SPYGLASS. Or send in a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply. THE SPYGLASS is always on the alert, peering out new "finds" . . . and you will be answ[illegible]y!

So much [illegible] this "back to school" talk that we are all for grabbing a slate and pencil and falling into line! And consequently, have let our thoughts go wandering among the necessary school items, and found that . . .

A laundry box that won't fall apart at the end of the first month is the laundry box to have! A heavy fiber construction, one that has been vulcanized and finished off with metal corners and edging, a leather handle, and webbing straps. The laundry box that will bring home the shirts and socks as safely on the thirtieth trip as it did on the second! And big, too . . . with an extension capacity that will take care of enough clean clothes for the greediest! $2.75.

And a piece of luggage for the young chap! (For that matter, any businessman would like it as well!) A heavy canvas bag with double handles . . . a zipper up the side . . . and a capacity for two suits, all his underwear, shoes, and personal toilet articles. The beauty of it being that it can be hung on the wall when opened out flat . . . and used as a wardrobe bag! Dustproof . . . waterproof (so that riding in rumble seats won't hurt it!) . . . quite the sturdiest thing in the luggage line for a boy on his way to school. $8.95.

Something to tuck into the handbag of any schoolboy or girl! One of these toilet mirrors we've found . . . with a decorated picture under glass on one side, made of quills or feathers! There is a standard that props it up for any shaving or lipsticking that is destined to take place in it . . . and it's an easy size to tuck away (although large enough to really see into . . . we tried it!) . . . 75c.

Now . . . Little Miss America in grade school comes in for her share of new raglets and taglets! And modern mothers (as well as wise ones) are choosing these squarishly pleated little woolen crepe skirts that button on to bodice tops. You just should have seen the group around the table that we saw . . . and where BOTH mothers and little girls are exclaiming . . . THERE must BE something!

So that we stopped and peered and poked our nose into it, and found these skirts. Nice navy ones . . . gay red ones . . . light and dark shades as well as brightly plaided reds and greens . . . and sizes for every youngster—8 to 12. One of these and several blouses, and your little girl is all set for the whole season. Priced $1.95 and $2.95.

And so to the blouses! Sweet little school-girly ones of pale blue voile with scallops going 'round the collar and down the front! With little stripes of white pleating on the stumpy little puff sleeves! $1.25

And other little blouses of bright, cheery lipstick-y red dimity peppered all over with tiny white polka dots and ending with a white collar and cuffs on the short sleeves, and a pert little "scottie" pin that has pinned itself into the front! $1.25.

All shades and types and sizes for every little girl that will fit into a 7 to 16.

SOPHISTICATED FROCKS FOR THE STREET

By FRUNELLA WOOD

LIGHTWEIGHT dressmaker frocks made of luscious materials with subtle hardware accents offer relief from summer's sultriest days. Now is the time to enjoy such cool-looking creations as the cape-back bolero, the skirt detailed with a tunic line, and the sleeve fashioned with a novel puff or shoulder arrangement.

* * *

COLORS TO be found and fashioned include such greens, browns and russets and smoke tones which blend with the weather atmosphere—due to fashion men's banishment for neckwear and hose tattoos.

* * *

LATE VACATION hostess affairsome smoking fourth and girls who are combining campus activities with week-end trips to the outside world, will find their best bets for now in this smart, glamorous class of frocks.

(Copyright, 1934, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

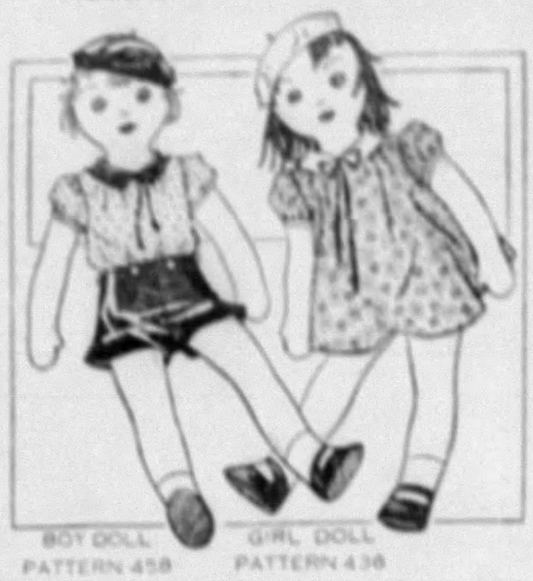
NEEDLEWORK DESIGNS



BOY DOLL PATTERN 458 — GIRL DOLL PATTERN 436

Add to some little girl's doll family by presenting her with this pair—a brother and sister doll. They aren't dressed alike but, of course, they could be. The dolls are easy to make and the clothes very simple in construction. They fit the regulation 14-inch doll. So, if you've some bits of material over, make the clothes as your contribution to the fair or to some dolly's wardrobe; you'll certainly delight some youngster, for no doll can have too many clothes.

Pattern 436 contains the girl doll; pattern 458 the boy doll. Each pattern comes to you with a transfer pattern of the doll, a pattern of the clothes shown; directions for making doll clothes and haircuts; material requirements. Either doll may be ordered separately.

Send 10 cents for each pattern (10 cents for both) to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Needlecraft Dept., 61 Eighth avenue, New York, N. Y.

$1,700 FOR EXPERT 'LONG STORY,' SAYS M'NAIR

NEW YORK Day by Day

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—With Dorothy Parker married and residing in California, Irvin Cobb drifted to Hollywood and Winchell Mizner gone from the social scene, there seems no one left in New York upon whom to hang the bright quip. They were the three unfailing pegs.

Heretofore, it gave a gag especial volume to preface it as coming from one of these three. As a result, thousands of stories and wise-cracks credited to them were not their handiwork at all. Although each has a pronounced flair for the devastating must.

As a matter of fact, many of Broadway's choicest pips dished off a bit, have been spawned by Frisco and Roger Davis, an indifferent actor who acts as a sort of personal clown for Fannie Brice. Eugene Kelcey Allen, dramatic critic for a garment daily, also sponsored swift ones credited to others.

There has been a distinct falling off in this crackling form of humor since vaudeville went into eclipse and the majority of curbstone comedians became highly paid gag-men in the movies. The old-time barroom, too, was a hive for rancoring remarks that convulsed the town.

Nothing is quite so lonesome looking as a lonely boy on a quietly aristocratic New York residential street. As a rule, he has no playmate in the entire block and, so great is the fear of kidnaping, someone is always watching him. I saw one today in East Eighty-sixth standing beside a fire plug, digging a toe in the sidewalk and looking vacantly nowhere. "Why aren't you in the country?" I asked. His reply was direct. "Papa hasn't money any more," he said.

* * *

Statistics show that invitation audiences to radio broadcasts do more than anything else to cement the artist's most valuable assets—fans. People who see a broadcaster at work are not likely to miss dialing in for months to come. Ed Wynn likes to watch others broadcast. So do Amos 'n' Andy.

John Held, Jr., is one of the few successful combinations of writer and artist. His books have fair sale, his short stories and articles are in demand and he never manages to keep up with orders for drawings of his cut-up collegiates. Held is also one of the few established writers to desert the big town. He has selected New Orleans, also a growing locale for fiction, and spends most of his time there.

Harlem now has a Negro columnist whose pieces appear under the heading, "This Hectic Harlem," in the Black Belt's leading gazette, the Amsterdam News. His name is Roy Ottley and the quarter hails him as Harlem's Mark Hellinger. He writes of the highlights and shadows of the main arteries—Seventh and Lenox avenues—and has quite a knack for the graphic. Already his year's collection of stories are to be published in book form under the quaint enough title: "One Year in a Coal Bin."

Ben Bernie is one of the few broadcasters to use restraint about family affairs. Only intimates know of his singular devotion to a 16-year-old son in a military academy. His references to the lad are adroit such as the time Ed Wynn and son were dining at the place where Bernie appeared in Chicago. He introduced Wynn and especially extolled Wynn's son as one of the most remarkable boys of the day, a fine athlete, a fine this and a fine that. But as he wound up he exclaimed: "If Culver is listening in, I'm only kidding." That was a revealing little touch of sentiment for his boy but not many knew it.

Bagatelles: Mrs. Morris Gest has never stepped foot in the now sold Belasco theater since her father died . . . Marilyn Miller is reputed America's richest actress . . . Elsie Robinson's serial, "I Wanted Out," drew more fan mail than any other written in 20 years . . . George Raft once played drums in an orchestra . . . Peter B. Kyne removed 15 pounds writing a novel . . . Luther Reed has finished a biography of his friend, Joseph Urban . . . Mary Boland uses the longest cigaret holder in Hollywood . . . Winston Churchill is an expert bag puncher.

Readers often—well, two did anyway—ask how one measures a column. How to know the number of words. They seem to think it a trade trick. It isn't. A fellow just somehow has a feeling he's said enough. And there, by gum, is the end of the column.

Seek Safest City Title In 3-Month Campaign To Reduce Traffic Toll

Carlessness of Driver Or Walker Blamed For Most Mishaps

A survey of downtown traffic violates safety and traffic rules today revealed that everybody violations of the type blamed by safety groups for the majority of motor accidents in this country.

Jay walking, making left turns where left turns are prohibited, "jumping lights" and widespread carelessness in traffic are among the offenses noted.

The Western Pennsylvania Safety of national, state and municipal organizations, will launch a three months "everybody's safety drive" Saturday, with a sharp reduction in all accidents through more general observance of safety rules as its aim.

Thirty thousand persons are killed every year, 1,000,000 persons are injured, and property is damaged to the amount of $1,000,000,000, according to the Better Traffic Committee, which has joined the campaign.

The only way to prevent these losses, according to the committee, is to impress on all drivers and pedestrians the necessity for care when they walk or drive. Almost every motor accident can be traced to careless driving or a law violation, statistics show.

The Better Traffic Committee predicts the drive may restore Pittsburgh's reputation as the "safest city in America."

How to Do It Wrong!

Fifth and Smithfield: The pedestrians started on a red light!

Diamond and Grant: Woman surrounded, the light was!

Fifth and Smithfield: Women starting before the lights change.

Fifth and Smithfield: Auto surrounded when he didn't beat light.

HIT BY CYCLE, MAN DIES

John Laffey, 73, of 1330 Jeffries street, Sheraden, was fatally injured when he was struck by a motorcycle in West Carson street, between Steuben and Corliss streets, last night.

The motorcycle was stolen while the driver, Louis Schmeltzer, 32, of 1343 Berry street, took the victim to the South Side Hospital, where he died a short time later. Schmeltzer and a policeman commandeered a passing motorist. Schmeltzer was turned over to the Coroner.

Robert Ferer, 13, of 126 Nineteenth avenue, Munhall, fractured his leg yesterday when he ran against a wall in Duquesne road, to avoid being struck by an automobile, it was reported. He was taken to Homestead Hospital.

Suffering cuts and bruises when struck by an automobile near his home yesterday, Richard Kerr, 4, of Calvin street, McKeesport, was taken to McKeesport Hospital.

STORES RESUME WINTER HOURS

Summer store hours for 10 Pittsburgh department stores, members of the Retail Merchants Association, will end tomorrow and the stores will resume a schedule of regular store hours Saturday. The new hours run from 9 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. on week days, and 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on Saturdays.

Members of the association include Joseph Horne Company, Boggs and Buhl, Kaufmann's, Gimbels, the Rosenbaum Company, Frank and Seder, McCreerys, Meyer Jonassons, Harris Stores Company, and Boyd's, Inc.

Mayor McNair to Attend Convention

Mayor McNair has announced he will try to spend one day at the Henry George Foundation convention in Chicago October 8 to 10. The Mayor says that because of his European trip he will not want to spend much time away from his office, but that he will take one day to be with his fellow single taxers.

$50 in Prizes Weekly for News Tips

Are you alert? Do you wish to make your alertness pay? The Sun-Telegraph is presenting the opportunity. Every week it is offering a total of $50 in prizes for NEWS TIPS telephoned to the News Tip Editor, Grant 6500.

If you know of any accident, of a business merger, of a big building project—that is NEWS. Watch especially for unusual stories about children and animals and for stories that lend themselves to interesting pictures.

For the best exclusive news tip of the week $15.00 will be given, for the second best, $10.00 and for the next 25 best $1.00 each.

COUNCIL BALKS AT FEES FOR APPRAISAL

Brown Hired During Period Mayor Acted As Solicitor

West S. Brown, handsomely paid city witness under several Republican administrations, is doing well under the Democrats.

Some one in the Mayor's office has taken an interest in Brown, who recently was called in to reappraise properties in Brookline boulevard between Pioneer and West Liberty avenues and in Webster avenue at Bigelow boulevard.

Brown's bills for the re-appraisals, totaling $1,750, have been sent by City Council to the Law Department with a demand for an explanation.

As the re-appraisal was made during the time that the Mayor had announced himself head of the City Solicitor's office, the explaining will be up to him.

LONG STORY

"It's a long story. I may have something to say about it later."

Theodore L. Morita, the Mayor's secretary, who was seen to enter the solicitor's office with Brown on the Monday after Solicitor Cornelius D. Scully resigned, denied he had anything to do with Brown's receiving the work. He said:

"I just happened to be in the office at the same time Brown was."

Asked if he knew Brown, he said:

"Only slightly."

$10,000 IN FEES

Thus far this year Brown is credited with $10,750 in witness and appraisal fees from the city.

This cannot be considered poor in spite of the fact that in 1929, under the Kline administration, he received $30,775, according to the records in the City Controller's office.

In 1930, he was paid $21,675; in 1931, $17,307; in 1932, $7,275, and in 1933, $8,750, the records show. For the six years counting the present year, the total is $97,507.

The bill for the re-appraisements gave Council something of a shock, inasmuch as it just had finished paying a bill of $2,000 on the Webster avenue job to Nat Canter and George Schmidt, and $3,000 on the Brookline boulevard job to Leo B. Coyle and Harry Kaufmann.

MAGEE OBJECTS

Brown, who had the advantage of seeing the original appraisal on both, turned in a valuation of slightly less on the Webster avenue property and considerably more on the Brookline boulevard tract.

Councilman William A. Magee, scanning Brown's bill, said:

"I would not like to vote for this. I move that a complete report be furnished by the law department as to the necessity for and extent of Mr. Brown's services."

Two other vouchers to Brown for $100 each for estimates of value on properties in Pioneer avenue and in Owendale street were recently held up by Controller James P. Kerr because the Mayor signed them as head of the law department.

DENIES POLICE FACE SHAKEUP

Rumors of another big shakeup of the police bureau were denied by Public Safety Director A. Marshall Bell today.

Emphatically denying the rumors, Bell said the bureau is functioning satisfactorily, and that no changes are being contemplated. Rumors had it that three police inspectors were to be fired and 18 other officials transferred in another wholesale shakeup of the force Saturday—the day Mayor William N. McNair is to sail for France.

He admitted that he heard of the rumors, saying there would be nothing beyond the 30-day payless furloughs for the lieutenants, precinct detectives, matrons and turnkeys demanded by the city's economic program.

Fogarty Re-Elected By Police Association

Re-election of John B. Fogarty, of Pittsburgh, as president of the Fraternal Order of Police was announced today. Fogarty was the unanimous choice of delegates meeting in Uniontown.

Peter J. McCullough, of Pittsburgh, was elected grand secretary and Charles C. Crummer, also of Pittsburgh, grand treasurer.

BUGLERS TO VIE IN TUBE CITY

Officers of the Burt Foster Post 301, American Legion, of McKeesport, expect a dozen first class drum and bugle corps from cities in Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia to compete in the fifth annual drum and bugle corps spectacle, set for the World War Memorial Field at 8 p. m. today. First prize is $175.

In addition, there will be special exhibition drills by the McKeesport Eagles, no. 285, drill team and the Grandview boys drum and bugle corps, winners of the Allegheny County championship in the boys' division at South Park.

The spectacle will be staged under floodlights. Charles L. Burns is general chairman and Albert Kuhl is post commander.

Brushton Drug Store Damaged by Flames

A rubbish fire of undetermined origin caused $200 damage in the basement of the Weiss Pharmacy at 700 Brushton avenue early today, firemen reported. The blaze was confined to the cellar of the three-story brick building.

Clothing Stolen On North Side

20,000 THRONG FAIR, VIEW HORSE SHOW

Dog Events, Military Demonstrations on Today's Program

Dog and horse shows, exhibitions by Boy Scouts and cavalry and field artillery demonstrations today were on the program at the Allegheny County Fair in South Park. Yesterday's crowd of 20,000 was expected to be surpassed, provided agreeable weather conditions.

The horse show, which began yesterday was to be continued today, when judging of draft horses was to be made. The show yesterday was under direction of George H. Chubb.

YESTERDAY'S WINNERS

In the afternoon the first class, a "seat and hands," competition for boys and girls from 14 to 18 years old, was won by Martha Jane Oliver on her horse, Babe. Second was won by John L. Gosnell, on White Boots, owned by L. S. Gosnell; third by Mabel McCann, on Little Star, owned by the Squirrel Hill Riding Academy, and fourth by Gordon King, Jr., on his Madame Dubarry.

Other events and winners were: Saddle horses, park type—Margaret McGrath, on Isle McDonald, owned by Eden Hall Farms, first; Alice Walton, on Golden Actress, owned by Green Valley Stables, second; Ethel Chubb, on Come Again, owned by Buckley Byers, third, and Gordon C. King, Jr., on his Madame Dubarry, fourth.

TODAY'S PROGRAM

Jimy jumping—Molly Hayes, on her pony, Tish, first; Jack Hayes, on his pony, Red Robin, second, and John Laurick, on Greylock Grey, owned by Rosslyn Farms Riding Academy, third.

Today's program—11 a. m.—Dog show. 2:30 p. m.—Horse show. 4 p. m.—Draft horse show. 6 p. m.—Retreat by Boy Scout Camporal. 7:30 p. m.—Exhibition by Allegheny County Mounted Boy Scout Troop. 8 p. m.—Exhibition by Cavalry and Field Artillery.

Tomorrow's program—12 noon—Live stock parade. 12:30 p. m.—Horse show. 3:30 p. m.—Light harness and running horse races. 6 p. m.—Retreat by Boy Scout Camporal.

SCOUTS GATHER AT SOUTH PARK

One thousand Boy Scouts will make South Park their headquarters for their three-day camporal opening tomorrow.

Troops from Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia will participate in exhibitions of camping technique.

Another feature will be handicraft displays. Sea Scouts from Altoona will set up a provisional ship and demonstrate their knowledge of seamanship. Each evening the entire camp will march to the fair grounds, where it will hold retreat ceremonies.

K. T. Williamson, associate scout executive of the Allegheny County Council, will be in charge of activities.

JOHNSTON TO RUN CITY AS DEPUTY MAYOR

Works Director Has All Powers Except To Hire and Fire

Mayor McNair, expressing confidence the public will "approve and applaud" his act, today sent an official letter to Public Works Director Leslie M. Johnston appointing him Deputy Mayor to serve next month while the Mayor is sojourning in Europe.

The Mayor announced he had completed all preparations for leaving for New York tomorrow night. He will sail Saturday aboard the Counte de Savoia for Naples.

His official letter, filed with the City Clerk, read:

"The statute under which this designation is made authorizes you to exercise all powers and discharge all duties as Mayor excepting the power to appoint to or discharge from office in the city government.

"I would hesitate to call upon you for this additional burden were it not that I am positive all officials will co-operate with and assist you in every way and that the public will approve and applaud the designation made."

After reaching Italy, His Honor will spend two days in Naples, going then to Rome and on to Nice, where he will meet a committee of European mayors for a discussion of tax problems.

He will remain in France until September 22, when he will sail for home aboard the Bremen, and will reach Pittsburgh again on September 27.

During the Mayor's absence, with Director Johnston in the Mayor's chair, the City Hall is expected to assume a new aspect, quite different from the open house policy of Mayor McNair.

The Mayor, perhaps sensing some such possibility, said to a group in his office:

"How will you boys like Johnston for Mayor?"

He advocates getting more business ability into city government, adding, however, that the persons responsible for the recent political upheaval should be given first choice.

He is precise, cold and business-like. If he were to walk in and find a stranger answering his telephone, anything might happen.

In politics he is independent, voting at times Republican, and supporting Roosevelt in the last election.

To Johnston, the business of the city is like that of a very large corporation. He has been known to lose patience with job-seeking ward politicians. He becomes quite emphatic when discussing personnel, stating:

"You must have men of ability on city jobs; not just political hacks."

WORKED FOR REFORM

Director Johnston is considered the leader of the so-called silk stocking group at City Hall. He is closely associated with Mrs. R. Templeton Smith, the Mayor's unofficial budget advisor.

He and Mrs. Smith worked together in uncovering irregularities in the Supplies Department in the Kline administration. Johnston then headed the Citizens' Committee which pressed the case against former Mayor Kline.

Director Johnston once played professional baseball and while in Yale coached the varsity for two years. He was connected with the A. M. Byers Company for 28 years, rising from an assistant manager to vice president.

Balance Budget By Cold Storage Financing Next

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

Looks like the budget will be balanced by cold storage financing.

Mr. Morgenthau has three billion gold profit under lock and key. It's salted away in lavender and camphor balls.

It would be much nicer if Mr. Morgenthau could balance the budget outdoors.

Still, letting the government money run loose as sawdust ain't always so good.

Mr. Ickes couldn't sleep for two nights on a rough railroad that had borrowed millions to make itself smooth.

Mr. Ickes had approved the loan while he was awake. Maybe the railroad wanted to keep him awake so he could approve another one.

HOYT AT 35 PROVES CONSISTENT WINNER FOR BUCCANEERS

James J. Long's Sports Comment

ASSURANCE THAT THE uniform ball of 1934 is unanimously adjudged a failure by the National League club owners and that they will present a solid array in a demand for a less lively pellet next year is found in the fact that one of the strongest opponents of the rabbity apple is the very same man who led the fight for its adoption. The gent in question is Sam Breadon, Cardinal president. Breadon not only voted for the No. 3 ball, rather than compromise on a No. 4 type, but also induced Larry MacPhail to go over to his side, thus leaving the opposing Pittsburgh, New York and Philadelphia clubs as a helpless minority.

Sam Breadon

Realizes Ball Hurts Game

BREADON NOW SEES the light, however, and publicly announces he will vote for a less lively rocket. In view of his club's improved home-run record, he says that if he were to take a selfish stand he would support the 1934 ball, but he is convinced that it is hurting the game and that something must be done about it.

The opinion expressed here recently that the ball already has been slowed up suddenly by special orders to the manufacturers is shared by Al Lopez, Ralph Boyle and other members of the Dodgers, Cubs and additional clubs who were willing to be quoted. They are positive the ball now in play is not as lively as the one in use earlier in the season.

Leonard Hard to Catch

PITCHERS DIFFER IN type. You could catch some of them while sitting in a rocking chair. Others are tough babies to handle. Al Lopez, Brooklyn's star backstop, has received for a lot of hurlers, but says Emil Leonard is the hardest he ever caught. All because Leonard's specialty is a knuckle ball, the most difficult sort of pitch to catch.

Al Lopez

Once the Belgian slabman released his knuckler he has no idea how the ball is going to break, if it breaks at all. It's up to Lopez to catch the thing if the batter misses, and since Leonard himself doesn't know in what direction the ball will go, you can see what chance the catcher has of figuring its course in advance.

Failure May Help Rowe

WHILE THE SNAPPING of Schoolboy Rowe's winning streak at 16 straight yesterday was a disappointment to many fans who had been pulling for him to set a new American League record of 17, the cloud may have a silver linning. The failure may work out to the advantage of the young pitcher and his club as prospective World Series principals.

Winning streaks involve a strain. Often there is a losing reaction when a streak is broken and the strain is lifted. If Rowe had not been beaten until near the end of the season, the reaction might have left him out of stride for the October derby. As it is, he has more than four weeks in which to shake it off.

Great Record by Jones

A GREAT RECORD is behind Howard Jones, of Southern California, now starting his twenty-third season as a football coach. In 22 years his teams have won 156 games and tied 10 against only 38 defeats, a winning percentage of .804.

Jones has made a record even more impressive as mentor of the Trojans. Since he went to U. S. C. from Iowa in 1925, his elevens have won 84 games and tied three while losing 11, a mark of .884.

Mexican May Be Champ

To the many other nationalities represented on the list of past and present ring champions, a Mexican titleholder may be added tonight. At least Baby Arizmendi appears to have an edge on Mike Belloise in the fight that will determine in New York's eyes Kid Chocolate's successor as world featherweight king.

Baby Arizmendi

Mexico had two earlier championship prospects, both lightweights. Aurelio Herrera won 40 of his first 50 fights by knockouts and might have been a champion if he had not persistently refused to pay any attention to training rules. Joe Rivers was the second, and a questionable procedure deprived him of the lightweight crown when he fought Ad Wolgast in 1912. Both men fell during a wild exchange in the thirteenth round, and the seconds of each claimed a foul, but the referee helped Wolgast to his feet and counted Rivers out.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: SPEEDY JUSTICE—Courts and officers of the law in other states of the Union could take a good lesson from the quick justice meted out in Oregon in June of this year when one Stanley Rayson, a bold bank robber, was serving a 20-year sentence in the Oregon Penitentiary less than five hours after he had committed the crime. Rayson walked into the E. G. Young bank at Oakland, Ore., held up Cashier Garrison and then walked out with $1,881 in currency. Hurriedly pursued by the state police and a posse, Rayson was cornered on the highway a few miles away and was brought to Roseburg, where an immediate trial was held before Circuit Judge B. L. Eddy. Rayson pleaded guilty, the judge pronounced sentence of 20 years and the robber was immediately placed in the penitentiary—four and a half hours after the one-man hold-up was committed.

PIRATES HAVE HEAVY SQUAD

By JESS CARVER
Staff Correspondent.

MT. PLEASANT, Pa., Aug. 30.—If youth, heft, hard work and the desire to make the remainder of the league sit up and take notice count for anything, the Pittsburgh Pirates, of the National Professional Football League, are going to be some potatoes.

Unfortunately, in the pro ranks, it takes a little more than the above named qualifications if a team is to get to first base. It takes experience, in copious quantities, and it will be experience that the Pirates will lack . . . experience of the professional type.

At any rate, the Pirates, even at this early date, look more promising and unquestionably are more formidable than they were a year ago. President Art Rooney and Coach Luby DiMeolo have banded together a young, tough team. . . . A comparatively fast one with real potential strength.

TEAM HAS POUNDAGE

It will be possible for the Pirates to put a team on the field with a line averaging 212 pounds from end to end and a backfield that will go 188. Of the starting lineup, as it figures right now, four of the 11 men will have had previous professional experience, namely, Douds and Quatse, at the tackles, Smith, at end and Johnny Blood in the backfield. This quartet should form a fine nucelus.

Coach DiMeolo has a quartet of really fine ends in Smith, Muggsy Skladany, Leo Sortet and Ray Tesser. He has Jap Douds, Jess Quatse, Armand Niccolai and a big Kansan, Kvartnick, who has a pair of legs that resemble very closely a pair of Empire State Buildings, for his tackles. At the guards, he's looking very closely at the work of Norm Greeney, former Notre Dame star; Henry Weinberg, Marchi, of N. Y. U., and a big chap from the South, Ribble. The latter, lugging 223 pounds of brawn around with him, likely will pair off with Greeney at a starting job.

BLOOD MAIN COG

Johnny Blood, an experienced back, who won his spurs as a star for the crack Green Bay Packers when the Packers were the last word in pro football, will be the chief cog in the backfield. At the start, and until they are displaced, Warren Heller, of Pitt fame, and George Kavel, will back him at the halves and Sil Zaninelli, hard-hitting Duquesne alumnus, has the inside track for the fullback position.

Rado, a rangy lad from New River State; Harry Marker, of West Virginia; Jimmy Clark, who held down the varsity fullback job at Pitt during his under-graduate days; Harp Vaughn, Mose Kelsch and Jim Whalen compose a fine array of reserve backs.

The Pirates had their initial scrimmage yesterday and will get another dose or two of the same today.

WAITE DISCARDS DIET, BOWLS 'EM OVER

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

The stiffs turned with baseball fans
The country waited for the score
In Quakertown a lad adroit
Was bearing down for Old Detroit
Unheralded in Pittsburgh town
Another pest was bearing down—
Without a part like "Schoolboy Rowe"
The "Brooklyn Schoolboy" stole the show

Life begins at 35 for Waite Hoyt, not at 40 or at 2:40 a. m., as in the case of many a misguided athlete. The sterling pitcher, who today is the toast of Pittsburgh fans, will reach his thirty-fifth milestone of life in a few days and those who knew him "when" say he is a better pitcher now than "when."

Hoyt's thirteenth victory of the season, as against only five defeats, was recorded yesterday under unusual circumstances. He held Wally Berger & Co., to seven hits after the Braves had given a terrific demonstration of their slugging power in the opening game. Waite's masterpiece turned out to be a shutout victory, and one that was richly deserved.

The big Pirate question, now that the Pirates are fading from first-division consideration, revolves around Hoyt. The fans wants to know what it is all about, and why he was not used as a regular starter during the first half of the race. One thing at a time, now, folks.

In the first place, Mrs. Hoyt will have to step up and take a bow and when she does it is possible that some of our best known dieticians will take a runout powder.

GOES ON DIET

It will be recalled by many fans that the Brooklyn Schoolboy after losing his grip with the Yanks decided to go on a radical diet that relieved him of a lot of poundage.

Well, the good Mrs. Hoyt has broken up a lot of that stuff for she belongs to the right wing party which believes a man should eat a square meal when he is hungry. Waite is now as strong as a lumberjack.

So much for the dieticians and the school that tells you to eat anything you like. The absence of Waite from the slab in the first half of the race also is interesting.

It seems that Manager George Gibson put plenty of confidence in Hoyt in the spring; he advised Waite to use his own method to reach the pink of condition. Hoyt seemed to be getting along O. K., but he had a bad day against the White Sox in a game of the Uncle Tom's Cabin tour of the Southwest and apparently Gibson though he was not ready to do his stuff. Hoyt lost some little prestige right there.

DID NOT SHOW FORM

The game in question was not of much importance, but when Gibby battled the White Sox he wanted his pitchers to get a lot on the ball. In any event, Waite did not rate up with the other first choice hurlers during the first half of the race, but in the past two months he has been one of the standout pitchers of baseball.

The Pirates are barnstorming in Punxsutawney today and they will not take part in further cham-

DAVE O'LOUGHLIN PRIMED FOR NATIONAL TENNIS PLAY

LOCAL NETMAN PAIRED WITH M'CAULIFF

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Dr. Dave O'Loughlin, P. A. A. star and first ranking racquet of the district, will battle another medico, Dr. Eugene McCauliff, New York ace, in the initial round of the national men's singles turf championship at the West Side Tennis Club, Forest Hills, Long Island, on Saturday. This will be the first time out of the last four that the Winged Headlew has been drawn against other than a Japanese in the inaugural bracket of the American.

O'Loughlin, bearing credentials as official representative of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association, plans to leave by motor either this afternoon or tomorrow. He has been practicing with his brother Billy and with Junior Champion Bob Madden on the grass courts at Fox Chapel.

The survivor of the O'Loughlin-McCauliff contest will meet Wilmer Allison, provided that the Texan does not fall victim to Gilbert Hunt, runner up to Gene Mako for both the National Intercollegiate and the National Junior titles.

Although O'Loughlin will be the only Pittsburgher actively participating in the national affair, the Steel City will not be without additional delegates. P. T. A. President Bob Schmertz aims to get over East for the latter portion of the tourney, while Dr. Eugene Conti and Ed Kelly, of the P. A. A.; Dr. Roland Neal, of Edgewood, and Howard Brennan, Keystone A. C. squash racquets luminary, likewise hope to attend and, of course, Charley Lockhart and W. C. Robinson, Jr., will be on deck making final arrangements with various famed performers slated to appear at Sewickley from September 11 to 15 for the new Allegheny Country Club invitation men's singles and doubles grass court conclave.

Entry lists in the annual Beaver County championships close tonight. Secretary W. C. Jack will receive names of prospective combatants at 1000 Fourth avenue, Freedom, Pa., until mid-evening, when the draws will be made.

SILVER SLIPPER WINNING LARGE PONY RACE, HALF-MILE EVENT, IN SOUTH PARK MEET

PERRY TO STAY AMATEUR

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Fred Perry, of England, who is rated at the head of the world's amateur tennis players, is firm in his determination not to turn professional.

After refusing several previous offers of big money, Perry flatly turned down an offer of $50,000 from Bill O'Brien, sports promoter, yesterday. The reasons Perry gave, according to O'Brien, were that he would have to pay nearly half the amount to the British government in taxes; that he would be ostracized at all the British clubs, and that he was marrying Mary Lawson, English stage star, soon, and did not want to do anything that would upset that plan.

To the Sports Editor:

Nicknames are funny things. I'll bet you my last year's straw hat against your oldest pipe that Pitcher Rowe, of the Tigers, carries that nickname "Schoolboy" until he's an old man with a white beard. In 1950, he'll be "Schoolboy" to the fans and his mates. The right kind of a nickname—like that one, for instance—can be valuable to a player. It is a sort of trademark and in time gets to mean high-class work. All nicknames are not so hot to the player. Take the case of the player the sports writers named "Whataman." There is no fun toting around such a moniker.

WATER STARS ENTER MEET

Entries already received indicate that strong fields will compete in the swimming events to be staged on Friday of next week in connection with the Stag Outing of Syria Temple at Kennywood Park.

Lenore Kight, Anna Mae Gorman, Louise Clark and Johanna Gorman have entered the 150-yard women's free style. Paul Caldwell, Jr., Frank Stover, and Bob McTiernan the fancy dive, and Pete Bruneckle the 440-yard men's free style. A 60-yard free style race four men and a similar race for Silvertown only also are on the program.

America's Cup History

SECOND CHALLENGE

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The New York Yacht Club had to use two yachts to stave off the challenge of James Ashbury's Livonia for the America's Cup in 1871.

Ashbury was a man of shrewd and the defeat of his Cambria the year before only whetted his appetite for another try.

The negotiations preliminary to the acceptance of the challenge for the N. Y. Y. C. cup committee resulted in the race being limited to two boats—the Challenger and the defender. Ashbury argued that the deed of the gift of the trophy did not allow any number of vessels to sail against a challenger and he was upheld by the committee.

But the N. Y. Y. C. partially got around the ruling and was permitted to reserve four yachts from which to make a selection on the day of each race. They were Columbia, Sappho, Columbia and Palmer, all schooners.

The series consisted of seven runs, the match to be decided by the first yacht to win four.

Columbia sailed the first two races against Livonia and triumphed. Ashbury protested the second race on the grounds that the American skipper rounded the mark-boat on the wrong side, but the committee threw out the protest. Livonia won the third race from Columbia.

Weather conditions befell ruled Sappho on the day of the fourth race and she received the ire of the challenger. Sappho outsailed Livonia and repeated her triumph in the fifth race to close out the series, America retaining the cup, 4 to 1.

Ashbury claimed the sixth and seventh races when none of the four American boats was on the starting line either of those days. He argued that those two races, plus Livonia's victory over Columbia and his protest of the second race gave him the edge in the series and he filed a claim for the

GIANTS, TIGERS ENTER HOME STRETCH WELL IN FRONT

Bill Corum Writes:

By BILL CORUM
Written for the International News Service

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 30.—It's a long Rowe that has no turning and the 6 feet 4½ inches of Lynwood Thomas Rowe came to his in the sunshine and shadow of old Shibe Park here yesterday afternoon.

Before the second game of a seething slapstick doubleheader between Mickey Cochrane's Detroit Tigers and Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics was over, Rowe was in the showers and his hopes of a seventeenth-straight record pitching victory were in the soup.

In the Philadelphia pepper-pot soup, to be exact, for the A's laid the wood on Lynwood right under the guns and had him on the ropes as early as the fifth inning. Maybe they'd never heard of him over here in Philadelphia.

'Can't Win 'Em All'

Anyhow, they flayed him and they flailed him, as Mr. Kipling used to say when he was a baseball writer in India, and the way the thing finally turned out, the Schoolboy was lucky to get out of there with his life, much less a seventeenth successive victory.

Oh, he took it well enough on the surface. He walked out of there with his head high, when Cochrane reluctantly wig-wagged to Vic Sorrell in the bullpen in the seventh. And later at the Tigers' hotel he had the approved and time tried answer of the veteran major leaguer. He said:

"Well, you can't win 'em all."

But you knew, you could tell from looking at him, how his boyish heart had craved to win this one. As why shouldn't it?

There he would have been a full cubit stature over the best the American League had been able to produce in the three decades of its existence. In his second year as big league regular, the indelible figures that go on with the game would have made him Lyn (Schoolboy) Rowe, of El Dorado, Ark., the greatest pitcher of 'em all. And as far as future generations are concerned figures never lie.

Falls to Hold Lead

Surely he had something worthwhile at which to shoot, and just as surely his hopes must have risen high as his mates spotted him to a two-run going away lead in the opening inning. He could have won it then, if he had been able to muster anything but hope on his fast ball and more than a prayer for his curve.

But it was just hope and not hop that he had on his high hard one, and as for his curve, there was no more break to it than there is to banker's heart.

As Cochrane himself said to the writer later:

"All the kid had was his record and those eight fellows that are following him around writing their own private versions of the story of his life."

It was Johnny Marcum, of Eminence, Ky., suh, on the turnpike, suh, who sponged the shadowy "17" off the Schoolboy's slate. Incidentally, it is an coincidence that though four pitchers in the American League—Wood, Johnson, Grove and Rowe—have won 16 games in succession, none has been able to hurdle that seventeenth. The wry-necked Rube Marquard did it in the National and went on to 19, some say 20, straight. But in the junior loop it has been a barrier none could cross.

Error Ruins Chance

I do not recall much about the winning streaks of Johnson and Wood, though if my memory is not in error they piled them up in the same year, 1912. But it was mosey Dick Coffman who choked off Grove's bid in a 1-to-0 pitchers' battle in St. Louis, the winning run coming out of a schoolboyish misplay by Johnny Moore.

They say the names Grove called Johnny in the club house after that one were something scandalous, and that the old Lonaconing leftie even went so far as to pull a Dizzy Dean on Moore and rip his uniform from his back.

There was nothing like that in the Detroit club house after yesterday's failure. But Rowe, of course, had nobody but Rowe to blame for his defeat. He simply didn't have it.

MAJOR LEADERS UNCHANGED ON LONG TOURS

Associated Press.

The Detroit Tigers could point with pride to a five-game lead as they returned to their home sector today after their final tour of the East.

Despite Schoolboy Rowe's defeat yesterday after 16 straight triumphs, the Tigers got an even break with the Athletics in their doubleheader, slamming out a 12-to-7 victory in the opener with a 20-hit attack marked by a six-run rally in the eighth before Rowe took his 13-to-5 shellacking.

The second-place Yankees dropped a mound duel to Ted Lyons and the White Sox, 3 to 1, and lost a half game in the pennant race.

The Yanks ran into difficulty when Johnny Broaca gave a couple of passes in the first inning and the Hose followed with two of the four hits they made. That produced three runs and Lyons held the New Yorkers at bay, giving only six hits.

The New York Giants closed their western jaunt with a four and one-half game margin in the National League race after losing a brilliantly pitched 1-to-0 final to the threatening Cubs. Lon Warneke came back with only two days rest to blank the world champions in a duel with Carl Hubbell. Neither team could break the deadlock until the ninth inning as Warneke gave three hits and Hubbell five. Each allowed one walk and fanned three. Then Stan Hack got on base through a Critz error. Augie Galan forced him and Kiki Cuyler slammed out a double that drove in the run needed to win.

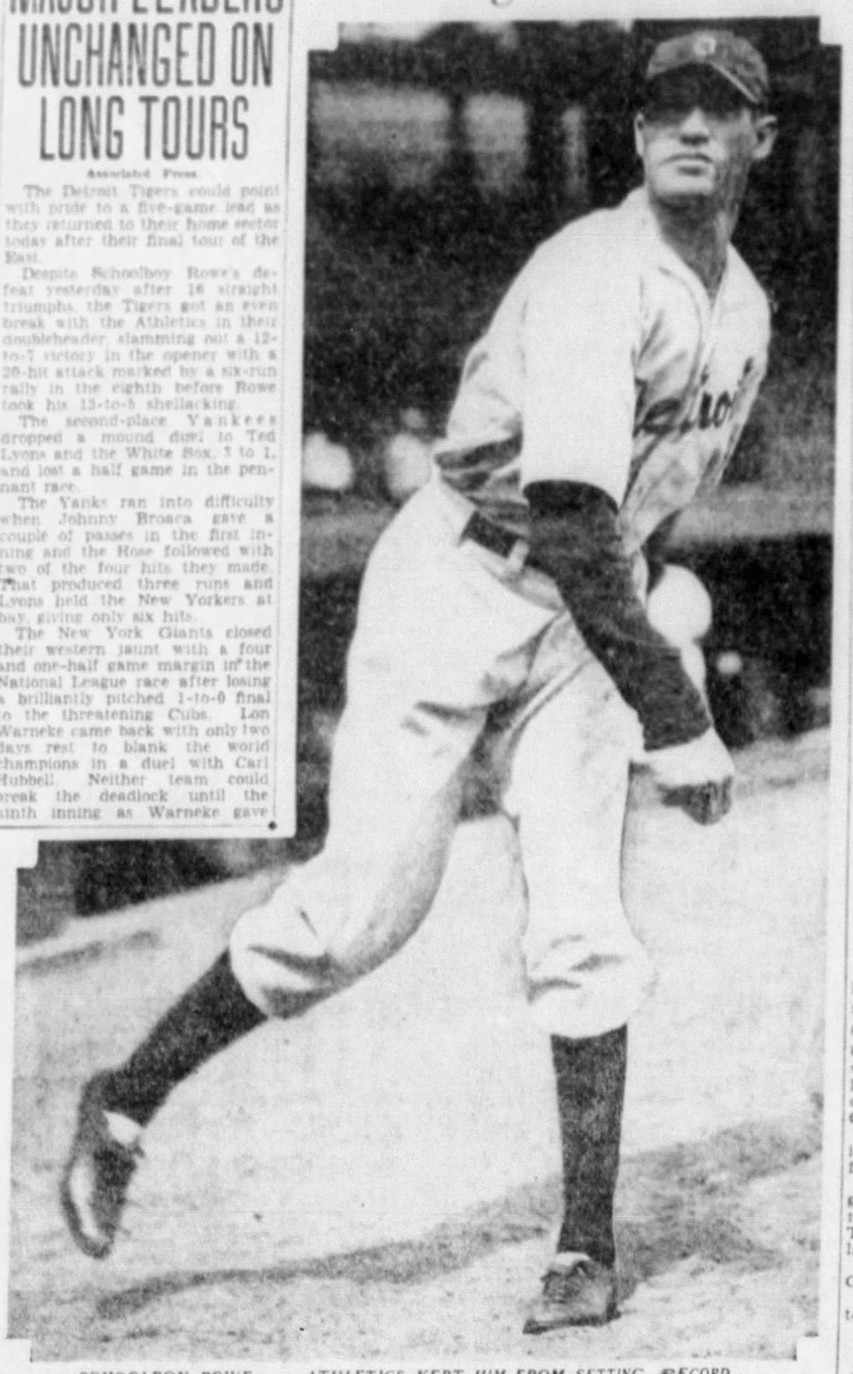
The Browns captured fifth place in the junior circuit from Washington by taking the final encounter, 5 to 4. The Reds and Phillies and Red Sox and Indians took the day off.

Winning Streak Ended



SCHOOLBOY ROWE . . . ATHLETICS KEPT HIM FROM SETTING RECORD

When the Athletics defeated the Detroit Tigers, 10-3, in the second game of their doubleheader yesterday, they halted the sensational winning streak of Lynwood (Schoolboy) Rowe, and prevented him from setting a new American League record of 17 consecutive victories. He is tied now with three others. This is an International News Photograph Service picture.

Quarter-Finals Today In Grass Court Play

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Considerably shaken by the upset which eliminated Lester Stoeffen and saw George Lott on the verge of defeat, the Eastern Grass Court tennis championships advanced to the quarter-final round today. J. Gilbert Hall, of Orange, N. J., surprised the gallery by his 7-5, 7-9, 8-6 victory over the Pacific Coast Davis Cup star, and it was all a listless Lott could do to overcome the veteran Eugene McAuliffe, of Yonkers, 5-7, 6-2, 9-7.

Today's brackets paired Hall against Gene Mako, Frank Shields against Clifford Sutter, Berkeley Bell against Lott, and Frank Parker against Jack Tidball.

In the women's singles, the semi-finalists are Baroness Maud Levi, Freda James, Betty Nuthall and Katherine Stammers, the latter three English stars.

Sport Shorts

Bob Miller, Binghamton pitcher, hurled his second no-hit, no-run game of the season in a New York-Pennsylvania League game against Hazleton last night, Binghamton winning, 2-0. Last spring, while at Dartmouth, he turned in a similar game against Penn. He walked only two batters.

Patricia Flynn, of Erie, Pa., yesterday won the North American archery championship at Toronto, Can., with a score of 1,683. She also holds the United States junior women's title.

Paul E. Mossman scored a hole in one on the difficult par 3 No. 6 hole at the Oakmont Country Club. It measures 160 yards.

Sam Breadon, president of the St. Louis Cardinals, has issued a statement denying all reports that the Dean brothers will be placed on the trading market this winter.

Ernest was crowned champion of the Rochester-Pittsburgh Coal League last night when it defeated Laverne in the final game of the playoff series, 5-2.

Walworth made it two straight over Clarridge in the Westmoreland County championship baseball series at Jeannette yesterday, winning by an 8-2 score.

Edwin F. Hunt, Nashville, Tenn., won the national checker championship in Jamestown, N. Y., yesterday by winning the eleventh game from Nathaniel Rubin, Detroit.

E. B. Wilson, of Columbus, O., has been elected head football coach at Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y.

Reports that John Gehler, center of the Pittsburgh Pirates, would quit the local professional ranks to serve as assistant coach at Washington University, St. Louis, have been denied by the local officials. Gehler dickered for the job during the summer.

C. O. McCauley won the Pitcairn golf tournament staged yesterday at Hannastown when he turned in a low gross of 85. W. M. Hyson won the kickers' handicap with a 17.

Geneva College let the parade of district colleges in entering upon fall football practice yesterday, when its squad reported to Duke Reede, former Carnegie Tech captain, who is the new coach. The Covenanters will have to make many replacements due to the loss of stars. They open their season with Tech, September 29.

SENIOR CHAMPS, ELIZABETH IN CLASH

By PHIL GRABOWSKI
Softball Tournament Secretary

The East Liberty Shamrocks, winners in the senior division of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph's first annual Western Pennsylvania amateur softball tournament, play their first tuneup game prior to their invasion of Chicago to compete in the national elimination series by engaging the Elizabeth Produce team on the Peabody High School Field this evening. The Shamrocks will represent Western Pennsylvania in the national tournament under the sponsorship of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The Commercial Garage team, which bowed to the Shamrocks in the deciding battle of the senior title, also see action this evening when they oppose the Harris Reds at Washington Park.

Al (Speed) Anderson, of the Hunzekers, was in his best form as he pitched the East Enders to a 2-0 victory over the Waverly Famous team, Central Florida champion, before a crowd of 5,000 at Peabody High School Field yesterday. Anderson gave up only two hits and fanned 13. Ernie Anderson, his brother, and Vincent Fogel hit home runs for the winners.

TONY BEATEN BY DUBLINSKY

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Tony Canzoneri, who has held two world championships, is still looking for the right way to get started on a campaign to regain his lost lightweight title while young Harry Dublinsky is looking forward to further honors, preferably through a shot at Champion Barney Ross.

After a slow start, the Chicagoan warmed up in the fifth round and proceeded to batter Tony around the ring during the last half of the scrap.

Dublinsky weighed 139 pounds, Canzoneri 134½.

Tony Herrera, of Chicago, lost to Lou Ambers in the semi-final.

TRACK MARK CHANGED

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—A recheck today of the world track and field records accepted by the International Amateur Athletic Federation Congress revealed an error of 1.4 seconds in the announcement crediting a new 800-meter mark of 1:48.4 to Ben Eastman, former Stanford star. The record officially credited to Eastman was 1:49.8, which ties the mark previously acknowledged for Tom Hampson, of Great Britain.

pionship play until Sunday, when they meet the Reds twice in Cincinnati.

Larry French and Red Lucas were shelled heavily by the Braves in the first game of yesterday's dual bill. The Tribe made seven runs in the first two rounds and wound up with an 11-0 success.

"Walter Betts limited the Buccos to four hits while his mates were pounding Larry and Red. Wally Berger nicked Lucas for a three-run homer to record his thirtieth round-tripper of the season.

Hoyt's skill on the slab was the real high spot of the Buccos' 7-0 victory in the nightcap. The Buccos fell upon Leo Mangum and Bob Smith for 11 safeties, the most of which were timely.

GRID DRILL TONIGHT

The East Liberty Merchants football squad, coached by Sol Lapman, former W. & J. tackle, is to hold its first practice session at Lincoln and Franklin avenues at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Many of the players performed last season with the Paulson and Papoe teams. Beginning next week, practices are to be held each Tuesday and Friday evening. Players wishing tryouts should report tonight.

CHILLYSAUCE

Bill McKechnie says Al Spohrer, his first-string receiver, is a smart fellow to have around a ball club . . . Spohrer, it seems, emulates Walter Schmidt, a former Pirate catcher under Skipper Bill, who had a yen for stealing the enemy signals regardless of how they were camouflaged.

Spohrer finds the Cubs somewhat of a pushover when the question of swiping signs is the main idea . . . But Al says it is quite difficult to put anything over on the Giants . . . He figures Bill Terry to be one of the best pilots in baseball.

The arc maskman of the Braves, nevertheless, holds the opinion that Jimmy Wilson will take his Phearless Phils to some very definite and enjoyable terminal . . . He says Wilson is the smartest catcher he has seen in baseball . . . Al remarked:

"If you want to get a line on Wilson's skill just ask some of the Cardinal pitchers about him . . . He started Dizzy Dean on his way to fame by smart handling, and Bill Hallahan hasn't been the same since Jimmy left St. Louis."

Spohrer was the victim of a Wilson play which he thinks was one of Jimmy's best . . . The Cards, under Bill McKechnie, were heading for a pennant . . . They had the winning run on third in the ninth with two out in a tough ball game when Wilson came up . . . Jimmy noticed that Spohrer was catching from a somewhat close position, and he very skillfully measured his back swing so that it would collide with Al's glove . . . As his bat brushed against Spohrer's big mitt, Wilson feigned surprise, claimed interference and the umpire upheld him as the winning run was allowed . . . Said Al:

"It was such a clever trick that I actually complimented Wilson. . . . I tried it on the Giants this year, but I guess I was a bit too clumsy and the umpire overruled me."—CHILLY DOYLE.

FAIR GOLFERS IN ONE-DAY EVENT

FEMININE ACES TEE OFF AT FOX CHAPEL

By TOM BIRKS

A prelude to the Women's Golf Association of Western Pennsylvania annual championship is being staged at the Fox Chapel Golf Club today with more than 200 members of the organization participating in the one-day medal play tournament. The event is expected to give the feminine stars an opportunity to sharpen up their game for the championship tournament scheduled at Oakmont two weeks hence.

A new champion is certain to be crowned as Mrs. J. Bernd Rose, of Allegheny, the 1933 winner, will be unable to compete since she will be vacationing in New England at that time.

Open house is being held at the Altoona Country Club today and the 164 members of the club and many of their friends are enjoying a round of golf and other entertainment. Art Snyder, the professional-greenskeeper, has the course in excellent condition.

FLINN, WEPPNER TIED

George H. Flinn, Jr., of Oakmont, and Freddie Weppner, Field Club ace, shared honors in the one-day Pennsylvania Golf Association tournament at the Highland Country Club yesterday. Flinn, president of the state body, and his partner turned in 83's to win first and second place prizes. Jerry Wyman, Highland, and Tom Jamison, Jr., Oakmont, were one stroke behind.

Among the notables who failed to come up to expectations were Jack Benson, of South Hills, the West Penn amateur champion; Dr. Tom Canon, of St. Clair, and Jim Lappan, former Field Club star. C. A. Robinson, Field Club, won the low net prize with a 64.

BROWN IS WINNER

Warren Brown again proved himself the kingpin golfer among the members of the Traffic Club by winning his second tournament of the year at the Field Club yesterday. He turned in a 78 to lead the field by four strokes. Harry Reed and W. H. Billings scored 82's to share second and third prizes, while S. W. Bangwell and E. J. Clancy were next in line with 83s. Other scores follow:

W. E. Kuntz, 85; Joe Summers, 86; A. B. Vanderveer, 86; G. A. Ormiston, 87; A. K. Brite, 88; Baxter Dungan, 88; Robert Doerr, 88; A. N. Gustafson, 88; Duke Warwick, 88; L. C. Kepner, 89; C. N. Booth, 89; C. C. Gray, 90; A. J. Benson, 91; M. A. Smith, 91, and S. O. Stafford, 91.

The monthly tournament of the Penhurst Golf Club yesterday was won by Harold Hofman with a round of 42-33—75. W. R. Ward won the driving contest and Henry Parks the putting contest.

YANKEE TRAILS RAINBOW

By MONTAGU WORTHLEY

International News Service.

ABOARD THE COAST GUARD CUTTER DIX, via radio, Aug. 30.—In the final series of trials to determine the identity of the defending yacht in the international races for the America's Cup, the Harold Vanderbilt boat, Rainbow, enjoyed a clear lead over the Boston boat, Yankee, at the 10-mile mark here this afternoon.

The yachts were tied in victories when the race began, but Rainbow, beating Yankee across the starting line by about a boat's length, continued to gain throughout the first leg, leading by 2 minutes and 11 seconds at 10 miles.

This leg began as a broad reach, but later a part of it became a spinnaker run, with the breeze moderating considerably.

WAYCHOFF NET VICTOR

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Aug. 30.—Andy Waychoff, No. 1 man on the Waynesburg College tennis team the past year and who recently won the Washington-Greene counties tennis tournament staged here, added another title to his list this week by winning the annual Waynesburg City tournament. He defeated Bill McKay in the final round.

Sport Chatterbox

Wonder to whom Roderick Menzel, the Czech tennis star, was referring when in an interview with Richard Vidmer, he said "they" had guaranteed him so much to play in United States tournaments that he couldn't refuse? . . . Maybe he meant the Marx Brothers.

Messrs. Douds and Quatse, first in line for the starting tackle jobs on the Pittsburgh Pirates, are going to have a tough time keeping Armand Niccolai, the former Duquesne University star, out of the lineup . . . Armand has taken on about 20 pounds in heft and carries it well . . . and he still can place kick 'em.

They tell a good one (Larry French does) on Lefty Grove when Lefty was in Japan with the touring all-star baseball team a year or so back. . . . For the first three innings, Lefty put that fast one across the plate and no one even got a faint sniff of same. Finally, the ninth man to face the great Robert Moses sent a foul back of home plate and into the stands.

. . . and the entire turnout of some 30,000 stood up and cheered lustily.

Mickey Cochrane, who apparently is piloting the Detroit Tigers to their first American League pennant since the days of the side saddle and bustle . . . was a fullback at Boston College . . . In fact, he was the entire football team . . . He was taking it easy in scrimmage one day and someone ask him what the trouble was. Mickey replied:

"Oh, I'm going easy today so the rest of the ball club won't be all banged up for Saturday's game."

If the Pittsburgh Pirates (football type) can draw as well in comparison, during the regular season as well as they are at their training camp, Art Rooney can count on the season being a financial success . . . They are packing 'em in at Mt. Pleasant . . . Alton Benton, young righthander of the Athletics, is being touted as one of the most promising of the American League's crop of young pitchers . . . The boys who have seen him work say he has plenty of stuff and needs only to learn his A, B, C's. . . JESS CARVER.

WAGNER HURLS SHUTOUT

Joe Wagner, on the mound for McKeesport, pitched one of his best games of the season yesterday to give the little Pirates a 3-0 victory over Charleroi in a Penn State Association game at Charleroi. Washington defeated Jeannette, 10-7, and Greensburg blanked Monessen, 2-0, in other league games.

It took the last-place Wheeling Stogies to break the 11-game winning streak of the Huntington Red Birds, putting a temporary halt to the latters' threat to the Middle Atlantic leadership, held by the Zanesville Greys.

The Stogies' 5-4 victory over the Red Birds came in a hard-fought game last night.

Meanwhile, the Greys increased their first-place lead over the Red Birds to five games, as they pounded out a 13-6 win over Johnstown.

In an exhibition game, Beckley forced the National League's Cincinnati Reds to an extra inning, before the latter could score a 4-3 win.

BEAVER WINS SHOOT TITLE

The pair tied at 199 out of 200, shot at 16 yards, and then Beaver went on to crack 25 clays while Batten missed one.

Other class winners in yesterday's event were: A—Dr. W. E. Fallis, Louisville, 198; B—Fred Martin, Detroit, 193; C—A. J. Boeder, Estelline, S. D., 193; D—H. E. Schmidt, Jr., Xenia, O., 188. E—D. C. Belk, Greenwood, S. C., 177.

Immaculate Heart Defeats Dormont

Beran pitched seven-hit ball as Immaculate Heart defeated the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon club in an independent game at Dormont yesterday, 4-2.

The Hazelwood Verhovays defeated the J. Scott Morgans, 5-2, and the Paul Jones Club downed the Ottie Cochrans, 7-0, in Greater Pittsburgh Baseball Commission eliminations last evening.

BETWEEN ROUNDS

Promoter Jules Beck is toying with the idea of putting on a Tait Littman-Anson Green bout at Greenlee Field one week from tonight.

Bus Vogel, matchmaker for the Ted Yarosz-Vince Dundee middleweight title bout at Forbes Field one week from next Tuesday night, is hoping for a break in the weather to provide a warm night for the offering. . . . He expects to complete his preliminary card by the end of this week.

Patsy Cantillo, the Willow Club boxer, graduate of Westinghouse High School, hopes to make the boxing team at Syracuse University. He has a record of 18 victories against 24 defeats so far.

Jack Dempsey will referee amateur bouts at Bradford, Pa., next Wednesday night, will appear at Fairmont, W. Va., on Thursday, handle amateur bouts in the Temple of Music at Conneaut Lake on Friday and will show at Wheeling the following Monday, after which he will come here to help along the ballyhoo for the Vince Dundee-Ted Yarosz bout the following night. His wife, the former Hannah Williams, will accompany him here, stopping at the Pittsburgher, the fight headquarters.

The amateur boxing bouts at the Pittsburgh Lyceum, postponed Tuesday night because of the chilly weather, will be staged tonight.

Red Mason Back In Business of Piloting Boxers

By HARRY KECK

Sports Editor.

Red Mason

You can't keep an old fire engine horse from racing to the fires when he hears the clanging gongs. And by the same token you can't keep an old hand at the fight racket on the sidelines very long. James (Red) Mason, veteran local manager of boxers, who has been residing in Chicago for several years, writes that he is back in the business with two good-looking young prospects, Frankie Genovese, of Toronto, whom he would like to match with Fritzie Zivic here, and Frankie Mirabel, a bantamweight. Mason, by the way, picks Barney Ross to repeat his victory over Jimmy McLarnin in their return bout next week.

The dates finally have been set for the America's Cup yacht races. They'll be held off Newport, beginning September 15, with races scheduled daily until either the Endeavour, the British challenger, or the American defender has won four heats.

Remember the old Bradley Eagles football team of McKees Rocks? Well, they're on their way back, with Al Cerceo, the handler of the old champions, at the helm. He's starting out with a junior outfit and will build up gradually.

Heard a good crack the other day. Gent said that the promoters of a certain sports bust which gypped the public must have been the same fellows who staged the Butler mail robbery.

Alex Hart, the old lightweight boxer, of Lorain, O., has been buried by the National Sports Alliance. He died broke in New York several days ago.

Fights Tonight

Amateur bouts at Pittsburgh Lyceum: Don Aslo vs. Johnnny Dobler, 10 rounds; Sammy Faris vs. Russell Martin, 8 rounds, and Harry Krause vs. Young Terry and Bill Cons vs. Bob Dorman, 6 rounds each, Parkersburg, W. Va.

SOCCER LOOPS SHAPE PLANS

Joe Luxbacher, veteran manager of the Old Carnegie soccer team, was elected president of the Central District Soccer League at a meeting of the body held at the Fort Pitt Hotel last night. Andrew Wylie, of Ambridge, is the new vice president, and Hughy Robinson was retained as secretary-treasurer. Jimmy Moreman is to serve as delegate.

Six clubs make up the league: Ambridge, Aliquippa, Old Carnegie, the Pittsburgh Rovers, Swissvale and Beltzhoover already have posted forfeits, with a provision that two more clubs will be enrolled providing they are within playing distance and play Saturday soccer.

The Keystone League held a meeting last night at the Owls Club at Bridgeville, with President Zoney Zontine in charge. At the present time Heidelberg, Curry, Cecil, Gallatin, the German Sport Club, of Castle Shannon; Moon Run, Avella and Morgan make up the eight-club league.

The advisability of increasing the league membership to 10 teams was discussed, but no definite action was taken, as there is a possibility that a second section will be formed. Sturgeon, Cedar Grove, Weirton and another team are prospective members of a second section. Officers are to be elected at the league's final meeting, to be held Friday of next week.

The Panhandle League is to hold a meeting Thursday of next week at Bridgeville.

STOCKS SLIDE AS TRADING EXPANDS

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Clouds again hovered over the financial markets today, and speculative enthusiasm for the recovery was noticeably restrained.

Stocks slipped under an expansion of the trading volume, induced partly by the evident urge to cash in profits before the holiday. Among the unsettling factors were the recurrence of serious labor troubles, another sharp decline in the British pound and the business of the industrial horizon.

Cotton sagged, and grains were inclined to dip under renewed offerings. Bonds lagged with stocks. In addition to sterling, the gold currencies were easier in terms of the dollar.

After a rather sharp morning selling flurry, stock prices leveled off and extreme losses of 1 to more than 2 points were reduced. The rails were the heaviest and metals steadiest.

With the hearings on the railroads' rate increase pleas set for October 1 by the Interstate Commerce Commission, further attention of stockholders was attracted to the unsatisfactory financial situation of a number of the carriers.

United States Steel shares did little more than trail the rest of the market in the face of the announcement of the corporation that it was eliminating Saturday as a work-day for its salaried employes and, as a consequence, reducing their pay by approximately 10 per cent.

At the same time trade observers were not too cheerful over the near-future prospects for the steel industry, which is currently operating around 19 per cent of capacity, the lowest rate since March, last year. It was generally believed, however, that this condition will not continue indefinitely and that a substantial upturn may be expected later in the year, or least early next spring.

Market analysts were inclined to attribute the recent resistance of stocks to unfavorable news largely to the strong technical position of the list. With an important textile strike apparently inevitable, and the fall business outlook still obscure, it was thought that equities had acted fairly well. It was also recalled that forthcoming Treasury financing of large proportions and the November elections are influences which may motivate speculative operations.

STRIKES RETARD TRADE UPTURN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Current business indications reveal industrial activity is still hovering around low summer month levels.

While recent recessions have not been material, no reversal of the downward trend has been evidenced.

Contributing, also, have been recurring labor troubles featured by the Aluminum Company of America strike difficulties, the threatened walkout in the textile industry and reported prospects of further trouble in the motor trade.

Steel operations are running around the low figure for the year. This trend is seasonal in character, as operations do not ordinarily turn upward until late in September, but the trade expected some stimulation by this time.

Engineering Awards Take Sudden Spurt

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—Engineering construction during the past week involved a total of $36,671,000, the third largest week this year, according to reports to "Engineering News-Record." Included in the total was $15,270,000 in federal awards.

Forbes

Relief Rolls Greater!
Too Many Codes.
Business Discouraged.

By B. C. FORBES

AS THE ELECTIONS approach, Washington spokesmen are filling the air and the newspapers with glowing accounts of what has been accomplished by the New Deal. Their statements have been most plausible.

Also, authority has been quoted enough to gather and publish throughout the country the cold fact concerning the number of families and individuals receiving relief today as compared with a year ago.

Mr. Forbes

The painful and regrettable truth is that relief rolls are longer than ever before. Also, warnings are general that the ranks of the abjectly needy will be seriously swollen this winter.

Such stern facts and figures cannot be laughed off.

The deduction is forced that the New Deal is not working ideally, that recovery is faltering, that confidence is not being built up satisfactorily.

Ten? Twenty? Thirty? No. Eighty!

Its head tells me that it is becoming impossible for executives to concentrate sufficiently upon doing their jobs because of the constant distraction injected by code problems.

It was high time that Washington reached the conclusion that reduction and simplification of codes have become urgently necessary. Not even a chameleon could satisfy 80 masters.

MAYBE THIS statement made to me in conversation by a wealthy entrepreneur who used to risk putting capital into various new inventions, new products, new enterprises, may throw light on why employment isn't reviving briskly and why more and more people are compelled to subsist on public relief!

"My losses have been so heavy that I have no heart to attempt to make money, as I used to, by putting capital into what looked like promising projects. The cards are now stacked against me.

"Taxes on profits, income taxes and other taxes have become so heavy that it would take a super-genius, which I am not, to come out ahead of the game. Suppose I finance an enterprise which proves profitable; the government not only exacts almost 14 per cent of the company's profits in the form of a corporation tax, but soaks me over half of my income.

"But can I offset losses against gains? I cannot.

"It has practically become a case of the government's decreeing, 'heads I win; tails you lose.'

"I have always been regarded as a fairly good sport. But I'll admit that I am crawling into my shell even though I am as anxious as ever to take a fair chance and though I get as much of a kick as ever from playing a part in establishing a healthy business giving employment to lots of people. But taxes, codes, costs, labor demands have me cowed.

"I certainly hope things will by and by change—or I fear the final outcome won't be particularly satisfactory to anybody."

PRESIDENT E. E. LOOMIS, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, who has just sent a heartening, inspiring, never-say-die message to all employes, is kind enough to say that he was influenced by the attitude taken by the writer of this column. This writer has never wavered in his faith that, regardless of how far wrong things may go temporarily, America will eventually rise triumphal over all obstacles. Here is the keynote of Mr. Loomis' message to all his workers:

"The management does not believe that the country is 'going to the dogs.' While business prospects at present are not as encouraging as we should like to see them, we do expect improvement, and every man and woman on our payrolls should be alert not only to secure business but to handle their duties efficiently and in their contact with others reflect this spirit of optimism."

Surplus Freight Car Supply Gains

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Class 1 railroads on July 31 had 348,240 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the car division service of the American Railway Association announced today. This was an increase of 8,361 cars compared with July 14. The roads on August 1 had 299,780 freight cars in need of repair, or 15.5 per cent of the number on line, against 298,846 or 15.3 per cent on July 1.

Farm Equipment Exports Tops 1933

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—July exports of agricultural equipment from the United States, although showing a decrease from the preceding month were still notably greater than in July 1933, according to the commerce department. July exports amounted to $1,992,330 against $1,053,095 in July last year and $2,159,122 in June 1934.

U. S. SPEEDS UP EMERGENCY RELIEF SPENDING

2-MONTH TOTAL NEAR HALF BILLION

International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—Emergency expenditures of the government more than doubled during the first two months of the current fiscal year, it was disclosed at the Treasury today.

For the two months approximately $475,000,000 was spent for emergency purposes compared with around $220,000,000 for the same period last year.

The government apparently was speeding its relief program. There was available a three billion dollar carryover from the 1934 fiscal year as well as more than $500,000,000 appropriated for drought relief which will be spent during the current year.

It was anticipated that the bulk of the carryover would be disbursed during the first half of the 1935 fiscal year, or before December 31.

COLLECTIONS BETTER

The government's total expenditures for the first two months of the current year amounted to about $900,000,000, exceeding the receipts by around $435,000,000.

The receipt situation was favorable. About $460,000,000 was collected in the two months compared to $230,000,000 last year.

A considerable collection of back taxes boosted income tax receipts from $25,425,000 to $41,000,000. Miscellaneous internal revenue stimulated by beer and other alcoholic beverage receipts amounted to $260,000,000, a gain of about $30,000,000 over the year before.

These increases were somewhat offset by a continued drop in exports, resulting in a reduction of about $14,000,000 in customs receipts. This income amounted to around $40,000,000 for the two months.

METAL HOLDINGS GAIN

There was some increase in the volume of silver certificates in circulation as a result of the Treasury's new program. On August 27 outstanding silver certificates totaled $522,657,000, a gain of $29,000,000 since July 1. Federal Reserve notes in circulation gained $100,000,000 to a total of $3,105,000,000.

The silver bullion account totaled $58,077,000, an increase of $13,000,000 in two months. The Treasury's gold supply was given as $7,981,388,000, which was $121,000,000 higher than at the beginning of the fiscal year.

U. S. TO LAUNCH CREDIT QUIZ

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Secretary of the treasury Morgenthau today stated the professional group in the Treasury under Dr. Jacob Viner, will initiate an inquiry into the availability of bank credit, using the Chicago Federal Reserve district as a representative area for such inquiry.

The inquiry is to determine whether there is a definite trend toward refusal of banks to make credit available to small business and industry and if there is a lack of response to credit demands, and what can be done about it.

Leonard Brings in New Wyoming Well

The Lenco Petroleum Company, owned by the Leonard Oil Development Company and others, has drilled in its third well on the Rousseau tract in the Oregon basin field in Wyoming. The well gauged 1,050 barrels the first 24 hours and was shut in for storage. The well is producing from the Embar sand.

Kellogg Company Doubling Storage

DETROIT, Aug. 30.—The Kellogg Company, Battle Creek cereal manufacturers, has started work on a new grain storage elevator with capacity of 1,000,000 bushels, which will raise the company's total grain storage to 2,000,000 bushels capacity. This will eliminate need of storing large quantities of grain in terminal elevators.

Market Governors Deny Extra Holiday

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—Governors of the New York Stock Exchange have denied the petition asking that the exchange be closed next Saturday. The extra holiday was requested in connection with the usual Labor Day suspension next Monday.

ICC SETS RATE HEARING DATE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(INS)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today assigned for hearing on October 1 the petition of class I railroads and the American Short Line Railroad Association for an increase in freight rates.

The commission made it plain that argumentative discussions will be out of place at the hearings, and that questions of law and of policy will be deferred until the case is argued before it. The commission said:

"The railroads will have the burden of proof, and will open and close. Every effort will be made to expedite the proceeding and to confine the evidence within reasonable bounds."

As similar petitions have been filed by petitioners with a number of state railroad commissions having regulatory powers, the ICC has requested the co-operation of these commissions, as provided by law.

S. O. INDIANA ON 'BIG BOARD'

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP.)—The New York Stock Exchange has listed the capital stock of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, consisting of 15,975,175 shares. Application for the listing was made by the company two weeks ago. Trading will be inaugurated tomorrow. Previously the stock was dealt in on the New York Curb Exchange.

The listing agreement reveals that the Indiana Company has adopted a more liberal policy in regard to financial statements under which the stockholders will be furnished semi-annual and annual statements in the forms prescribed by the exchange to insure adequate information. The company also agrees to have its accounts audited by independent public accountants.

PACIFIC TRADE INDEX RISES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—The Bank of America index of far western business for July (preliminary) stood at 87.8, the highest point reached in two and a half years. The July index is 3.5 per cent above July, 1933, the peak month of last year, and 9.4 per cent above July, 1932.

July is the seventh consecutive month in 1934 to show an increase over the corresponding month of the previous year, and the third consecutive month to show a gain over the same month in both 1933 and 1932.

Retail sales figures for the first seven months of 1934 showed a 9.1 per cent gain over the corresponding period in 1933.

Business failures in the first six months of 1934 were 24.5 per cent below the number in the same period last year, and 52.1 per cent lower than the number of failures in the corresponding first half-year of 1932, the bank's monthly business review states.

The 1934 wool clip in 13 western states, which produce approximately 75 per cent of the total United States wool crop, is estimated by the bank's review at 260,541,000 pounds compared with 271,783,000 pounds in 1933 and 293,000,000 pounds in 1932. The decrease in the current year's wool production is stated to be the result of a 3 per cent decline in the average weight per fleece this year and a decrease of nearly 5 per cent in the number of sheep to be shorn.

State Employment Holds Above 1933

HARRISBURG, Aug. 30.—(INS.)—Although maintaining levels above the same month last year, employment and factory payrolls in Pennsylvania slumped during July, the Department of Labor and Industry reported today.

Employment was off 3.9 per cent as compared with June. This rating was 7.5 per cent higher than a year ago. Payrolls dropped 8.1 per cent, but were 14.8 per cent higher than a year ago.

Average weekly earnings in July were $20.45 and average hourly earnings were 59.4 cents.

Commission to Permit Unlisted Trading

By GEORGE B. SNYDER
Business Editor

UNLISTED TRADING on the New York Curb Exchange and smaller exchanges throughout the country is not to be discontinued at present. This was made known by the Securities Commission late yesterday when it made public its temporary rules covering transactions of this type. The commission told exchanges that they must file applications for permission to continue transactions in unlisted securities.

Mr. Snyder

The permission to continue unlisted trading will expire June 30, 1935, or at an earlier date if the commission should decide to issue new rules.

The order stave off for the time being any disruption of the large volume of trading being conducted on the New York Curb in stocks which are not formally listed. Over three-fourths of the curb securities are unlisted. It also will delay any stampede of corporations to transfer their securities from the unlisted department of the curb to regular listing on the New York Stock Exchange or to the over-the-counter market. It was thought that if the commission did not permit continued trading in unlisted securities, such a rush might take place and that the curb might find its business materially curtailed.

Two Classes Have Seperate Rules

WHILE COMPANIES with listed securities on the New York Curb must conform to regulations for the presentation of earnings statements, and balance sheets and must meet other requirements, companies whose shares are admitted to unlisted trading are not required to conform to all the regulations for listed trading. This is in spite of the fact that, so far as buying and selling are concerned, they enjoy all the advantages of the listed stocks.

The commission's order permits the continuation of this arrangement, but it does make one important stipulation. In publishing quotations, exchanges with unlisted securities must differentiate between the listed and unlisted groups. Tickers must follow the quotations on listed securities with the letter "L." In printed quotations the

BRITISH POUND AT NEW LOW IN PARIS

International News Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The British pound sterling crashed to a new low in Paris increasing the upswing of the London gold price to a new record high today, as Continental speculators became convinced that the English exchange fund had ceased operations.

Lifting of the London gold price to 140 shillings 3 pence an ounce was necessary in order to offset the decline of the pound to 74.35 francs against 79.32 yesterday. At the present rate of 140 shillings 3 pence gold is selling at the highest price ever recorded on the London open market and the pound is down to the lowest level ever set in the Paris market. Prior to England's abandonment of the gold standard the old par for francs in London was 124.21 to the pound.

FRANCE GAINS GOLD

The Bank of France statement covering the week ended August 24 showed another gain of 441,000,000 francs, all of which was due to the recent operations of the British control fund.

The withdrawal of the British control fund is understood to have been an effort on the part of British authorities to force the pound down to $4.80@5, the old dollar parity.

The local foreign exchange market, however, maintained its composure in the midst of the wild trading in the London and Paris marts and the dollar strengthened following yesterday's late flurry.

DOLLAR STEADY

With the French franc at 6.84 cents, off one-half point from yesterday, the dollar was valued at 58.58 cents against 58.70 yesterday. On the basis of the London gold price, which was equivalent to $35.32 an ounce against $35.27 yesterday, the dollar was valued at 99.99 per cent of parity against 99.73 per cent yesterday.

Other European gold currencies generally moved in favor of the dollar.

WEEK'S GRAIN EXPORTS OFF

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Grain exports from the United States last week totaled 464,000 bushels against 754,000 the previous week and 226,000 during the corresponding week of last year.

Wheat, 227,000 bushels against 560,000; barley, 49,000 against 224,000; corn, 8,000 against 140,000; oats, 1,000 against 2,000; no exports of rye were reported for either week.

Canadian grains cleared last week from United States ports totaled 661,000 bushels against 582,000 the previous week, while exports of North American wheat flour were 45,000 barrels against 79,000 barrels.

Bethlehem Unit Gets Big Order

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The Pacific Coast Steel Corporation, subsidiary of Bethlehem Steel, has received an order for 13,130 tons of reinforcing bars for the Bonneville (Ore.) dam powerhouse substructure and lock.

A contract for 2,500 tons of shapes for the same project went to the Pacific Car and Foundry Company.

PITTSBURGH'S GREATEST AUTOMOBILE SALE

NOW ON

You can thank the Ford V-8 for this opportunity

NEVER has any car been so popular in Allegheny County as the Ford V-8. Never has any automobile brought so many good cars in exchange—Lincolns, Packards, Nashes, Studebakers, Buicks, Chryslers, Oldsmobiles, Fords, Chevrolets and Plymouths. They're all here. Many 1933 and 1934 models, virtually as good as new.

These cars are now assembled at all Ford dealers for you to see. They must be sold. Prices have been made to move them quickly. Not in many a day have you seen such bargains. But the quicker you come, the finer choice you have.

Little cash is required. You can finance the purchase of any of these cars on easy monthly payments through authorized Ford Finance Plans of Universal Credit Company.

If you have a car, you can use it as part payment on one of these late models. See your nearest Ford Dealer today. This opportunity won't last long!

Capt. Midnight

By LOUIS ARTHUR CUNNINGHAM

CHAPTER VIII

Yvonne stared into the shaded eyes and, oddly enough, the first thought that struck her was that Melusine was not real was just a doll that talked and said only things like this. St. Hilaire—St. Hilaire——

"I have heard of him," said Yvonne. "The revelation of Capt. Midnight's identity had no significance whatsoever for her. She felt no better informed than before about her husband. This meant nothing "And yes, I think I did see him once at Montmorency. He was with you, mademoiselle—naturally one cannot see anyy other planet clearly when the sun is out."

Melusine stiffened. Yvonne could almost see sharp claws crooking tensely, almost hear a feline hiss of rage.

"You should," retorted Melusine, "have observed him very closely at the time, my dear; you should have studied his handsome face and engraved his image on your heart. For now he is only a masque—you have him, but you do not know what you have—"

"At least I have him and it seems that the loss of him has hurt you. Or is it the loss or the fact that another succeeded where you failed? I have learned so many things today. I have always believed that no man could resist your beauty; it is indeed flattering to know that the one who could—is my husband."

"You little fool—"

Masque Advantageous

"It is my painful charge," interrupted Jean Pierre's voice, "to intrude on this pleasant tete-a-tete."

His mocking, appraising glance darted from the white, angry face of Melusine to Yvonne's, so dark, so suffused with crimson; to the storm in Yvonne's black eyes and the way her white teeth held her lower lip. She would not speak in front of Jean Pierre.

Melusine shrugged, smiled, rose from her chair.

"I was but congratulating Yvonne upon her marriage, and wishing her all happiness. No doubt a masque is a blessing, since one tires of looking at the same face for long."

"That is true—of some faces," said Jean Pierre innocently, whether they be pretty or otherwise—after all, they are only masques; it is the heart that counts. And no one has said that Capt. Midnight's heart is not an honest and noble one. I, too, should like to congratulate you, Yvonne, and tell you that the greatest and fondest wish of my life is that you will be happy with this man on whom you have most certainly bestowed happiness."

Yvonne hesitated. Jean Pierre's face was grave, sincere. All of Jean Pierre seemed to be in those large, dark gray and eloquent eyes of his. She gazed into them for a moment, then looked away.

"I thank you, m'sieur. You are too kind."

"They are words of mercy," said Melusine. "Come, M. Martel—your errand was to fetch me; now it seems I must fetch you. Surely you, too, do not fall under the spell of this mystic and quite indefinable charm that alone could capture poor Laurent?"

Under Spell

"Long ago," said Jean Pierre softly, "I fell under its spell. Au revoir, Mme. St. Hilaire."

With a tender smile—a smile that Yvonne, despite herself and her dislike of him, could not help but trust — Jean Pierre Martel, having lightly touched Melusine's arm, walked over to their waiting companions and all left the inn. At the door, Jean Pierre glanced back at her and smiled. She looked down at her plate lest she yield to the temptation, strong almost beyond resisting, to return that smile, so gay, so charming. Abruptly she paid her bill and left.

Not chance alone nor mere caprice had made Yvonne take this road. She had wanted to come this way, for here most often Capt. Midnight rode and the good inhabitants who lived in the farmhouses scattered about swore that scarcely a night went by that they did not hear in the silent hours the distant thunder of white Barca's hoofs.

And along this road was the hollow oak, leprous white and riven by the lightning that had killed it in all its stately pride, but had given it too, with death, a certain fantastic beauty. It stood on a knoll, some little distance from the road, and near it the gray and crumbling walls of an abandoned windmill loomed forlornly against the darkening sky.

Only by repeated urgings and a smart touch with the crop did Yvonne succeed in making the horse climb the knoll and take her to the oak's broad bole. Even there he was still more restive and difficult to manage. Yvonne knew that horses and dogs have the faculty of seeing things that the human eye sees not, but in the grimy windows of the mill she could perceive nothing to cause Luitpoldel such uneasiness.

Finds Note

She rode to the hollow oak and, kneeling, put her hand inside. At first she felt only the dry leaves and the moist, warm earth, then her questing fingers found a crisp slip of paper. Her heart exulted as she drew it out and unfolded it. There was only a word written on it—Beloved. It was enough. She smiled, stared at it and, folding it, thrust it in her pocket. It was sweet to be remembered. Impulsively she put within the hollow oak a little lace 'kerchief with her initials on it. She laughed gleefully.

Her laughter had a terrible echo. For a moment, paralyzed with shock, with unreasoning fear, she dared not, could not, turn nor rise from her kneeling posture. Luitpoldel's mad tugging at the bridle aroused her and she leaped to her feet. Close beside her was a creature, ancient as the oak; and, like it, gnarled, faded and fantastic; his hair was long and matted, his eyes so small and deep-set that only by their brightness could one know them; his mouth was wide and grinning and toothless, and a faded smock hung to his ankles.

"Who are you?" What do you wish?" demanded Yvonne. "You startled me. Do you live here?"

The creature pointed up at the windmill.

"Up there!" he said in a whisper. "The Evil Eye cannot see me. I live up there since I gazed upon the devil's face.

Sees Devil

"Last night I saw him again," croaked the ancient. "Right here, kneeling where you knelt and I saw the writing he put in the oak tree. And who are you that have dealings with the devil?

"The face of the king of hell," he muttered. "No face of man. All scarred and painted and the eyes—" He crossed himself and glared wildly about, and, leaning forward, whispered lower still. "Even to the lieutenant I did not say this—no lids—no lids on the eyes and the——"

Yvonne shuddered, closed her own eyes, for almost she could see the picture this afflicted man had conjured up—almost she could see those hideous staring, awful eyes—and his! His!

With a terrible sound, half scream, half growl, he covered his eyes with clawlike hands. Yvonne could stand no more. She leaped upon Luitpoldel's back and, curbing his speed as best she could, galloped over the treacherous boggy ground towards the white sweep of the highroad—away from the nightmare, from that scene that had made her creep with horror, that had chilled her, that had sickened her heart.

Ahead, down the roadway, Yvonne saw a horseman, and so swift was Luitpoldel's progress that the other horse and its rider seemed to stand stock still and yet to rush down upon her. But the rider was out of his saddle and she saw the set of Jean Pierre's lean jaw as he leaped at the flying horse's head, seized the bridle and hung there doggedly, matching his own strength with that of the maddened brute, and besting it until it slowed, slowed and finally, gleaming with sweat and quivering, stood still.

Saves Yvonne

Yvonne, white, shaken, both by the runaway and what had caused it, slid down from the saddle into his waiting arms, grateful for their support. He led her to the grassy bank by the roadside and stood above her, watching the swift rise and fall of her breast, the flutter of pulse at her white throat and the frightened wildness of her black eyes. He thought he had not before seen her so lovely; then smiled to recall that each time he saw her he thought precisely the same thing.

"I am much in your debt, M. Martel," she said when her breathing had slowed a little. "I—I thank you with all my heart."

"And you forgive me?"

"I had, I assure you, forgotten the thing to be forgiven. Yes, if it means aught to you, I forgive your boldness. I—" she passed a hand over her brow eagerly, closed her eyes for a moment. "I seem to have been in a horrible dream—that old man—at the mill——"

"Ah!" Jean Pierre was concerned. He sat on the grass beside her, resting on his elbow, gazing up at her. "You were there—to the windmill? And you saw that crazy old fellow who wanders about the woods—Adelard Morin dit Langlois they call him. They say he is bewitched. He frightened you—"

"Yes. It was he who made Luitpoldel run away. He—he told me—I cannot repeat it to you—it is so strange, so horrible—"

Jean Pierre stared at the grass, plucked a blade of it and slowly dissected it into green strings.

"So he told you of Capt. Midnight—

Now Go On

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Probably there will be a new one tomorrow. So whether you got in this one or not, fellows, try to write your letters in time for the new one.

In the meantime, you can be on the lookout for the letters about who is the greatest man living today and why. We're sure there are going to be some wonderful letters. And we're sure you are going to like reading them—right here in the Mail Box.

At the same time that we pick three prize winning letters, we pick some letters for honorable mention each week, too, fellows!

Here's one we liked a lot. It's from Susanne Fickley, of 2823 Sageman avenue, Pittsburgh. She says:

"I would rather have my vacation in the summer, it's so nice visiting my Uncle's farm, getting rides on the horses, eating apples, berries and lots of green vegetables, and drinking fresh milk. Sliding down the hay loft. Going swimming and fishing in the brook. No clothes but a sun or bathing suit, camping, hiking and picnics. Everything is so pretty. I think the world is best in the summer."

And no wonder you think so, Susanne. Such a wonderful time on the farm in the summer would make almost everybody think so.

And another girl who thinks the summer is the best vacation time is Jean Sparr, of 1213 S. Braddock avenue, Edgewood. She writes:

"I would much rather have my vacation in the summer. Because it has swimming, picnics, ball games, flowers and sunshine. The summer would be too hot to work and the winter would be too cold to play. I think you will agree with me."

JUNIOR PATROL PLEDGE

Percy : :

By ADELAIDE FLEXNER

Because his father and his father before him were named Percy, he was named Percy, too. It never bothered him much—this possession of a name so undeniably "sissy"—while he was an infant in arms.

He hadn't learned the value of names then; that a boy called Richard was supposed to be strong and brave, that a girl called Diana was understood to be cool and rather distant, like the moon goddess.

All he knew or cared was that when some one said, "Percy," he was supposed to answer. And that's all it meant to him, just a tag on a bundle or a label on a bottle of jam, for identification purposes, until one day he was with the rest of the boys of his sixth-grade class in the gymnasium. They had rigged up a high-jump and were seeking a class champion. Percy's turn came.

He missed and knocked the bamboo pole onto the mats. He tried again, and again heard the dull thud of the bar. He stood back, breathing hard, while the bar was being placed on the stand. And just then he heard one of the boys say to another contemptuously: "Oh well, waddduh 'spect, with Percy for a name?" They giggled and looked at him.

For the first time in his life Percy Williams made a decision that he was to make many times again in the years to come. Because his name was Percy, he had to make good. He had to clear that hurdle, and show them that having Percy for a name didn't make a sissy of one. He took a deep breath, ran, and cleared the hurdle so neatly that he garnered praise from the instructor.

Although he was only 11 at the time, the idea of living down his name became an obsession with him. On a piece of paper that was kept concealed in his dresser drawer, he sternly laid out regulations and rules for himself, which he as sternly followed.

He must never back away from doing something he was asked to do, no matter how much he disliked it. He must not necessarily be the leader, but he must be an enthusiastic follower. He must be good in everything he set out to do. People must never have the chance to giggle at him and say contemptuously "Oh, well, waddduh 'spect with Percy for a name?"

He was elected secretary of the grammar school graduation class. The minutes were always correct, never calling forth objections, and Percy Williams felt a peaceful satisfaction as he scrawled his name at the end of each report, respectfully submitted.

As a freshman in high school Percy did not do much in the way of extra-curricular work. Freshmen rarely do. But when he got into his second and third years he plunged into things. His friends joined clubs, asked him to join with them, and if it were possible for him to do so, he did.

His senior year found him sports editor of the school paper, president of a language club, member of sundry other clubs and a fairly shining light on the track and football teams. He hated the football, but the coach had said he looked like good material and because his name was Percy, he became the best center in the section.

Football audiences a few years later marveled at the Oberhill University center. "Imagine a guy named Percy plowin' around out there, layin' 'em out!" It was hard to believe. One always thought of a Percy as being thin, brainy, with the inevitable horn-rimmed glasses. And this Percy had muscles and plenty of them and did indeed "lay 'em out."

Percy never actually hated anything so much as this football. And the more he hated it, it seemed, the better he played. He hated the rushing into contact with sweaty, powerful bodies. He hated to think as he clutched the man opposite and bore him, struggling to the ground, that perhaps he was hurting the fellow. But because his name was Percy he couldn't back out, couldn't let them giggle and say contemptuously, "Oh, well, waddduh 'spect with Percy for a name?"

There comes a moment in the lives of many football heroes when they are tempted by golden money bags. Percy had his moment. Two glib representatives came to call on him. Chewing cigars, snapping gay suspenders, they dangled tempting dollars before Percy. They expostulated, pleaded, swore, but Percy yawned rudely and said: "No."

After an hour's steady talking there he sat, totally unmoved. With mournful headshakings they started again.

"Say, kid," said the taller of the two, "all we want yuh t'do——"

Percy sighed. "I understand perfectly what you want me to do. Four explanations have made it very clear. Now, if I may give you your hat," he did so, "and the other—er—gentleman his, I'll be delighted to show you to the front door."

Blankly the two followed Percy down the stairs. At the bottom landing the thinner one gave a parting thrust.

"Too good for our dough, ain't yer, sonny?" he sneered. "'Spose it is a turrible thing fer yuh t'do, seein' yer name's Percy!"

Grimly he sailed into the two and drove them bloody and bruised into the street. Because his name was Percy.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT

Dear Sympathetic Aunt Bella:

For a number of years I have been seriously considering the advisability of shooting my husband. My hesitancy in the matter has been due to the fact that I have been unable in any book of etiquette to find information as to the proper caliber pistol with which to accomplish my purpose. What do you advise, A. B.? Kidder.

Nobody Bothers the Swiss

Among the nations and on between the ends of Europe we must mean the chapters to little old Switzerland.

Wars boil and rave over. Kings reign to pull in their necks and dictators lie off balconies like star pigeons. Armies march to the music of creaking leather and soldiers slaughter each other with. But everything misses the Swiss.

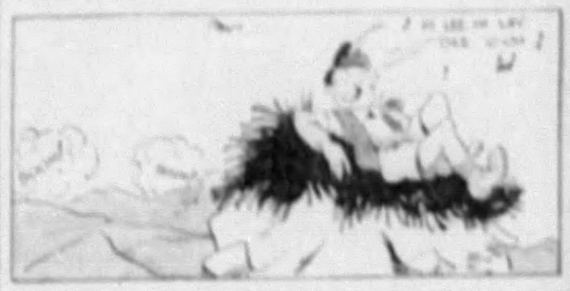
The grenade may wreak through the air, but it revolves to no Swiss.

He looks on as a civilian observer. Hanging to his pocket avalanche by his toe nails he looks down upon the serpentine area and yodels. "Si lee si lay dee oh," is a mazie mother tune.

The Swiss is not a miserable ingrate. Neither is he a low ceiling lecturer. He is a mountaineer, lustier the finer screened with granite. He yodels to the far horizon and carries his below off the clouds. He sings because he is happy. And he is happy because he sings.



Nobody has assisted the Swiss since William Tell refused to salute Gessler's hat. And the Swiss will shoot at no enemy who hasn't got an apple balanced on his head.

That's why France, Italy, Austria, Germany and Russia have the swiftest scrawny soldiers. An army would look nutty marching along with apples on their heads.

Once a Swiss spots a Wine Sap or a Grimes's Golden perched on a bottle shall he rushes for his bow and arrow. Sigh! The war is over.

There was once a dastardly scheme to ruin the Swiss by importing a cheap grade of crab apples. But no keen-eyed mountaineer waited a freshened arrow upon them. A Swiss is primed for a Baldwin, a Northern Spy or a Maiden Blush. He also considers an Albemarle Pippin an honorable and worthy target.

War like this is so one-sided that no European nation cares to stir up the craggy and bombproof vengeance of the hill billies with the operatic battle yells.

Don't believe that the rough contours of the Alps are responsible for the national safety of Switzerland. It is the noble and sturdy character of the fearless Swisser which protects him from Greeks bearing gifts and others toting spears.

Ancient customs are observed in China on such occasions as weddings and funerals to such an extent that the cost keeps many families poor, according to experts in Singapore.

Huts made of synthetic resin are to replace the corrugated iron buildings used in the South African gold fields. The new huts will last longer and be more comfortable to live in, as well as being lighter for transport than the metal structures.

Paris has a restaurant for the exclusive use of dogs. It is in the Champs-Elysees and claims to be the only restaurant devoted to canine animals. Its menu even caters for vegetarian dogs.

Trawling on horseback brings good catches at Mar del Plata, in the Argentine. The fishermen work in pairs, their nets spread between their mounts, and gallop up and down the shallows.

All Schools to Open

Their Financial Troubles Emphasize the Need of Economy in Government

One would think it could be taken as a matter of course that all the public schools in Pennsylvania would open for the new year at the scheduled time. But apparently, because of financial difficulties, there was no certainty about it. Accordingly Dr. James N. Rule, state superintendent of public instruction, expresses "extreme gratification" in announcing that the second century of free public schools in the Commonwealth will start next Tuesday with none of them closed.

This reminder of the hard time that some of the school districts have had in maintaining their public schools is also a reminder that there is a way in the school system itself by which expenses can be cut down and efficiency increased. We refer to the excessive number of school districts and school officials, and the desirability of reducing the number.

Pennsylvania has 2,582 school districts, each with its own board of directors, secretary, treasurer and tax collector. Thirty-four of the districts have no schools of any kind and 1,400 have no high schools. More than half the districts average about one director to each teacher.

As showing how needlessly expensive this antiquated system, a relic of oxcart days, is, it is interesting to note that while the cost of collecting school taxes in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia is but 19 cents per $100, the same service in the 2,303 small town and rural districts averages $3.10.

The remedy is simple. Let the Legislature at its next regular session provide for the consolidation of school districts. One district to the county would be enough.

A Great County Fair

The 'State of Allegheny' Shows Its Citizens Many Things to Arouse Pride

Abraham Lincoln's characterization of the county as the "State of Allegheny" comes to mind in contemplating the variety and vastness of our resources, as shown at the county fair in South Park.

Pittsburghers are too apt to think of the county as a manufacturing and mining region, without giving thought to our fertile and diversified farms. A visit to the fair, with its splendid agricultural exhibits, will broaden their viewpoint.

It is a great fair, well worth a visit, as hundreds of thousands of people are finding out.

And what makes it still more notable is that it is all free, all designed solely to show the citizens what a wonderful county they have, with no selfish or commercial motive back of it at all.

The County Commissioners and others who have contributed to the success of this excellent exposition are to be congratulated.

A New Wonder of Science

The Westinghouse "Ignitron" Tube Permits One To See a Flying Bullet

As perfected by Westinghouse engineers the new "Ignitron" tube may well turn out to be one of the most useful as well as astonishing marvels of science.

By the light of the tube speeding objects are made to seem motionless.

Bullets can be observed flying through space; an airplane propeller, moving at top speed, appears at rest, and typewritten words can be read on the flashing blade of a swiftly revolving electric fan.

The utility of this optical invention, in both research and in industry, is almost beyond imagination.

Undoubtedly, if the idea works out, human life may be made vastly safer than it now is.

The 'Numbers' Racket

It Could Be Quickly Destroyed if the City and County Authorities Desired

The complaint of three East End women that they have lost sums totaling $2,500 in the "numbers" or lottery racket is not an isolated case.

Ever since the underworld was permitted to introduce this odious vice in Pittsburgh we have had case after case in which persons formerly happy and law-abiding have been corrupted and made miserable by it.

We have had case after case in which persons, made desperate by their losses in "numbers" gambling, have turned to robbery and even committed suicide.

Yet the authorities continue to tolerate it. Not infrequently the police magistrates, in violation of the law, let the "numbers writers" off with light fines, instead of holding them for the grand jury.

This vicious racket can be quickly ended, we firmly believe, whenever the city and county authorities see fit to sentence the operators to prison for a term long enough to teach them that they have committed a crime.

Now It Can Be Told

How People Spend Their Time Is at Last Disclosed To the World

Some powerful thinker at Columbia University has recently completed a "survey" to see how people spend their leisure time.

This leaves seven hours unaccounted for. From two to three hours of the seven are used up in eating.

The remaining four or five are consumed in listening to the radio, going to the movies, playing golf, visiting, talking, reading or just plain sitting.

There will be general relief that these mysteries, after long and arduous research, have at last been cleared up—and we think that some suitable recognition ought to be given to the researchers.

Appointment to the Brain Trust, for instance.

In the Alphabet Soup

One fact about all the expensive bureaucracies at Washington which the taxpayer cannot overlook is this—SOMEBODY HAS GOT TO PAY THE BILLS.

And that somebody is going to be the taxpayer himself.

The NRA is costing bales of money. The AAA is costing other bales—and so on down the whole alphabetical list.

What must it all come to? As Richard Washburn Child pointed out recently in an article in the Hearst newspapers:

"FIRST—No government is any magic source of wealth. Down to a penny, whatever it pays it has to get OUT OF THE HIDE OF THE POPULATION.

"SECOND—No taxation—except inheritance taxes perhaps—has yet been devised that prevents the payer of taxes from distributing the loss to the whole population. The taxed landlord gets it from the tenants' rent. The taxed auto manufacturer gets it out of the customers' cars."

And how does that affect the average man with an earned income? In two ways:

First, he contributes to the cost of government in direct taxation, and, second, he contributes in higher prices, due to taxation, for every article that he and his family may buy.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

Hooray for the Good Old Ego!

You don't like conceited people. They get your goat. You don't know how to get along with them, do you? Maybe this will help. It's a tip to salesmen that I found in an old trade journal—

"Remember that the other fellow firmly believes in himself and that:

"His politics are the only politics.

"His car is the best for the price on the market, because it's a traveling vindication of his best judgment."

Cynical stuff? Yes, I know, it sounds like it. You'd hate to have to sell a bill of goods—or be sold one—on a line like that. "Flattery makes me sick," you say.

All right—but suppose you read those tips over again. There they are—eight expressions of that human ego which disgusts you so when you run up against it in the other fellow. But how about running up against it in yourself? Is there any one of those expressions which doesn't also apply to you?

Don't you, too, believe that your possessions and your philosophy of life are better than the next man's? Don't you, in spite of all your seeming humility and good sportsmanship, seek to believe that you can outsmart the average human? Of course, you do.

AND WHAT WOULD HAPPEN TO YOU IF YOU DIDN'T? WHAT WOULD HAPPEN TO ANY OF US?

You dislike egotism. You hate it in your neighbor and are secretly ashamed of it in yourself. Yet isn't every worthwhile human accomplishment based on egotism? And wouldn't we all get ahead much faster and work together much more happily if we'd respect and co-operate with ego instead of sneering at it?

We say, "That fellow's awfully egotistical; he's in love with himself." But that doesn't follow. Being egotistical and being in love with one's self are two entirely different things. We're all egotistical But we aren't all in love with ourselves. We're in love with someone the world has never seen—with much braver, finer, smarter persons than those poor creatures whom the neighbors call by our names.

Just what is "ego"? It isn't vanity or conceit. It isn't pride of birth or achievement. It is something much deeper than these things. Ego is the deepest thing there is in any human's spirit—the very core of his character. It is the thing around which every ambition centers, upon which every act is based.

EGO IS ALL THAT A MAN KNOWS OF GOD . . . ALL THAT HE DREAMS OF GOD.

You know that is true about yourself. You know that, no matter how low you sink in the eyes of the world, there would still be something true and strong within you — something untouched by your cowardice and cussedness—something worth believing in and fighting for. Always you have felt this about yourself—that you are better than you seemed. And you have felt hurt and angered at other people because they would not believe in this finer you and give it a hand.

There's the truth about YOUR ego. But it's also the truth about that ego which you find so puzzling and unpleasant in the Other Man and the Other Woman. They, too, have secret, finer selves, and are better people than they seem. And when they strut about their achievements or boast about their possessions or repeat silly compliments that have been paid them they aren't really interested in proving to you that they have a better "safety razor" or a prettier instep. They're really trying to defend and reveal that secret, nobler self which they fail so pitifully to express in their daily acts.

You don't like conceited people? You don't know how to get along with them? Believe in them—that's how.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

Selling Out Love

Our grandfathers and grandmothers made the mistake of keeping their best clothes for Sunday and their best linen and silver locked away in the closet. But they did not make the mistake of keeping young love on ice or deferring marriage until their hearts had atrophied or their arteries had begun to harden.

This modern custom of deferring marriage until you can afford a smart car or a show-wedding or a honeymoon trip is just cheating yourself out of life's greatest adventure—Young Love! Why should two people, who are perfectly SURE of their love and who are earning enough to subsist on, wait until all the glamor has worn off their romance before signing the necessary slip of paper and beginning life together?

Marriage may be an economic problem, but it is one which is easily solved in these days, when two pay envelopes can blossom where there used to be only one, and when a wife can be an asset financially, instead of a liability. The modern bridegroom doesn't have to listen to any of that "Can-you-support - my-daughter-in-the-style-to-which-she-is-accustomed" stuff, with which poor Grandfather was tormented and bullied.

* * *

These are grim days, when the sooner a girl realizes that she was not born to be a household pet or a parlor ornament, but to be some man's TEAMMATE, the happier she'll be. The days of the mollusc, the toy-wife and the harem-wife are over—and the sooner women face that fact, the better.

* * *

The woman who is not willing to face poverty and struggle with a man, in these days, is not the wife for THAT man. The man who is too selfish to sacrifice some of his bachelor luxuries and amusements in order to marry a woman is not the husband for that woman. There is not enough LOVE in their mutual bank account to marry on. They will always be love paupers.

The girl who is putting off marriage until she finds a millionaire will have to buy a microscope with which to look for him. Because millionaires are becoming scarcer and scarcer. And most of them are old enough to creak at the joints, anyhow. By the time a man makes a million, he is usually too busy counting his calories, worrying about his blood pressure and thinking about his stocks and bonds and golf score to be a very thrilling and ecstatic bridegroom.

It is far easier for two young people, who are glamourously and rapturously in love with each other, to bear poverty together than it is to bear it alone. If you miss the springtime of life together, you are missing something that will never return—life's highest, sweetest and most dazzling adventure!

* * *

"I sometimes wonder what the vintners buy—one-half so precious as the thing they sell," chanted old Omar. And I sometimes wonder what these cautious young lovers expect to buy, one-half so precious as the golden youth they sell. For, long-deferred marriages are only dead sea fruit.

PASSING THE BLAME

By Winifred Black

There was a great cyclone in the southwest the other day, and the whole state of Texas was for a time in dreadful terror.

They know a good deal about high winds and wild waters down in Texas, just as they know about the burning heat in Kansas and Missouri.

Pretty hot in the big towns all over the country from the Rocky Mountains to the Atlantic, so the newspapers say.

The people have been frying and broiling and stewing for weeks and last winter it was so very cold. People froze to death, in their forlorn rooms or cowered shivering in the bleak alleys and forgot that there was anything in life but suffering.

And all this, mind you, had nothing in the world to do with either capital or labor.

That makes it a little discouraging, doesn't it?

It isn't quite so hard to take misfortune and hard knocks if you can just blame somebody or something for them.

Wall street—that's a great relief.

And the bankers—you could grit your teeth and catch a long breath of courage to go on with the fight, if you can just get mad enough about Wall street and the capitalists.

A little man came to the door the other day, selling long strips of lavender woven together with rather a musty bit of purple ribbon.

He looked so ill and forlorn that no one could have resisted buying his lavender, and he was a clean, respectable looking man, too.

So we asked him into the garden and we all had a cup of coffee and a sandwich together, and he told us where he got the lavender and how he came to think he could support himself and his little family by selling it.

He drew such a picture of himself and his humble way of life that you could just see him starting out every morning with a little hope in the core of his heart . . . just a little, but it was there.

Perhaps he could get regular customers and know somewhere near where his meager living was coming from.

And then all at once he spoke of capital.

It was capital that was to blame for all his troubles. Wall street and the bankers, oh, if he could only deal with them! Poor little man, his eyes blazed with exultant fury.

I was quite intrigued with his desperate belief that some fat man far away was to blame because he had been hungry so long.

And maybe he was right, too, poor fellow, but somehow when you read of these droughts and these terrible storms and the great ravaging fires that tear through the beautiful forests and leave nothing but the black skeletons of the beautiful trees, you realize that there are some calamities which have not been brought about by Wall street or capital in any one of the hydra-headed forms—and you wonder.

Well, anyhow, we bought the little man's lavender, the whole pitiful basket of it and he walked away as if he trod upon air, and it almost seemed as if you could hear him whistle a forlorn little tune as he went.

Maybe we helped to turn his luck—who knows.

Human Side of the News

By Edwin C. Hill

If the NRA used up all the alphabets in the world, including the Sanskrit, it could not regiment a three letter word meaning "balance of nature." The word is bug. If the above definition is stretched a bit, it is, at any rate, figuratively apt, for these spawning legions of insect life, swiftly adaptive in their myriad generations, do indeed form a determinant of life forces of the deepest import to that more complex but adaptive organism known as man.

Almost every day news dispatches from the Middle West and the South bring word of new incursions of insects in the blasted drought area, as the failing resistance of the plant world allows the enemy to advance. Species supposedly extinct are identified, and others, rare and venturing far from headquarters, are out for loot in far territories.

Man precariously holds his little thrones, powers and dominions. In the wake of war, economic breakdown and drought, life's underworld presses forward menacingly. It is always there, always ready to strike. Even in man's happy ascendancy in the recent years of the big foolishness, insects in the United States were destroying annually the work of 1,000,000 men.

A Question Which Will Win

Several years ago Dr. L. O. Howard, head of the Bureau of Entomology of the United States Department of Agriculture, published a startling book, in which he concluded it was just about a toss-up as to whether insects would some day conquer man and rule the world. I happened to mention this the other day to one of my good friends who happens to be an ardent Republican, campaigning aggressively against the administration. He pondered the idea gloomily for a moment, and then his face lit up with happy reassurance.

"Can't happen, he said briskly. "The Republican party will be back in before then."

But since the days when primitive man fought and vanquished huge jungle beasts, his ascendancy has been forever assailed, always by a smaller and smaller challenger. The mammoths succumbed to smaller and more agile breeds—speeds, adaptiveness and reproducing capacity have had survival values still unmatched by the mammoth man, with his brain, his tools and his chemistry.

Julian Huxley, grandson of the great English scientist who so brilliantly supplemented and advanced Darwin's evolutionary thesis, has revealed man's impasse, as he disturbs the balance of nature. The great fields of corn and beets and grain provide banquets for bugs undreamed of by the most visionary Utopian bug. "Skinny! Come on over," yells little Johnny Neuropteroid. They swarm over in legion and a new engagement is on.

Nature, according to Mr. Huxley, plays all living creatures clear across the board and they would all come through if man doesn't interfere with her plan. Taking the earth and the fullness thereof, just as it is, there is a sort of bio-dynamics—a resultant of forces which makes an equilibrium. There is, in all creatures, mobility and adaptiveness, as well as recuperative and defensive powers and, under Queensbury rules, with no holds barred, man with his brain, his capacity for storing wealth and a widely decentralized agriculture, ought to get the decision—up to a certain point.

It is when he takes a Mississippi Valley and sets out a 10-course dinner that he draws the winged, fanged and predacious gate crashers. And that is when he spoils the whole plan of Nature, for when she makes a Dillinger of the insect world, she also gets up a Purvis to get on his trail, but the bug policeman, as well as all sorts of innocent and possibly useful bystanders, get knocked over in the chemical warfare which is now in counter attack, and all in all, it's like prying into the wheels of a watch with a cold chisel.

Insects Travel By Airplane

The Bureau of Entomology, splendidly equipped in brains and resources, carries on its chemical warfare. A decade or two ago, there was great promise in this—and it is still man's best weapon against insects—but the proportion of insect life under chemical control is still small and any gain is apt to be offset by a loss.

For instance, it looked as if the airplane, dusting poison on the fields, might settle this bug business once for all, but the fact is that the airplane and the automobile have vastly increased the mobility and fighting range of the insects. They ride both carriers to green fields far away.

When the Mediterranean fly landed in Florida from the Bahamas several years ago, there was pretty good evidence that it had been carried on the straw used to wrap bootleggers' bottles of liquor transported by airplane. Automobiles, of course, are a boon to the bugs in helping them break home ties—to go West or East and grow up with the country.

Plant a delphinium in your garden and you are apt to find a weed you never saw before, disguised like a delphinium and snuggled up close to it, as if it had the conscious hope that you would pull up the delphinium and let the weed stay—which you are quite apt to do. Thus, in the outlaw world of both weeds and insects there are clever adaptations, protective colorings, endless artifice and fiendish resource.

Just now the Bureau of Entomology has some samples of a bug from India which has a little nozzle on its forehead with which it squirts acid on its enemies—real acid which eats iron. It is commonplace knowledge that several species of insects have established property rights, set the metes and bounds of ownership and develop social systems—particularly the hypmenoptera, or ants, bees and wasps.

William Blake, contemplating the murderous tiger, wondered "what hand or eye could frame thy fearful symmetry." Is it a maker force which fashions an acid-throwing insect? Or is it merely the fact that anything goes when survival is at stake?

At any rate, man has survived by circumventing nature, whatever one may think of her beneficence, which he does when he burns coal or makes ice or wears clothes or stores up food or filches her energies, or makes a machine, and, regardless of Dr. Howard and his foreboding about the bugs, the scientists pick man to win in the long run.

Personally, I string with the poets and the prophets—sharing with Shelley a belief in some "high destiny" of the human soul.

War Unlikely in Orient Before Next Year

By James T. Williams, Jr.

In spite of the angry diplomatic exchanges now going on between Russia and Japan over the Chinese Eastern Railway, advices to Washington from its own observers in Russia and Japan agree that there is not much likelihood of war in the Far East before next year.

One reason for this view is based upon the knowledge that the extensive program for modernizing of the Japanese army which is now being carried out will not be completed until 1935. And unless Russia should force the issue, the probability seems to be that Japan would prefer to wait until her army is completely modernized before she clashes with her old enemy on the continent of Asia.

Russia in the meantime is increasing her armaments and striving to strengthen her diplomatic position with other powers, encouraged by the resumption of relations with the United States.

Peace Disturbed By Many Incidents

According to a statement covering the period from January 1 to August 6, 1934, by M. Rudi, general manager of the Soviet Manchukuo Railway Board, the following "incidents" are alleged to have disturbed the peace along the route of the Chinese Eastern Railway:

"Sixteen trains wrecked by 'planned' damage to the tracks; 91 armed raids on railway stations and barracks; 116 railway employes arrested or kidnaped; nine bridges damaged; 46 murders, including nine of railway agents; 102 persons injured, including 83 railway agents; 42 robberies of railway employes; 22 cases of arson affecting railway property; 21 locomotives and 207 coaches damaged; total physical losses of three hundred thousand gold rubles, apart from loss of revenue."

Japan's list of grievances has yet to be broadcast. It is not surprising that freight traffic over this railway has dropped to a minimum since China's right to half a share in the management was taken over by the government of Manchukuo.

By vigorously protesting alleged lawless acts on the part of Japan along the line of the railway in dispute, Russia hopes to mobilize world opinion against Japan and assure herself a free hand when she finally decides or is forced to resort to the sword to achieve her purposes.

Last spring, when negotiations regarding the railway were revived, there appeared to be good prospects that the dispute would be peaceably adjusted. When these negotiations became deadlocked early in August the governments had come within 30,000,000 yen of agreeing to the purchase price. Russia had come down in her price from 620,000,000 yen to 160,000,000 yen and the Japanese offer for the railway had been increased from 50,000,000 to 150,000,000 yen.

Japan's Offer Called Final

When Japan made this offer it was clearly intimated that it was final. It was rejected by Russia on August 13 and on the same day began the series of arrests of Russian subjects by the police of the Manchukuo government, charged with plotting to assassinate officials of the Japanese and Manchukuo governments that has so aroused the Russian government in the last few days.

In this Far Eastern dispute the United States has no direct interest. It is a dispute that may lead to war. The fact that it has finally provoked an angry exchange of notes between Russia and Japan proves once more how futile the League of Nations and the Kellogg-Briand Treaty are when two great nations engage in a quarrel of this kind. As long as the dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway continues to bedevil the relations of Russia and Japan it is obviously absurd to expect that these two governments will consent to reduce or limit armaments or pay any attention to the mandates of the League of Nations.
